POLAND PREPARES TO GIVE FIRM ANSWER TO HITLER

VERSAILLES PACT GRADUALLY TORN APART BY HITLER

Germany Now Greater Territorially Than Before World War Started

LEAGUE OF NATIONS NO LONGER EFFECTIVE FORCE

Nazi Fuehrer Still Making Demands For Return Of Colonies

By Associated Press

Twenty years ago yesterday the last of the German delegates reached Versailles for the World war peace conference, their car windows smashed en route by anti-German demonstrators.

Two months and one day later the treaty of Versailles was signed in the hall of mirrors.

Twenty-six nations on the one side signed the pact for a "firm, just and durable peace." Germany signed as the party of the other side. President Woodrow Wilson signed for the United States but a separate peace was negotiated after the senate failed to ratify the pact.

Adolf Hitler, an Austrian-born corporal in the German army during the war, was unknown beyond a tiny circle.

Yet it was he, the architect of modern Germany, who largely destroyed the treaty of Versailles.

Only Friday in his address to the reichstag he proclaimed:

"Providence has granted that I might fulfill my life's task—to raise my German people up out of the depth of defeat and to liberate it from the bonds of the most infamous dictate of all times, for this alone has been the aim of my actions."

What bonds has Germany struck away and what bonds still remain?

Territorially, Germany proper today is larger than her pre-war size despite the fact that she has not regained all the land she lost under the treaty of Versailles.

That pact took away from her 31,500

CHURCHES' UNION 'ACCOMPLISHED'

Two Bishops Will Be Installed In Joint, Colorful Consecration Service

KANSAS CITY, April 29.—(AP)—Unification of the Methodist church was called an "accomplished fact" today by a majority of bishops of the three hitherto separate branches.

Their opinion was announced by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of Omaha, as the prelates prepared to act jointly in a consecration service tomorrow.

The ceremony will install as bishops of the united Church Dr. James H. Straughn of Baltimore and Dr. John Calvin Broomfield, of Pittsburgh, elected this week as the first bishops in the 111-year history of the Methodist Protestant church.

Watching the service—more colorful than those previously held by the Methodist Episcopal church and Methodist Episcopal Church, South—will be the 900 delegates who this week began working out a system of government for the new church.

While the bishops declared unification "accomplished" with only details left to be worked out, the conference judiciary committee declined to give a formal opinion on the subject, members terming it "unnecessary."

Meanwhile, a reliable conference source reported a letter criticizing the union movement had been returned to Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, Va., its author and the only bishop outspoken against the single church plan.

The letter was addressed to the conference but its contents were not disclosed.

Bishop Denny was reported in sympathy with a group of southern church laymen said still to be planning legal action against certain phases of unification.

COTTON SHIPPERS FEAR BOLL WORM

Think Pest May Spread To Entire Belt With 'Disastrous Results'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 29.—(AP)—The American Cotton Shippers association heard one of its committees report today that the pink bollworm now infesting part of south Texas may spread to the entire cotton belt with "disastrous consequences."

The committee on insect control recommended that a campaign be inaugurated between the governments of Mexico and the United States to plan a program of eradication and control. It urged, too, that the agriculture appropriations bill carry adequate funds to enlarge the scope of pink bollworm control.

Ending its two-day annual meeting, the convention elected Marx Anthony of Dallas, Tex., as its president, succeeding Harmon Whittington of Houston. Other officers named were J. R. Lindsay, Greenville, S. C., first-vice-president; R. C. Dickerson, Memphis, second vice-president, and D. W. Brooks, Memphis, treasurer.

Taking cognizance of complaints about the quality of ginning of some American cotton, the association endorsed a committee recommendation that a ginning laboratory similar to the one now located at Stoneville, Miss., be established in the western section of the cotton belt.

The shippers also urged establishment of a federal cotton improvement corporation, or some similar agency, for bettering the staple quality of American cotton. They declared themselves "unalterably opposed" to the erection and maintenance of state trade barriers.

"The cotton south as a whole is unaware of the threat of invasion of the entire cotton belt by the pink bollworm," it was reported. "It appears that it is entirely possible right now that the pink bollworm has 'got loose' and that the cotton belt may be in for disastrous consequences by comparison with which the boll weevil damage, as bad as that is, will not be a circumstance."

CENTENARY COLLEGE BURGLAR GETS $350

SHREVEPORT, April 29.—(AP)—Apparently working the combination, a burglar or burglars entered the safe in the office of Centenary college last night, and stole approximately $350 in cash, abandoning a number of checks and small change.

The robbery was discovered this morning by Sam Randolph, assistant bursar, when he opened the safe, which had been locked after the haul.

The door to the office was entered by prizing it with a screwdriver. The tool was later found in the office of Dr. Pierce Cline, Centenary college president.

Most of the money stolen represented receipts from tuitions and college book store, which were received after the banks closed yesterday. The loss was covered by insurance, Dr. Cline said.

SHRINE BANQUET SCHEDULED HERE

Event Preliminary To Silver Anniversary Celebration Of El Karubah

Preliminary to a silver anniversary celebration of El Karubah temple, Order of the Shrine, domiciled at Shreveport, to be held there Friday, May 12, members and former members of the temple residing in northeast Louisiana will attend a banquet to be held in Monroe at the Lotus club Wednesday night at 7 o'clock.

The banquet here is expected to create interest in the forthcoming celebration to mark the 25th anniversary of El Karubah temple and is expected to result in substantial increase in the temple membership through reinstatement of former members.

It was announced that an invitation to attend the banquet here is extended to present members, those who have had to drop out because of financial reasons, and nobles of other temples who happen to be in this territory."

There are two temples of the Shrine in Louisiana, one at New Orleans and one at Shreveport. With the revival of economic conditions and the launching of a movement to expand the membership of the Shrine over the nation, El Karubah temple is joining the movement to return as many former members as possible to membership in the Shrine.

In 1913, at Dallas, Tex., at the national Shrine convention, dispensation was granted for the operation of El Karubah temple of Shreveport. On May 12, 1914, at the national convention at Atlanta, Ga., a charter was granted the temple. In the following year, on April 28, 1915, the temple conducted its first Monroe ceremonial, the first it conducted anywhere outside of Shreveport.

FROLICSOME COWS GRIEF TO POLICE

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—(AP)—Two frolicsome cows with a taste for the night lights, taken by police early this morning in a wild ride o'er frontyard and backyard, were brought to the station house, locked in a cell and booked today with "roaming at large."

Sorrowfully they peered through the bars and mooed a repentant moo.

Sergeant Charles Hartman, rubbing the shiny part of his trousers, scowled back at them and muttered.

The sergeant's bruises weren't serious, however, for the one who connected had no horns. The sergeant was really sore, he said, because she had clipped him from behind.

It was strictly against the rules and regulations, he indicated; so likewise was pursuing cows through geranium beds with a radio car.

As far as the sergeant was concerned, the first class residential neighborhood had seen its last roundup and the empty saddles could expect no more refillments from the police department.

Later a dairyman laid claim to the strays. Transferring the charges, police booked him with allowing cattle to roam at large. Then their cell door swung open and the lowing girls wound slowly out of jail.

In their large eyes was nothing but remorse.

STATEMENT WILL BE DIRECTED TO SOVIET EMBASSY

Fliers, Joined On Island By Compatriot, Refuse To Discuss Crash

PAIR WILL LEAVE CRAFT FOR FIRST TIME TODAY

Will Be Flown To Moncton Where They Will Board Big Chartered Plane

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—Freezing of the plane's radio compass and exhaustion of the fliers' oxygen supply caused the two Soviet airmen en route from Moscow to New York to decide on a forced landing on Miscou island, off New Brunswick, Canada, Soviet officials said tonight.

Constantine Oumansky, charge d'affaires of the Soviet embassy at Washington, announced at flight headquarters here that these reasons were given by Brigadier General Vladimir Kokkinaki, the pilot, in a telephone conversation with him.

MISCOU ISLAND, N. B., April 29.—(AP)—Comforted by rescuers but steadfastly refusing to talk about their ill-starred venture, two Soviet airmen maintained a close vigil tonight at their big red monoplane which cracked up in an attempted non-stop flight from Moscow to New York.

Brigadier General Vladimir Kokkinaki, the ace pilot, and his radio operator-navigator, Major Mikhail Gordienko, refused to leave on rescue ships which flew to this sparsely-settled island at the northeastern tip of New Brunswick.

They were joined by a compatriot, Peter Baranov, chief engineer of the Amtorg Trading corporation, and Dr. Louis S. Specter of New York, who will remain on the island until the aviators are taken off tomorrow in separate flights in a light plane.

The mystery surrounding the forced landing, at first believed due to engine trouble, became deeper when Baranov, after a quick conference in Russian with the aviators, said his report would be sent to the Russian embassy in Washington and he would have nothing to say here about the flight.

General Kokkinaki and Major Gordienko left Moscow Thursday night, intending to reach New York in a single hop in time for the opening of the World's fair Sunday. They cracked up in the half-frozen tundra of Miscou island last night, 700 miles from their goal.

The general suffered two broken ribs in the forced landing but his assistant escaped with a slightly wrenched back. Dr. Specter gave General Kokkinaki emergency treatment and the pilot soon took charge of making arrangements for leaving the island.

Apparently noting the skillful landing of a light rescue plane by a Moncton aviator, Joseph Anderson, General Kokkinaki asked Anderson to fly here tomorrow at 8 a.m., eastern standard time, to take him to Moncton, where a huge chartered monoplane from New York is awaiting. He declined an offer by the pilot of a Royal Canadian air force flying boat to take the pair to Halifax, N. S.

The narrow cow pasture in which Anderson must land precludes rescue of more than two of the men at a time so the Moncton aviator will be required to make two trips for the fliers and their companions.

The Russian pilot asked Inspector John Bird, of the Canadian mounted

Bleeders Helped Greatly By Hat-Cleaning Fluid

By Howard Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor)

TORONTO, April 29.—A startling discovery that the common hat-cleaning fluid and ink remover, oxalic acid, stops the "royal curse" hemophilia and all other kinds of hemorrhage was announced here today.

The report was made to the Federation of American Scientists for Experimental Biology by Arthur Steinberg and William R. Brown of Kensington hospital, Philadelphia.

At first the assembled biologists gasped in surprise and refused to believe. Oxalic acid is a poison and is known, in test tubes, to do exactly the opposite of helping blood to clot quickly.

Even when the Philadelphians disclosed that more than 500 humans, in more than a dozen large hospitals, have had their hemorrhages stopped, and in some cases their lives saved, with oxalic acid, the biologists continued skeptical.

The fact that a tiny amount of acid injected into a living body acted exactly the opposite from its test tube ways was finally demonstrated before the eyes of a group of doubters. They went to a University of Toronto laboratory, where acid was taken from the shelf, injected into a rabbit and reduced the animal's blood clotting time from two-and-a-half minutes down to one-and-a-half. Hemophilia has been called the "curse of kings" and "curse of the Hapsburgs" because it is common in the Hapsburg royal family and to some extent in the Spanish and the Russian royal lines.

Six American hemophiliacs, the report stated, had their time of stopping

MANUFACTURERS PROPOSE PLAN

Lower Business Taxes And Labor Act Amendments Included In Proposals

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers advanced tonight a five-point recovery program calling for lower business taxes, amendment of the labor laws, encouragement for industrial financing, maintenance of a "sound currency" and no immediate increase in social security taxes.

Howard Coonley, president of the association, said, however, that "no single modification or repeal of legislative enactment" would bring recovery.

"What is needed above all else," he asserted, "is a clear, definite, and unequivocal recognition by the national government that business and private enterprise are the necessary basis of future prosperity and progress and that they must, therefore, be preserved, protected and encouraged.

"American industry will continue to do all it can to expand operations and provide jobs. There are, however, definite obstacles in the road which prevent that effort from getting as far as it should. They must be removed if American progress is to be resumed after a nine-year interruption.

"American industry welcomes every opportunity to cooperate with all those who seek to increase business operations and employment, whether purely by private efforts or by the establishment and maintenance of sound governmental attitudes and policies."

Noting that the house ways and means committee voted yesterday in favor of deferring the 50 per cent increase in the old age pension tax scheduled for next year, the association said it sincerely hoped congress would approve the recommendation.

As to general business taxes, it expressed belief first of all that ordinary government expenses could be lowered 20 per cent and that lower rates would so stimulate business that there would be no loss in tax revenue.

The Wagner act, the association said, should be amended because "the

Duce Announces Plan To Expand Army Of Italy

ROME, April 29.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini announced today a further expansion of the Italian army in what fascists regarded as a counter move against British-French efforts to form an extensive European alliance.

The program included an increase in the size of the army, which now totals 1,250,000 men, purchase of additional equipment, and the strengthening of frontier fortifications and coast defenses.

The cost of the program was not announced, but informed fascists said it would be "considerable," that it would be included in an extraordinary ten-year budget and that new revenue raising measures were likely to be announced soon.

The authoritative Editor Virginio Gayda in Il Giornale D'Italia described Il Duce's announcement today

CLAIMS RAISED ON PENDERGAST

Grand Jury Charges He Failed By $443,550 To Report Full Income

KANSAS CITY, April 29.—(AP)—The federal government raised its claims on Boss Tom Pendergast today in a grand jury indictment charging he failed by $443,550 to report his full income for 1935 and 1936.

An accusation that he received unreported income from business interests under names of other persons was listed in the new indictment against the man who rose from a saloon bookkeeper of the '90s to the head of a democratic organization that has swung many state elections.

Previously, on April 7, the grand jury charged that Pendergast failed to report $315,000 he was alleged to have received in connection with the compromise of a $9,500,000 state insurance case. Today's indictment took in that earlier figure, raising the basis for government tax claims by $128,550.

Pendergast, who attributed his success in politics to the fact he handled city organization as a business, is accused in the indictments of paying only $25,946 in taxes for 1935-36 but in reality now owing the government $437,316 in taxes and penalties, as well as interest.

Even as the new blow fell, the city government which Pendergast's organization has dominated without in-

DAMAGES DENIED IN SLAYING CASE

SHREVEPORT, April 29.—(AP)—A court of appeal decision handed down here denied damages to Mrs. Pearl Welch, of Sondheimer, East Carroll parish, in her suit against Henry L. Van Valkenburgh.

C. I. O. CLAIMS A. F. L. 'AIDED'

Asserts Proposed Wagner Act Amendments Drawn By Manufacturers Association

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—The C. I. O. offered today to furnish the senate labor committee "documentary proof" that Wagner act amendments sponsored by the A. F. L. were drafted with the aid of the National Association of Manufacturers.

In an open letter to the committee, John L. Lewis, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said:

"I charge publicly that these amendments recommended by Mr. Green (William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor) and his associates have been prepared with the aid, advice and counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers and of several of the most reactionary and anti-labor corporations of the country."

Green promptly branded Lewis' charge untrue.

"There is not one word of truth in the allegation," he said. "I challenge Mr. Lewis to prove his charges."

Representatives of the manufacturers association said the organization had no comment.

Green is to testify before the committee today. In his letter, Lewis suggested a set of questions for the committee to ask the A. F. L. leader. Among them were these:

"Will Mr. Green and his associates disclose the names of the corporate representatives with whom they conferred in connection with the amendments?

"Are the corporations whose repre-

MILK SHIPPERS MAY ASK FOR INJUNCTION

JACKSON, Miss., April 29.—(AP)—Mississippi officials today were considering applying for a federal injunction to protect shipments of Mississippi milk destined for New Orleans from seizure in Louisiana.

Asked by shippers of Wesson, Miss., to take action under interstate commerce laws, Attorney General Greek Rice said today that he was undecided whether the state could act.

Attorneys for dairy and creamery interests at Wesson conferred with attaches of the attorney general's office and were reported to have expressed the opinion that the state had the right to pursue the case.

Two shipments of hundreds of gallons of Mississippi milk were seized this week in Louisiana but the milk and trucks later were released.

H. G. Vernon, of Kentwood, chairman of the Louisiana milk commission, was quoted as saying the trucks were seized because the milk was not handled under standard requirements of Louisiana and that the Louisiana dairymen would not let the shipments go through.

H. A. Kroeze, sanitary engineer of the Mississippi state board of health, declared the Mississippi milk fully met the requirements and that the plants and operations had been inspected and approved by a representative of the New Orleans health department.

One report said the Mississippi dairymen were considering shipping their milk by train, instead of truck, until an agreement was reached between the two states.

PRESS LAUNCHES STRONG ATTACK UPON FUEHRER

Expected To Cite Aggression As Reason For Alliance With Britain And France

WARSAW, April 29.—(AP)—Poland, with her frontier defenses newly strengthened, was reported tonight to be planning a firm answer to Reichsfuehrer Hitler on Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish corridor).

Germany's demand for return of Danzig and for extra-territorial trade routes through Pomorze, as disclosed by Hitler in his reichstag speech yesterday, was expected to be answered by Foreign Minister Joseph Beck in his annual message to parliament next week.

Hitler's speech and the memorandum in which Poland was notified of his denunciation of the 1934 ten-year German-Polish non-aggression pact were studied by the foreign office and presumably discussed by a conference of high Polish leaders during the afternoon.

This conference was called by President Ignace Moscicki and attended by the chief of the army, Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, Premier General Felicjan Skladkowski and Beck.

It was believed Beck also would confer with the British and French ambassadors to inform them of his reply in advance.

Beck was expected to state that Hitler's absorption of Austria and Czecho-Slovakia made it necessary for Poland to strengthen her defense forces and form an alliance with Britain. These were the Polish actions cited by Hitler as the reasons for his denunciation of the non-aggression pact.

The war ministry inaugurated a series of precautionary measures along the borders, especially near Danzig. Poland already has an estimated 1,300,000 men under arms.

The Polish press, after getting official advice from the foreign office, opened a strong attack upon Hitler. His abrogation of the non-aggression pact, it was stated, "completely destroyed" all hopes of peaceful cooperation between the two countries.

The army scheduled demonstrations of air strength over all Polish cities for Sunday.

The German ambassador to Poland, Dr. Hans Adolf von Moltke, who has been absent from his post since April 5, was reported to be planning to return to Warsaw Monday.

THINK GERMANY FREE TO PUSH AGGRESSION

BERLIN, April 29.—(AP)—Nazis declared tonight that Reichsfuehrer Hitler's denunciation of the German-Polish non-aggression treaty had freed Germany of all contractual reasons barring her from taking back the free city of Danzig.

(Hitler considers the Versailles treaty by which Germany lost Danzig as no longer valid.)

Informed quarters expressed belief that the fuehrer's reichstag speech yesterday, in answer to President Roosevelt's peace appeal, again pointed to the free city as the next big problem Hitler may tackle.

He was represented as watching closely for world reaction to his denunciation of the 10-year accord with Poland, signed in 1934, as well as his termination of the 1935 naval treaty with Britain.

But he found time to attempt further consolidation of Nazi friendship with Hungary, Germany's closest collaborator in central Europe. Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleky and his foreign minister, Count Stephen Csaky, were the fuerher's guests at a state

Event Preliminary To Silver Anniversary Celebration Of El Karubah

Preliminary to a silver anniversary celebration of El Karubah temple, Order of the Shrine, domiciled at Shreveport, to be held there Friday, May 12, members and former members of the temple residing in northeast Louisiana will attend a banquet to be held in Monroe at the Lotus club Wednesday night at 7 o'clock.

The banquet here is expected to create interest in the forthcoming celebration to mark the 25th anniversary of El Karubah temple, and is expected to result in substantial increase in the temple membership through reinstatement of former members.

It was announced that an invitation to attend the banquet here is extended "to present members, those who have had to drop out because of financial reasons, and nobles of other temples who happen to be in this territory."

There are two temples of the Shrine in Louisiana, one at New Orleans and one at Shreveport. With the revival of economic conditions and the launching of a movement to expand the membership of the Shrine over the nation, El Karubah temple is joining the movement to return as many former members as possible to membership in the Shrine.

In 1913, at Dallas, Tex., at the national Shrine convention, dispensation was granted for the operation of El Karubah temple of Shreveport. On May 12, 1914, at the national convention at Atlanta, Ga., a charter was granted the temple. In the following year, on April 28, 1915, the temple conducted its first Monroe ceremonial, the first it conducted anywhere outside of Shreveport.

FROLICSOME COWS GRIEF TO POLICE

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—(AP)—Two frolicsome cows with a taste for the night lights, taken by police early this morning in a wild ride o'er frontyard and backyard, were brought to the station house, locked in a cell and booked today with "roaming at large."

Sorrowfully they peered through the bars and mooed a repentant moo.

Sergeant Charles Hartman, rubbing the shiny part of his trousers, scowled back at them and muttered.

The sergeant's bruises weren't serious, however, for the one who connected had no horns. The sergeant was really sore, he said, because she had clipped him from behind.

It was strictly against the rules and regulations, he indicated; so likewise was pursuing cows through geranium beds with a radio car.

As far as the sergeant was concerned, the first class residential neighborhood had seen its last roundup and the empty saddles could expect no more refillments from the police department.

Later a dairyman laid claim to the strays. Transferring the charges, police booked him with allowing cattle to roam at large. Then their cell door swung open and the lowing girls wound slowly out of jail.

In their large eyes was nothing but remorse.

STATEMENT WILL BE DIRECTED TO SOVIET EMBASSY

Fliers, Joined On Island By Compatriot, Refuse To Discuss Crash

Will Be Flown To Moncton Where They Will Board Big Chartered Plane

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—Freezing of the plane's radio compass and exhaustion of the fliers' oxygen supply caused the two Soviet airmen en route from Moscow to New York to decide on a forced landing on Miscou island, off New Brunswick, Canada, Soviet officials said tonight.

Constantine Oumansky, charge d'affaires of the Soviet embassy at Washington, announced at flight headquarters here that these reasons were given by Brigadier General Vladimir Kokkinaki, the pilot, in a telephone conversation with him.

MISCOU ISLAND, N. B., April 29.—(AP)—Comforted by rescuers but steadfastly refusing to talk about their ill-starred venture, two Soviet airmen maintained a close vigil tonight at their big red monoplane which cracked up in an attempted non-stop flight from Moscow to New York.

Brigadier General Vladimir Kokkinaki, the ace pilot, and his radio operator-navigator, Major Mikhail Gordienko, refused to leave on rescue ships which flew to this sparsely-settled island at the northeastern tip of New Brunswick.

They were joined by a compatriot, Peter Baranov, chief engineer of the Amtorg Trading corporation, and Dr. Louis S. Specter of New York, who will remain on the island until the aviators are taken off tomorrow in separate flights in a light plane.

The mystery surrounding the forced landing—at first believed due to engine trouble—became deeper when Baranov, after a quick conference in Russian with the aviators, said his report would be sent to the Russian embassy in Washington and he would have nothing to say here about the flight.

General Kokkinaki and Major Gordienko left Moscow Thursday night, intending to reach New York in a single hop in time for the opening of the World's fair Sunday. They cracked up in the half-frozen tundra of Miscou island last night, 700 miles from their goal.

The general suffered two broken ribs in the forced landing but his assistant escaped with a slightly wrenched back. Dr. Specter gave General Kokkinaki emergency treatment and the pilot soon took charge of making arrangements for leaving the island.

Apparently noting the skillful landing of a light rescue plane by a Moncton aviator, Joseph Anderson, General Kokkinaki asked Anderson to fly here tomorrow at 8 a.m., eastern standard time, to take him to Moncton, where a huge chartered monoplane from New York is awaiting. He declined an offer by the pilot of a Royal Canadian air force flying boat to take the pair to Halifax, N. S.

The narrow cow pasture in which Anderson must land precludes rescue of more than two of the men at a time so the Moncton aviator will be required to make two trips for the fliers and their companions.

The Russian pilot asked Inspector John Bird, of the Canadian mounted

By Howard Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor)

TORONTO, April 29.—A startling discovery that the common hat-cleaning fluid and ink remover, oxalic acid, stops the "royal curse" hemophilia and all other kinds of hemorrhage was announced here today.

The report was made to the Federation of American Scientists for Experimental Biology by Arthur Steinberg and William R. Brown of Kensingston hospital, Philadelphia.

At first the assembled biologists gasped in surprise and refused to believe. Oxalic acid is a poison and is known, in test tubes, to do exactly the opposite of helping blood to clot quickly.

Even when the Philadelphians disclosed that more than 500 humans, in more than a dozen large hospitals, have had their hemorrhages stopped, and in some cases their lives saved, with oxalic acid, the biologists continued skeptical.

The fact that a tiny amount of acid injected into a living body acted exactly the opposite from its test tube ways was finally demonstrated before the eyes of a group of doubters. They went to a University of Toronto laboratory, where acid was taken from the shelf, injected into a rabbit and reduced the animal's blood clotting time from two-and-a-half minutes down to one-and-a-half. Hemophilia has been called the "curse of kings" and "curse of the Hapsburgs" because it is common in the Hapsburg royal family and to some extent in the Spanish and the Russian royal lines.

Six American hemophiliacs, the report stated, had their time of stopping

WOULD-BE BOMB-BANDIT HELD AT BIRMINGHAM

Carrying a crude dynamite bomb in a zipper bag, a well-dressed man entered a Birmingham, Ala., bank and demanded $250,000. As a policeman stepped forward to arrest him, he sought to set off the 10 sticks of explosive in the bag—but nothing happened, although the officer said he saw sparks fly. The would-be bomber, who identified himself as Albert Durrett of Nashville, Tenn., a real estate man, is shown wearing hat in the picture at the left. With him is Detective Jackson. In the picture at the right Chief of Detectives Luther Hollums examines the crude bomb.

MANUFACTURERS PROPOSE PLAN

Lower Business Taxes And Labor Act Amendments Included In Proposals

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers advanced tonight a five-point recovery program calling for lower business taxes, amendment of the labor laws, encouragement for industrial financing, maintenance of a "sound currency" and no immediate increase in social security taxes.

Howard Coonley, president of the association, said, however, that "no single modification or repeal of legislative enactment" would bring recovery.

"What is needed above all else," he asserted, "is a clear, definite, and unequivocal recognition by the national government that business and private enterprise are the necessary basis of future prosperity and progress and that they must, therefore, be preserved, protected and encouraged.

"American industry will continue to do all it can to expand operations and provide jobs. There are, however, definite obstacles in the road which prevent that effort from getting as far as it should. They must be removed if American progress is to be resumed after a nine-year interruption.

"American industry welcomes every opportunity to cooperate with all those who seek to increase business operations and employment, whether purely by private efforts or by the establishment and maintenance of sound governmental attitudes and policies."

Noting that the house ways and means committee voted yesterday in favor of deferring the 50 per cent increase in the old age pension tax scheduled for next year, the association said it sincerely hoped congress would approve the recommendation.

As to general business taxes, it expressed belief first of all that ordinary government expenses could be lowered 20 per cent and that lower rates would so stimulate business that there would be no loss in tax revenue.

The Wagner act, the association said, should be amended because "the

Duce Announces Plan To Expand Army Of Italy

ROME, April 29.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini announced today a further expansion of the Italian army in what fascists regarded as a counter move against British-French efforts to form an extensive European alliance.

The program included an increase in the size of the army, which now totals 1,250,000 men, purchase of additional equipment, and the strengthening of frontier fortifications and coast defenses.

The cost of the program was not announced, but informed fascists said it would be "considerable," that it would be included in an extraordinary ten-year budget and that new revenue raising measures were likely to be announced soon.

The authoritative Editor Virginio Gayda in Il Giornale D'Italia described Il Duce's announcement today

CLAIMS RAISED ON PENDERGAST

Grand Jury Charges He Failed By $443,550 To Report Full Income

KANSAS CITY, April 29.—(AP)—The federal government raised its claims on Boss Tom Pendergast today in a grand jury indictment charging he failed by $443,550 to report his full income for 1935 and 1936.

An accusation that he received unreported income from business interests under names of other persons was listed in the new indictment against the man who rose from a saloon bookkeeper of the '90s to the head of a democratic organization that has swung many state elections.

Previously, on April 7, the grand jury charged that Pendergast failed to report $315,000 he was alleged to have received in connection with the compromise of a $9,500,000 state insurance case. Today's indictment took in that earlier figure, raising the basis for government tax claims by $128,550.

Pendergast, who attributed his success in politics to the fact he handled city organization as a business, is accused in the indictments of paying only $25,946 in taxes for 1935-36 but in reality now owing the government $437,316 in taxes and penalties, as well as interest.

Even as the new blow fell, the city government which Pendergast's organization has dominated without in-

DAMAGES DENIED IN SLAYING CASE

SHREVEPORT, April 29.—(AP)—A court of appeal decision handed down here denied damages to Mrs. Pearl Welch, of Sondheimer, East Carroll parish, in her suit against Henry L. Van Valkenburgh.

Mrs. Welch alleged in the suit that Van Valkenburgh killed her husband on September 3, 1936, without lawful cause or justification. The court held the slaying to have been in self-defense. Van Valkenburgh was not indicted in connection with the killing, records showed.

C. I. O. CLAIMS A. F. L. 'AIDED'

Asserts Proposed Wagner Act Amendments Drawn By Manufacturers Association

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—The C. I. O. offered today to furnish the senate labor committee "documentary proof" that Wagner act amendments sponsored by the A. F. L. were drafted with the aid of the National Association of Manufacturers.

In an open letter to the committee, John L. Lewis, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said:

"I charge publicly that these amendments recommended by Mr. Green (William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor) and his associates have been prepared with the aid, advice and counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers and of several of the most reactionary and anti-labor corporations of the country."

Green promptly branded Lewis' charge untrue.

"There is not one word of truth in the allegation," he said. "I challenge Mr. Lewis to prove his charges."

Representatives of the manufacturers association said the organization had no comment.

Green is to testify before the committee today. In his letter, Lewis suggested a set of questions for the committee to ask the A. F. L. leader. Among them were these:

"Will Mr. Green and his associates disclose the names of the corporate representatives with whom they conferred in connection with the amendments?

"Are the corporations whose repre-

MILK SHIPPERS MAY ASK FOR INJUNCTION

JACKSON, Miss., April 29.—(AP)—Mississippi officials today were considering applying for a federal injunction to protect shipments of Mississippi milk destined for New Orleans from seizure in Louisiana.

Asked by shippers of Wesson, Miss., to take action under interstate commerce laws, Attorney General Greek Rice said today that he was undecided whether the state could act.

Attorneys for dairy and creamery interests at Wesson conferred with attaches of the attorney general's office and were reported to have expressed the opinion that the state had the right to pursue the case.

Two shipments of hundreds of gallons of Mississippi milk were seized this week in Louisiana but the milk and trucks later were released.

H. G. Vernon, of Kentwood, chairman of the Louisiana milk commission, was quoted as saying the trucks were seized because the milk was not handled under standard requirements of Louisiana and that the Louisiana dairymen would not let the shipments go through.

H. A. Kroeze, sanitary engineer of the Mississippi state board of health, declared the Mississippi milk fully met the requirements and that the plants and operations had been inspected and approved by a representative of the New Orleans health department.

One report said the Mississippi dairymen were considering shipping their milk by train, instead of truck, until an agreement was reached between the two states.

PRESS LAUNCHES STRONG ATTACK UPON FUEHRER

Expected To Cite Aggression As Reason For Alliance With Britain And France

WARSAW, April 29.—(AP)—Poland, with her frontier defenses newly strengthened, was reported tonight to be planning a firm answer to Reichsfuehrer Hitler on Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish corridor).

Germany's demand for return of Danzig and for extra-territorial trade routes through Pomorze, as disclosed by Hitler in his reichstag speech yesterday, was expected to be answered by Foreign Minister Joseph Beck in his annual message to parliament next week.

Hitler's speech and the memorandum in which Poland was notified of his denunciation of the 1934 ten-year German-Polish non-aggression pact were studied by the foreign office and presumably discussed by a conference of high Polish leaders during the afternoon.

This conference was called by President Ignace Moscicki and attended by the chief of the army, Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, Premier General Felicjan Skladkowski and Beck.

It was believed Beck also would confer with the British and French ambassadors to inform them of his reply in advance.

Beck was expected to state that Hitler's absorption of Austria and Czecho-Slovakia made it necessary for Poland to strengthen her defense forces and form an alliance with Britain. These were the Polish actions cited by Hitler as the reasons for his denunciation of the non-aggression pact.

The war ministry inaugurated a series of precautionary measures along the borders, especially near Danzig. Poland already has an estimated 1,300,000 men under arms.

The Polish press, after getting official advice from the foreign office, opened a strong attack upon Hitler. His abrogation of the non-aggression pact, it was stated, "completely destroyed" all hopes of peaceful cooperation between the two countries.

The army scheduled demonstrations of air strength over all Polish cities for Sunday.

The German ambassador to Poland, Dr. Hans Adolf von Moltke, who has been absent from his post since April 5, was reported to be planning to return to Warsaw Monday.

THINK GERMANY FREE TO PUSH AGGRESSION

BERLIN, April 29.—(AP)—Nazis declared tonight that Reichsfuehrer Hitler's denunciation of the German-Polish non-aggression treaty had freed Germany of all contractual reasons barring her from taking back the free city of Danzig.

(Hitler considers the Versailles treaty by which Germany lost Danzig as no longer valid.)

Informed quarters expressed belief that the fuehrer's reichstag speech yesterday, in answer to President Roosevelt's peace appeal, again pointed to the free city as the next big problem Hitler may tackle.

He was represented as watching closely for world reaction to his denunciation of the 10-year accord with Poland, signed in 1934, as well as his termination of the 1935 naval treaty with Britain.

But he found time to attempt further consolidation of Nazi friendship with Hungary, Germany's closest collaborator in central Europe. Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleky and his foreign minister, Count Stephen Csaky, were the fuerher's guests at a state

TOY CENTER FETE DRAWS BIG CROWD

St. Matthew's Band Plays Two-Hour Concert At Opening Of Library

Approximately 650 persons, including Mayor H. H. Benoit, guest of honor, other city officials, officers and members of civic and welfare organizations, but not including many school children who did not register as visitors, attended the formal opening of the WPA toy lending center, 137 South Grand street, Friday afternoon.

A feature of the celebration was a two-hour concert played by smartly uniformed St. Matthew's Parochial school band, under the direction of Bandmaster F. G. Butcher. Punch and cookies were served throughout the formal opening hours, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Many of the visitors expressed surprise over the factory appearance of the brightly gleaming toys and the wide variety of toys which have been made available for lending to children of needy families.

When the WPA toy shop, located in the same building, was inspected by the visitors, they were given an explanation of the factory finish. Veteran cabinet makers, who have available adequate tools of their profession, and artisans who have years of experience in sewing, painting and decoration, showed the visitors just how the attractive toys were produced from broken toys, scrap and new materials.

Camp Fire girls served as ushers and guides during the celebration. Greeting the visitors and discussing operation of the toy shop and toy lending center were Mrs. Mildred Taylor, area supervisor of the WPA professional and service projects division, Miss Lottie Farrar, active supervisor of the shop and lending center, and other members of working personnel.

Although no request had been made for contributions of toys and materials from which toys can be made, in connection with the formal opening, many contributions were made during the afternoon and Saturday morning.

It was announced that, beginning Monday, lending of the toys will begin. Children borrowing toys will be required to obtain their parents' or guardians' signatures to their toy library cards. It was also announced that each child may keep a borrowed toy for one week, and then turn it in and receive another toy. Each time a toy is returned it will be disinfected and repaired, the shop craftsmen and artisans keeping them in a perfect state of repair.

In connection with the success of the formal opening, Mrs. Taylor issued the following statement:

"We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to our sponsor and mayor, the city of Monroe and Mr. Benoit, to the various organizations which sent their offcers or other representatives to extend felicitations and pledges of continued support, to the local newspapers and especial thanks for their noteworthy contribution to the formal opening are extended members of the St. Matthew's Parochial school band, to their bandmaster, Mr. Butcher, and to officials of the school."

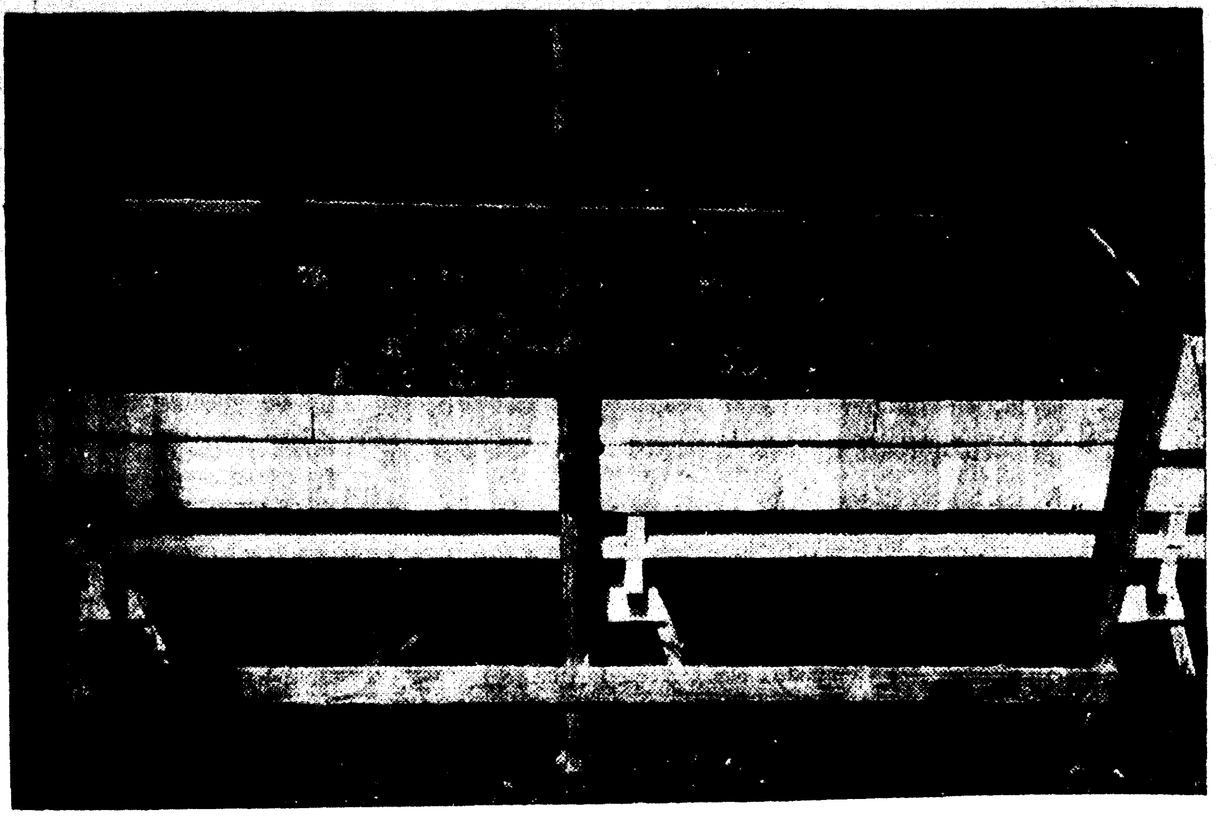
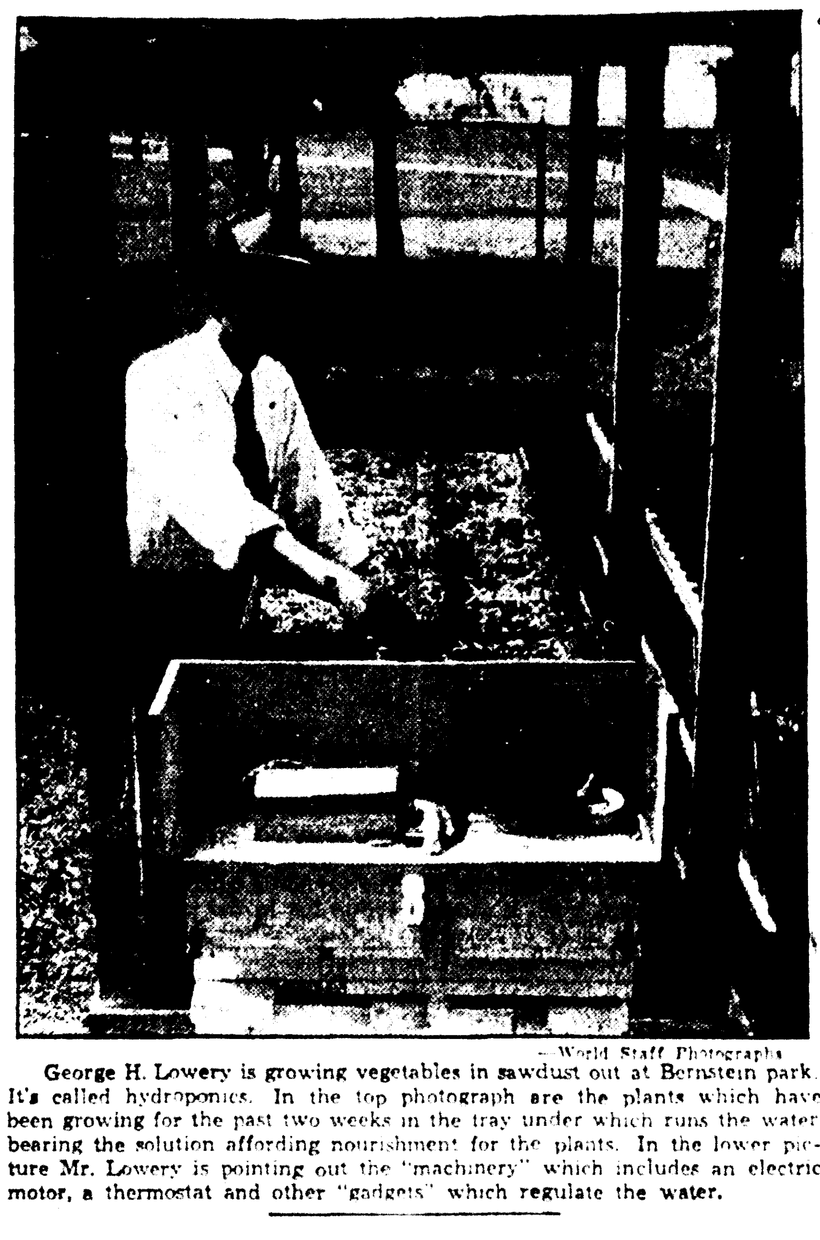
EXPERIMENT IN HYDROPONICS CONDUCTED HERE





—World Staff Photographs

George H. Lowery is growing vegetables in sawdust out at Bernstein park. It's called hydroponics. In the top photograph are the plants which have been growing for the past two weeks in the tray under which runs the water bearing the solution affording nourishment for the plants. In the lower picture Mr. Lowery is pointing out the "machinery" which includes an electric motor, a thermostat and other "gadgets" which regulate the water.

Plants Grow Without Soil In Hydroponics Experiment

George H. Lowery Shows Vegetables Can Be Raised In Pine Shavings

By George V. Lofton

An interesting experiment in hydroponics—water culture to you—is being conducted by George H. Lowery, superintendent of Bernstein park, on a modest scale out at the park.

Hydroponics is a method of growing vegetables and flowers without the use of soil. Tank farming, it is sometimes called. It was discovered and developed by Dr. William F. Gericke of the University of California and recently has been the subject of considerable publicity due to the unique methods of accomplishing the seemingly impossible. Growing plants without soil is a "Believe It Or Not" but anyone who doubts it can see for himself. Mr. Lowery welcomes inspection of his layout.

Mr. Lowery, who, incidentally, transformed a marshy tract of land into a pleasant recreation spot now known as Bernstein park, read of Dr. Gericke's experiments and decided to try it himself. He communicated with the California expert and obtained information not included in articles about the project which were published in various newspapers.

Two weeks ago he completed his "plant" and set out his tomatoes, cucumbers and squash. Today the tomato plants are six inches high and his cucumbers and squash are a couple of inches above the surface. If his experiment is a success—and every indication is that it will be—he's going to try it out on some flowers.

In tank farming the solution that provides nourishment for the plants is held in a tank and the vegetable or flower plants are grown in trays resting on top of this "floodway." Elements required by the plant are added to the water in the form of soluble salts. For best growth the solution must be kept at a uniform temperature, and also circulated for aeration.

The tank shown in the photograph accompanying this article has provisions for both heating and circulating automatically, with thermostatic control and a water float valve to maintain the water at the proper level. The dimensions of the tank are nine feet long, two and one-half feet wide and six inches deep, and holds fifty gallons of water. The front end has two compartments, one on the left containing the thermostat and float valve, and having a three-quarter-inch hole connecting it with the tank. The one on the right contains the electric circulating motor and electric heater, and connects with the other compartment with an opening in the partition one and one-half inches by six inches. It has a baffle board, the same height as the tank, down the center to within six inches of the end of the tank.

The water is heated by an electric aquarium type heater and forced down a three-quarter inch pipe through to the bottom of the compartment to the tank. This pipe has a slot cut in it below the water line. The motor has a shaft nine and one-half inches long and has a one-eighth inch copper wire wound on it, forming a helix.

The solution is heated and forced into the tank and travels slowly down by the side of the baffle board to the end of the tank, and up the other side through the three-quarter-inch hole into the end compartment, where it is reheated and sent out again.

The trays are four inches deep and have one-inch mesh chicken wire bottoms. Two and one-half inches of excelsior is placed on wire tray bottoms and a number of wicks are formed by punching bunches of excelsior about three inches down into the water. The balance of the tray is filled with pine shavings. The plants are set out in the shavings and excelsior down to the wire bottom where the roots will grow down into the water. There they dangle their "feet" in the constantly moving stream containing calcium, nitrate, sulphate and phosphate, and get strength and courage to grow strong and produce marvelous results.

The degree of acidity or alkalinity (the PH) is most important; a test is made occasionally to ascertain the condition of the solution. As the solution tends to become alkaline, it is necessary to add diluted sulphuric acid. If the solution goes too far over on the acid side, a small amount of sodium hydroxide solution may be added.

Progress in hydroponics is not confined to the universities that have taken up the science, notably California, Purdue, Illinois, Wisconsin and Rutgers. In many communities there are now hydroponic garden clubs, Mr. Lowery says. It is being used in schools where thousands of teachers, particularly in the western states, are using liquid culture as a method of visualizing botany. The trays can be lifted out of the tank day after day to let the students see how the root system develops parallel to the plant growth.

Different plants thrive on different diets. The diet Mr. Lowery is using in his tank is primarily for tomatoes, cucumbers and squash, but will grow most flowers.

There are many things that have to be taken into consideration, such as climatic and water conditions, but above all a proper "PH" balance must be maintained. The science has not progressed to where there is a simple substitute at present for trial and error. But hydroponics experts believe that day is not far off.

Vegetables growing in sawdust? Sounds fantastic, doesn't it? But you can see it for yourself right here in Monroe.

TANNEHILL TO FACE JUVENILE CHARGES

SHREVEPORT, April 29.—(AP)—Sidney P. Tannehill, 46, state employe, returned here last night from St. Louis, Mo., and lodged in Caddo parish jail on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of juveniles, will be brought up for trial in Caddo parish juvenile court Tuesday morning, according to Judge William C. Barnette.

An additional contributing charge was filed in juvenile court against Tannehill today and a charge of committing an unnatural crime is pending against him in district criminal court.

District Attorney James U. Galloway said that the juvenile court charges will probably be disposed of before Tannehill is prosecuted in district court.

Tannehill in jail here, declined to make any statement for publication.

Judge Barnette said that he had fixed bond at $1,000 in each case against Tannehill in his court. No application for bond on the charge pending in district court has been made.

TECH FARM DAY ATTRACTS MANY

Vocational Dean, Standing In Wagon, Addresses 1,000 Farm Folks

RUSTON, La., April 29.—(Special)—S. W. Nelken, vocational dean at the Louisiana Normal college of Natchitoches, delivered the principal address at the first Louisiana Tech Agriculture Day celebration at the Tech farm Saturday afternoon before approximately 1,000 farm men, women and children.

Speaking from a wagon, in which sat President E. S. Richardson of Tech, R. L. Reese of the agriculture department, and H. C. Lovett, acting head of the agriculture department, Mr. Nelken stated that, though the future of agriculture in the south was not "all straightened out and as bright as it could be, there seems to be a better day ahead for the boys who wish to follow it as a vocation."

The speaker attributed his opinion to the fact that President Roosevelt was in sympathy with the farmers' government agencies to aid agriculture specifically. He mentioned the value of the Farm Security administration, the Rural Electrification plan, the farm division of the Federal Housing administration and the AAA.

"Farming must be made financially sound as well as interesting to the boy who plans to go back to the farm to make his living," Mr Nelken said.

Mr. Reese told the farmers that the agriculture department at Tech, once an almost dead department in the college, had "taken on new life," because of the sympathetic attitude President Richardson has towards the farm boy and the farm family."

"This is only the beginning," Mr. Reese said. "Come back next year and the years after that, and we hope really to have something to show you. We are not here merely to magnify and glorify agriculture, but we are here to dignify it. Our purpose here at Tech is one of service to the farmer in north Louisiana."

Mr. Lovett, chairman at the speech-making program of the day, presented President Richardson and Mr. Nelken with a blue ribbon. He stated that he presented Mr. Richardson his for his "sympathetic assistance in making the agriculture department better," and that he presented Mr. Nelken his for being the first speaker of the first Agriculture Day program at the college."

Also featured on the day's program was a rodeo and numerous farm exhibits. The exhibits drew the praise of a stream of visitors during the day. On exhibit were farm produce, livestock, flowers, home appliances and farm machinery. The displays were sponsored by business concerns and individuals, farmers of this area contributing much to the effectiveness of them.

President Richardson welcomed the farmers and visitors to Tech and to the Tech farm, recently purchased by the college. He said he wanted to see the Tech farm grow as an example of what might be accomplished on any average farm in north Louisiana.

"We don't have electric fans out here for our cows," he said. "The purpose of the Tech agriculture department is to teach boys the practical side of making an honest living back home on the farm by using his brain, as well as his back muscles."

A "hill-billy" dance in the girls gymnasium at the college Saturday night marked the end of the activities of the one-day celebration which President Richardson and members of the agriculture department hope to make an annual afafir.

ADMITS RIFLING FREIGHT STATION

BATON ROUGE, La., April 29.—(AP)—Sheriff Newman de Breton said today Jim Hull, 21, who lives in a rural section near here, admitted rifling the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad freight station at Vicksburg, Miss., last Sunday and removing merchandise valued at more than $500.

The sheriff said the loot included 9,000 packages of cigarettes, a number of tins of tobacco and 500 packages of chewing gum. The sheriff quoted Hull as saying he sold the merchandise to Dick Strong, operator of the Kit Kat club at Vicksburg.

Deputies, arresting Hull here on information from Vicksburg authorities, found $59.50 in coins in his room. Sheriff de Breton quoted Hull as saying this was the balance left unspent of the $115 he received from Strong for the merchandise.

A Vicksburg deputy who came here to take Hull into custody said there has been a wave of tobacco robberies in his city over a year's time.

TOY CENTER FETE DRAWS BIG CROWD

St. Matthew's Band Plays Two-Hour Concert At Opening Of Library

Approximately 650 persons, including Mayor H. H. Benoit, guest of honor, other city officials, officers and members of civic and welfare organizations, but not including many school children who did not register as visitors, attended the formal opening of the WPA toy lending center, 137 South Grand street, Friday afternoon.

A feature of the celebration was a two-hour concert played by smartly uniformed St. Matthew's Parochial school band, under the direction of Bandmaster F. G. Butcher. Punch and cookies were served throughout the formal opening hours, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Many of the visitors expressed surprise over the factory appearance of the brightly gleaming toys and the wide variety of toys which have been made available for lending to children of needy families.

When the WPA toy shop, located in the same building, was inspected by the visitors, they were given an explanation of the factory finish. Veteran cabinet makers, who have available adequate tools of their profession, and artisans who have years of experience in sewing, painting and decoration, showed the visitors just how the attractive toys were produced from broken toys, scrap and new materials.

Camp Fire girls served as ushers and guides during the celebration. Greeting the visitors and discussing operation of the toy shop and toy lending center were Mrs. Mildred Taylor, area supervisor of the WPA professional and service projects division, Miss Lottie Farrar, active supervisor of the shop and lending center, and other members of working personnel.

Although no request had been made for contributions of toys and materials from which toys can be made, in connection with the formal opening, many contributions were made during the afternoon and Saturday morning.

It was announced that, beginning Monday, lending of the toys will begin. Children borrowing toys will be required to obtain their parents' or guardians' signatures to their toy library cards. It was also announced that each child may keep a borrowed toy for one week, and then turn it in and receive another toy. Each time a toy is returned it will be disinfected and repaired, the shop craftsmen and artisans keeping them in a perfect state of repair.

In connection with the success of the formal opening, Mrs. Taylor issued the following statement:

"We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to our sponsor and mayor, the city of Monroe and Mr. Benoit, to the various organizations which sent their offcers or other reppesentatives to extend felicitations and pledges of continued support, to the local newspapers and especial thanks for their noteworthy contribution to the formal opening are extended members of the St. Matthew's Parochial school band, to their bandmaster, Mr. Butcher, and to officials of the school."

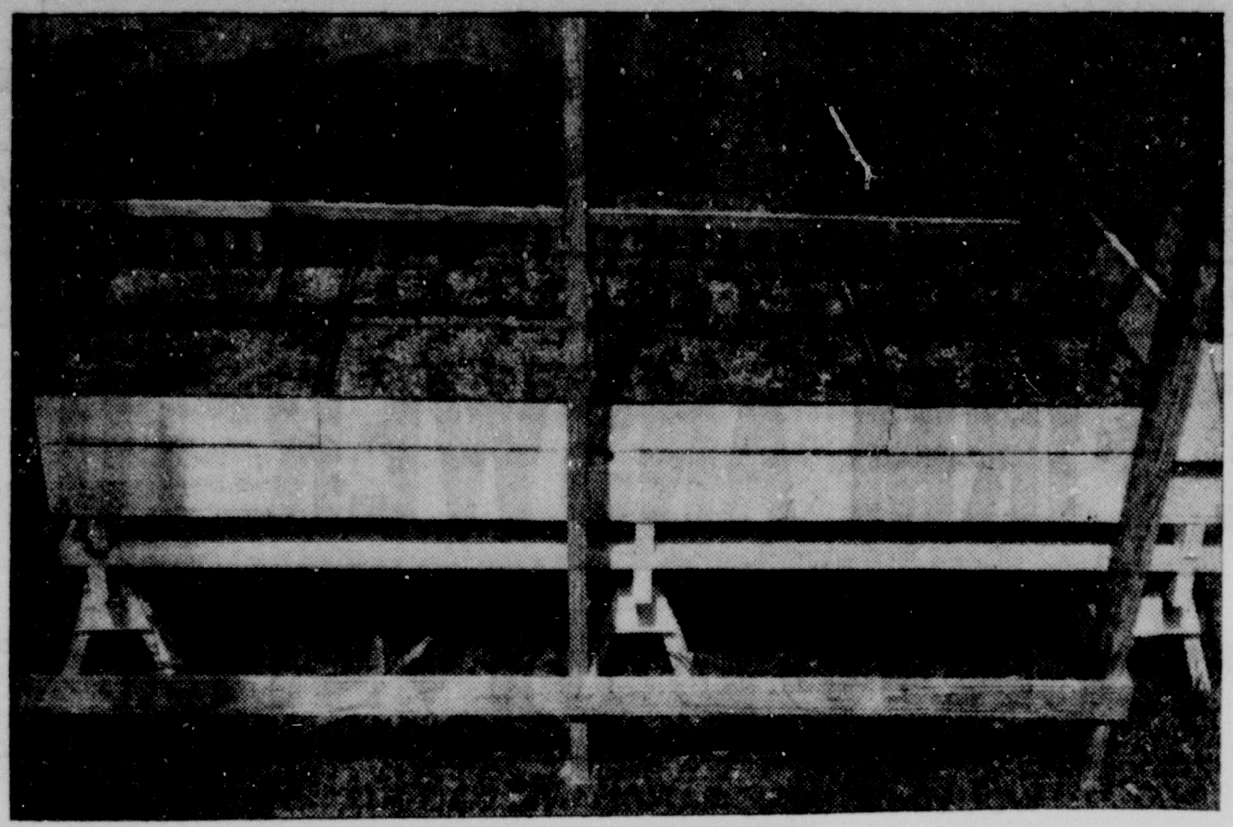
EXPERIMENT IN HYDROPONICS CONDUCTED HERE



—World Staff Photographs

George H. Lowery is growing vegetables in sawdust out at Bernstein park. It's called hydroponics. In the top photograph are the plants which have been growing for the past two weeks in the tray under which runs the water bearing the solution affording nourishment for the plants. In the lower picture Mr. Lowery is pointing out the "machinery" which includes an electric motor, a thermostat and other "gadgets" which regulate the water.

Plants Grow Without Soil In Hydroponics Experiment

George H. Lowery Shows Vegetables Can Be Raised In Pine Shavings

By George V. Lofton

An interesting experiment in hydroponics—water culture to you—is being conducted by George H. Lowery, superintendent of Bernstein park, on a modest scale out at the park.

Hydroponics is a method of growing vegetables and flowers without the use of soil. Tank farming, it is sometimes called. It was discovered and developed by Dr. William F. Gericke of the University of California and recently has been the subject of considerable publicity due to the unique methods of accomplishing the seemingly impossible. Growing plants without soil is a "Believe It Or Not" but anyone who doubts it can see for himself. Mr. Lowery welcomes inspection of his layout.

Mr. Lowery, who, incidentally, transformed a marshy tract of land into a pleasant recreation spot now known as Bernstein park, read of Dr. Gericke's experiments and decided to try it himself. He communicated with the California expert and obtained information not included in articles about the project which were published in various newspapers.

Two weeks ago he completed his "plant" and set out his tomatoes, cucumbers and squash. Today the tomato plants are six inches high and his cucumbers and squash are a couple of inches above the surface. If his experiment is a success—and every indication is that it will be—he's going to try it out on some flowers.

In tank farming the solution that provides nourishment for the plants is held in a tank and the vegetable or flower plants are grown in trays resting on top of this "floodway." Elements required by the plant are added to the water in the form of soluble salts. For best growth the solution must be kept at a uniform temperature, and also circulated for aeration.

The tank shown in the photograph accompanying this article has provisions for both heating and circulating automatically, with thermostatic control and a water float valve to maintain the water at the proper level. The dimensions of the tank are nine feet long, two and one-half feet wide and six inches deep, and holds fifty gallons of water. The front end has two compartments, one on the left containing the thermostat and float valve, and having a three-quarter-inch hole connecting it with the tank. The one on the right contains the electric circulating motor and electric heater, and connects with the other compartment with an opening in the partition one and one-half inches by six inches. It has a baffle board, the same height as the tank, down the center to within six inches of the end of the tank.

The water is heated by an electric aquarium type heater and forced down a three-quarter inch pipe through to the bottom of the compartment to the tank. This pipe has a slot cut in it below the water line. The motor has a shaft nine and one-half inches long and has a one-eighth inch copper wire wound on it, forming a helix.

The solution is heated and forced into the tank and travels slowly down by the side of the baffle board to the end of the tank, and up the other side through the three-quarter-inch hole into the end compartment, where it is reheated and sent out again.

The trays are four inches deep and have one-inch mesh chicken wire bottoms. Two and one-half inches of excelsior is placed on wire tray bottoms and a number of wicks are formed by punching bunches of excelsior about three inches down into the water. The balance of the tray is filled with pine shavings. The plants are set out in the shavings and excelsior down to the wire bottom where the roots will grow down into the water. There they dangle their "feet" in the constantly moving stream containing calcium, nitrate, sulphate and phosphate, and get strength and courage to grow strong and produce marvelous results.

The degree of acidity or alkalinity (the PH) is most important; a test is made occasionally to ascertain the condition of the solution. As the solution tends to become alkaline, it is necessary to add diluted sulphuric acid. If the solution goes too far over on the acid side, a small amount of sodium hydroxide solution may be added.

Progress in hydroponics is not confined to the universities that have taken up the science, notably California, Purdue, Illinois, Wisconsin and Rutgers. In many communities there are now hydroponic garden clubs, Mr. Lowery says. It is being used in schools where thousands of teachers, particularly in the western states, are using liquid culture as a method of visualizing botany. The trays can be lifted out of the tank day after day to let the students see how the root system develops parallel to the plant growth.

Different plants thrive on different diets. The diet Mr. Lowery is using in his tank is primarily for tomatoes, cucumbers and squash, but will grow most flowers.

There are many things that have to be taken into consideration, such as climatic and water conditions, but above all a proper "PH" balance must be maintained. The science has not progressed to where there is a simple substitute at present for trial and error. But hydroponics experts believe that day is not far off.

Vegetables growing in sawdust? Sounds fantastic, doesn't it? But you can see it for yourself right here in Monroe.

TANNEHILL TO FACE JUVENILE CHARGES

SHREVEPORT, April 29.—(AP)—Sidney P. Tannehill, 46, state employe, returned here last night from St. Louis, Mo., and lodged in Caddo parish jail on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of juveniles, will be brought up for trial in Caddo parish juvenile court Tuesday morning, according to Judge William C. Barnette.

An additional contributing charge was filed in juvenile court against Tannehill today and a charge of committing an unnatural crime is pending against him in district criminal court.

District Attorney James U. Galloway said that the juvenile court charges will probably be disposed of before Tannehill is prosecuted in district court.

Tannehill in jail here, declined to make any statement for publication.

Judge Barnette said that he had fixed bond at $1,000 in each case against Tannehill in his court. No application for bond on the charge pending in district court has been made.

John H. Harris, of Pittsburgh, national chief barker, said the selection was the first of what is planned to be an annual award by the club, an organization of persons in the entertainment world devoted to charitable and humanitarian activities.

Stock sheep on United States farms and ranches January 1, 1939, totaled 48,000,000 head, 34,000,000 in the western states and 14,000,000 in other states.

TECH FARM DAY ATTRACTS MANY

RUSTON, La., April 29.—(Special)—S. W. Nelken, vocational dean at the Louisiana Normal college of Natchitoches, delivered the principal address at the first Louisiana Tech Agriculture Day celebration at the Tech farm Saturday afternoon before approximately 1,000 farm men, women and children.

Speaking from a wagon, in which sat President E. S. Richardson of Tech, R. L. Reese of the agriculture department, and H. C. Lovett, acting head of the agriculture department, Mr. Nelken stated that, though the future of agriculture in the south was not "all straightened out and as bright as it could be, there seems to be a better day ahead for the boys who wish to follow it as a vocation."

The speaker attributed his opinion to the fact that President Roosevelt was in sympathy with the farmers' government agencies to aid agriculture specifically. He mentioned the value of the Farm Security administration, the Rural Electrification plan, the farm division of the Federal Housing administration and the AAA.

"Farming must be made financially sound as well as interesting to the boy who plans to go back to the farm to make his living," Mr Nelken said.

Mr. Reese told the farmers that the agriculture department at Tech, once an almost dead department in the college, had "taken on new life," because of the sympathetic attitude President Richardson has towards the farm boy and the farm family."

"This is only the beginning," Mr. Reese said. "Come back next year and the years after that, and we hope really to have something to show you. We are not here merely to magnify and glorify agriculture, but we are here to dignify it. Our purpose here at Tech is one of service to the farmer in north Louisiana."

Mr. Lovett, chairman at the speechmaking program of the day, presented President Richardson and Mr. Nelken with a blue ribbon. He stated that he presented Mr. Richardson his for his "sympathetic assistance in making the agriculture department better," and that he presented Mr. Nelken his for being the "first speaker of the first Agriculture Day program at the college."

Also featured on the day's program was a rodeo and numerous farm exhibits. The exhibits drew the praise of a stream of visitors during the day. On exhibit were farm produce, livestock, flowers, home appliances and farm machinery. The displays were sponsored by business concerns and individuals, farmers of this area contributing much to the effectiveness of them.

President Richardson welcomed the farmers and visitors to Tech and to the Tech farm, recently purchased by the college. He said he wanted to see the Tech farm grow as an example of what might be accomplished on any average farm in north Louisiana.

"We don't have electric fans out here for our cows," he said. "The purpose of the Tech agriculture department is to teach boys the practical side of making an honest living back home on the farm by using his brain, as well as his back muscles."

A "hill-billy" dance in the girls' gymnasium at the college Saturday night marked the end of the activities of the one-day celebration which President Richardson and members of the agriculture department hope to make an annual afafir.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 29.—(AP)—Sheriff Newman de Breton said today Jim Hull, 21, who lives in a rural section near here, admitted rifling the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad freight station at Vicksburg, Miss., last Sunday and removing merchandise valued at more than $500.

The sheriff said the loot included 9,000 packages of cigarettes, a number of tins of tobacco and 500 packages of chewing gum. The sheriff quoted Hull as saying he sold the merchandise to Dick Strong, operator of the Kit Kat club at Vicksburg.

Deputies, arresting Hull here on information from Vicksburg authorities, found $59.50 in coins in his room. Sheriff de Breton quoted Hull as saying this was the balance left unspent of the $115 he received from Strong for the merchandise.

A Vicksburg deputy who came here to take Hull into custody said there has been a wave of tobacco robberies in his city over a year's time.

TIME RIPE FOR BUYING HOMES

Timeliness Of Campaign For Residence Ownership Emphasized By Louis Buckner

Better business conditions and consequent rising price levels will eventually be reflected in Monroe real estate, said Louis Buckner, president of the Monroe Building and Loan association.

A sales campaign to bring to the attention of the public attractive offerings in many type homes is now in progress.

The timeliness of this campaign is emphasized by Mr. Buckner. Pointing to Babson's reports, he said that railroad earnings were up 300 per cent over a year ago, that investors are getting earnings in many cases as good as in 1935-1937, that credit reserves are rising, that residential building was at a higher level in March than at any time since 1929, and that the armament race was benefiting business in the United States.

"The time is certainly propitious to invest in real estate" he declared.

'CARNATION DAY' IS BIG SUCCESS

The most successful "Carnation Day" ever held by the Thompson Wood Lee auxiliary of the United Spanish War veterans' camp, was completed Saturday when a large sum was raised by sale of these flowers, favorites of the late President William McKinley.

There were no less than 10 women and young girls in charge of the campaign on street corners and up in the camp's headquarters on South Grand street.

The general chairman of the day was Mrs. Nora Simpson, and she was aided by Mrs. Alma McKee, Mrs. Stelle Courtney, Mrs. Minnie Mangham, and Mrs. Mamie Arnette. At noon, a dinner was served to all of the workers.

Workers, through the Morning World, stated Saturday night that they desired to express their thanks to the public for making the day so complete a success.

DAYLIGHT TIME TO BE EFFECTIVE TODAY

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—Daylight saving time becomes effective in a number of states at 2 a. m. tomorrow, and will continue until Sunday, September 24, at 2 a. m.

There will be state-wide observance of daylight saving in New Jersey, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, virtually state-wide observance in Connecticut. Most of Maine will set the clock ahead, a substantial part of Vermont, and those sections of Indiana and Illinois in the vicinity of Chicago. There will be limited observance of daylight saving in Michigan, Idaho, Georgia and Delaware.

In New York state 352 cities and towns will be on daylight saving, and 121 in Pennsylvania.

MORE NEGROES ON JURY REQUESTED

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—(AP)—Criminal Judge William J. O'Hara today asked the Orleans parish jury commissions to make more negroes available for jury service because "I don't think there are enough to satisfy the supreme court of the United States."

The request was a result of a recent decision by the court which granted a new trial to Hugh Pierre, negro, who had been sentenced to death in St. John the Baptist parish for slaying a white man.

Defense attorneys had contended negroes were excluded from the jury which convicted Pierre.

District Attorney Charles a Byrne joined Judge O'Hara in the request to the jury commissioners.

O'Hara said in a letter to Byrne and Attorney General David M. Ellison:

"I believe the Pierre case went a little bit further than the Scottsboro case. It is my personal opinion, since reading the later case, that the jury commissioners for Orleans parish should set aside at least two days a month on which they would summon to their office as prospective jurors nothing but negroes.

"I make this suggestion because if the jury commissioners would summon a number of negroes and white men to appear on the same day and compel the white men to line up with negroes it would seriously add to what is already a very difficult case in Orleans parish.

"It seems to me from reading this decision that the jury commissioners should call upon a large number of negroes. In Orleans parish we have a few negroes in the jury wheel. But I don't think there are enough to satisfy the supreme court of the United States."

OFF FOR FIRST TRAIN RIDE

These children are some of the 64 first graders from the Sicily Island school who went for their first train ride. The employes on the train helped the children enjoy and profit by their trip by explaining the different parts of the train and the work each person did. The money was made for the trip by staging a program under the supervision of their teachers, Misses Jessie McKay and Laura Harris. This same class took a trip to Monroe Christmas. Besides seeing the city and its decorations, doing their shopping and seeing Santa, they were accompanied by a member of the police to a bakery and the zoo. Both these trips were declared beneficial as well as enjoyable to all these children, as few of them had ever been to a city or on a train.

Monroe Maternity Clinic To Hold Open House Monday

One of the outstanding civic agencies of the Twin Cities is the Monroe Maternity Welfare clinic which was organized to meet a well defined need in February, 1937, sponsored by the local chapter of the Catholic Daughters of America.

In order that the public can be better acquainted with the substantial and highly necessary work that is being accomplished by the clinic, the doors of the place at 320 Wood street will be thrown open to all interested Monday from 3 to 7 p.m.

Negro patients or those interested in this race's welfare are invited to inspect the clinic Tuesday from 2 to 5 p.m. It is sought thereby to acquaint member of this race with the public service that is being rendered through the maternity clinic.

The vital importance of pre-natal and post-natal care are features stressed by the clinic staff, and mothers from families who are in unsatisfactory financial circumstances are aided through education and careful supervision so that the child may have the right sort of start in life. Also this care insures that the mother will also be given proper attention.

A program will be given at St. Francis sanitarium auditorium Monday at 5 p.m. when two out-of-town speakers will give talks. They are Miss Mary Railey of New Orleans, director of child welfare and community health of the state board of health, and Dr. L. M. Mathison, also associated with the same group as consulting physician. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

The local clinic, starting out more than two years ago with the slightest financial backing, is now in a fairly good status and its permanency is assured.

The gospel of pre-natal and post-natal care is being spread wherever the mothers go and all familiar with the subject know how vital it all is to the lives of two persons.

Many lives have been saved, all without thought of financial recompense through this medium. Great would have been the sum total of human suffering had it not been for the kindly auspices of this great humanitarian project. In time of financial need, arrangements have been in the past made so that mothers can enter St. Francis or Charity hospital in Shreveport, where their babies can be afforded opportunity of starting out well in life.

The clinic spreads the information that all women should have the attention of a skilled physician before the fifth month of pregnancy, and that this care should be continued for some weeks after the baby is born.

Nursing service to patients is under the supervision of the Louisiana state board of health. This service will include ante-partum nursing care in the home and in the clinic, nursing service at delivery, and post-partum care and supervision for the first 12 days with weekly visits thereafter until the baby is six weeks old.

The clinic is now located in its new and model quarters at 321 Wood street which has been specially furnished and equipped with great care by the Catholic Daughters of America. It is aside from the one in New Orleans, the only clinic of its kind that is maintained in the entire state. It is open to visits of white expectant mothers Mondays at 8 a.m., and to negro expectant mothers Thursdays at 8 a.m. One rule is strictly adhered to. No patients who are already under the care of physicians are accepted unless they have written requests from their physicians requesting that the clinic receive them.

A complete physical examination is given to every patient at the clinic where blood pressure, uranalysis, weight, temperature, fetal movement, signs of any abnormalities, tests for syphilis as well as other symptoms are given careful consideration. The patient is instructed as to correct diet, clothing, elimination, fresh air, exercise, bathing and other elements that enter in during this important period. If the Wasserman test at the outset shows positive, the patient receives treatment at the venereal clinic of the parish health unit. Even after the baby is born, the baby and mother continue to receive this treatment.

Since the organization of the clinic 320 cases have been admitted for advice. These cases have made 1,475 visits to the clinic. There have been 157 home deliveries and 51 who required hospitalization at the time of delivery. A total of 220 post-partum examinations have been made.

When six weeks have rolled around after the baby comes, the mother is informed to return to the clinic for post-partum examination.

The plan of the maternity clinic is for service to the public of Monroe and West Monroe. However, mothers who are expectant and who live outside these cities may receive pre-natal and post-natal attention in many cases where it is found possible to establish temporary residence in either city so that they may receive delivery service close at hand.

The salary of patient must not exceed $50 per month, depending on the size of the family, the usual clinic fee being $15. This includes ante-partum, post-partum and delivery service. This sum goes to the doctor for his services, as other expenses are cared for through the Catholic Daughters of America, sponsors of the project. The clinic is operated on a non-profit basis as it is regarded as a worthwhile public work. Also through the C. D. A., the past year, it has been entitled to receive monthly financial aid from the Twin City Community chest.

The clinic sponsors have the advantage of figures to show that between one-half and one-third of the maternal deaths are preventable, maternal and infant mortality being closely allied. This is specially true of stillborn cases and deaths of infants in the first eight weeks of life.

All who visit the clinic on Monday afternoon, will, it is assured, secure thereby a better understanding of this institution and will be able to pass on to the needy information as to its value. Not every mother-to-be is familiar with this community service and the spreading of the knowledge of its functions will perhaps be exactly what may be required to save lives that are sorely needed to carry on.

The Catholic Daughters started something worth while and as yet the work is only in its incipient stages. It promises to expand and its influence is likely to be felt far and wide throughout north Louisiana.

TIME RIPE FOR BUYING HOMES

Timeliness Of Campaign For Residence Ownership Emphasized By Louis Buckner

Better business conditions and consequent rising price levels will eventually be reflected in Monroe real estate, said Louis Buckner, president of the Monroe Building and Loan association.

A sales campaign to bring to the attention of the public attractive offerings in many type homes is now in progress.

The timeliness of this campaign is emphasized by Mr. Buckner. Pointing to Babson's reports, he said that railroad earnings were up 300 per cent over a year ago, that investors are getting earnings in many cases as good as in 1935-1937, that credit reserves are rising, that residential building was at a higher level in March than at any time since 1929, and that the armament race was benefiting business in the United States.

"The time is certainly propitious to invest in real estate" he declared.

For the man looking for a home of his own, for the investor searching for good rental properties, the Monroe Building and Loan association should interest him, states Mr. Buckner.

In some parts of Europe, charcoal biscuits are popular, being eaten after meals to eliminate food tastes.

'CARNATION DAY' IS BIG SUCCESS

The most successful "Carnation Day" ever held by the Thompson Wood Lee auxiliary of the United Spanish War veterans' camp, was completed Saturday when a large sum was raised by sale of these flowers, favorites of the late President William McKinley.

There were no less than 10 women and young girls in charge of the campaign on street corners and up in the camp's headquarters on South Grand street.

The general chairman of the day was Mrs. Nora Simpson, and she was aided by Mrs. Alma McKee, Mrs. Stella Courtney, Mrs. Minnie Mangham, and Mrs. Mamie Arnette. At noon, a dinner was served to all of the workers.

Workers, through the Morning World, stated Saturday night that they desired to express their thanks to the public for making the day so complete a success.

DAYLIGHT TIME TO BE EFFECTIVE TODAY

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—Daylight saving time becomes effective in a number of states at 2 a. m. tomorrow, and will continue until Sunday, September 24, at 2 a. m.

There will be state-wide observance of daylight saving in New Jersey, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, virtually state-wide observance in Connecticut. Most of Maine will set the clock ahead, a substantial part of Vermont, and those sections of Indiana and Illinois in the vicinity of Chicago. There will be limited observance of daylight saving in Michigan, Idaho, Georgia and Delaware.

In New York state 352 cities and towns will be on daylight saving, and 121 in Pennsylvania.

MORE NEGROES ON JURY REQUESTED

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—(AP)—Criminal Judge William J. O'Hara today asked the Orleans parish jury commissions to make more negroes available for jury service because "I don't think there are enough to satisfy the supreme court of the United States."

The request was a result of a recent decision by the court which granted a new trial to Hugh Pierre, negro, who had been sentenced to death in St. John the Baptist parish for slaying a white man.

Defense attorneys had contended negroes were excluded from the jury which convicted Pierre.

District Attorney Charles a Byrne joined Judge O'Hara in the request to the jury commissioners.

O'Hara said in a letter to Byrne and Attorney General David M. Ellison:

"I believe the Pierre case went a little bit further than the Scottsboro case. It is my personal opinion, since reading the later case, that the jury commissioners for Orleans parish should set aside at least two days a month on which they would summon to their office as prospective jurors nothing but negroes.

"I make this suggestion because if the jury commissioners would summon a number of negroes and white men to appear on the same day and compel the white men to line up with negroes it would seriously add to what is already a very difficult case in Orleans parish.

"It seems to me from reading this decision that the jury commissioners should call upon a large number of negroes. In Orleans parish we have a few negroes in the jury wheel. But I don't thnk there are enough to satisfy the supreme court of the United States."

SCIENCE CLUB MAKES TRIP TO SHREVEPORT

The Ouachita Parish High school Science club spent Saturday in Shreveport, making the trip by a school bus and enjoying a picnic lunch at the noon hour.

They visited a number of the larger industrial plants, Barksdale field, and the art gallery at the fairgrounds.

The party was in charge of the following instructors: F. T. Doane, Manning Durham, and Miss Evelyn Moore.

Look At The Substance

Our political words are getting all scrambled.

Some of them have come to mean practically nothing at all.

When men understand widely different things by the same word, then that word is no longer of much value.

Two words ring in every ear today, and all day long. They are "democracy" and dictatorship."

Are we talking about the same thing when we use these words? Let's see. Democracy. Why, that's a country where the people govern themselves!

Is it? Well the United States is not, never was, and never was intended to be, a pure democracy. It is a democratic republic.

The people govern themselves, but not directly. They are governed by popularly-chosen officials who have certain powers as long as they are in office. People can replace them with others if they don't like what is done. That is a republic, but it is not pure democracy.

Is Sweden a democracy? Of course not, we say. It is a monarchy. The king is head of the state, and he rules because his father ruled.

Yet in Sweden everything of importance is done by popularly-elected representatives of the people. The king walks about town or rides the trolleys like anybody else. And the Socialists think he's swell. In many ways Sweden is more democratic under the monarchy than France is under a republic.

Is Russia a democracy? It is a government set up and run by the members of a single party. They alone have power. They alone have rights. That is a theory that works like this: A small part of highly-trained people decide that the great bulk of the people are dopes, and unable to govern themselves.

So they say, "With the best motives in the world, and in behalf of those voiceless millions, we appoint ourselves their representatives. We will seize power and rule for them until some day they are able to do it themselves."

But your most rigid South American dictator always insists that he also is merely a trustee of the people's power, ruling for them until they are able to do it themselves. And that is dictatorship.

So whenever we hear those words "democracy" and "dictatorship" today let's stop and ask ourselves, just what do we mean?

Better than either word today is a "free country." Every American has defiantly asked the question "Well, it's a free country isn't it?" He knows what that means.

And the important thing about any country today is not "Is it a democracy?" or "A dictatorship?" or "A monarchy?" but "Is it free?"

OKLAHOMA'S MAGIC

Oklahoma, celebrating the end of the first half century of its development, has the distinction of being the first state possessing all the requisites of quick growth. Its transformation from 70,000 square miles of Indian settlements and wilderness to its present estate of populousness and wealth has been, as times goes, in the twinkling of an eye because everything needed was available as it was to no other state.

Agriculturally Oklahoma came into being just as the age of implements began to flower and as crop improvement was coming to full tide. Minerally Oklahoma caught the surge of demand coincidentally with the discovery of its great oil fields. Industrially the state has partaken in the westward trek of industry, a manifestation which had been only feeble before Oklahoma's settlement.

Add to this synchronization of resources with the fortuities of invention and advancement of the fact that Oklahoma was peopled by folks of great initiative, perseverance and vision and you have the explanation of a state of magic progress such as the world has never before experienced.

A GOOD RECORD

The Civil Aeronautics authority reports that in the period between December 12 and March 20 domestic lines flew 128,162,050 passenger-miles with only one fatal accident. The three transcontinental systems, United, TWA and American, and the Eastern Airlines flew 50,000,000 passenger-miles without even a forced landing.

The winter season is the most dangerous flying season of the year. Past records show what a really remarkable improvement this year's record is. On the basis of airplane miles flown we find the following figures:

In the winter of 1935-36 12,909,995 miles were flown with eighteen fatalities. In 1936-37 14,218,365 miles were flown with twenty-eight fatalities. This past winter 17,868,370 miles were flown with only four fatalities.

This is real progress. The authority is justly proud of this season's record. The lines may also be proud that an expanding business, still in an era of development, has made safety keep step with speed.

Headline: "New Deal Business Aid in Test Tube." Some businessmen think a test tube is just about the right size.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—The famous "hunger march" of the southeastern Missouri share-croppers dropped out of the news two months ago, or more. But the underlying problem which that march high-lighted is still unsolved.

Detailed reports on the fate of the families involved in the march have been made by field agents of the Farm Security administration.

They make up a depression picture of human suffering and discouragement, caused not by any human being's cussedness or malice, but by a fundamental economic tangle which is no nearer solution now than it was before the march began.

What Happened To Families

When the hunger march was broken up, some of the marchers were returned to the land. Certain families went back to the farms they came from; day laborers who had never been permanently located were, in some instances, assigned to farms. But a number of families were more or less left stranded.

Some 40 families were dumped down at the Sweet Home Baptist church, owned by negroes. Others were taken to a crossroads settlement named Dorena and given a camping place on the flood plain below the levee.

For two dozen or more of these families, the Farm Security administration provided army tents—which, flimsy shelter as they are, are still more comfortable dwellings than anything the bulk of these families have ever lived in.

These people are being fed through state relief authorities and through grants from the FSA. Some improvement in the situation came a few weeks ago, when spring weather started the planting of cotton on the plantations and made jobs available. But a large number of the 300-odd families involved in the march are still unemployed.

Riddle Confronts FSA

If the FSA continues to support people who won't work at prevailing wages, it is in effect supporting a strike. The FSA authorities may feel that farm labor wages in the southeastern Missouri cotton belt are too low, but they say that it is no part of their function to fight for a higher scale.

The average farm laborer in this area, say the FSA people, gets only four months work in a year. During his idle time, he can't support himself, and FSA (or somebody) has to take care of him. By caring for him in that idle season, then, FSA is in effect subsidizing the landlords and their low wage scale.

As a matter of fact, it is not only the hunger marchers who are on FSA's hands. During the last three months, FSA has been supporting approximately 5,500 families in those seven southeast Missouri counties, at a monthly cost of rather more than $80,000.

Just at present, there doesn't seem to be much it can do but go on supporting them. Its rehabilitation program doesn't work in that area, because family-sized tracts on which penniless farm families might be settled just aren't available.

Economic Pressure Causes Trouble

Many disquieting rumors have come out of the southeastern Missouri area. Landlords are said to have forbidden their tenants to hold meetings. One report has it that a tenant group trying to attend a cross-roads meeting was broken up and its dilapidated truck confiscated.

Basically, in the judgment of FSA officials, the southeast Missouri situation is simply a factory problem, with an agricultural proletariat. And because the agricultural proletariat in America is growing, the Missouri problem is taken as an advance warning of the kind of farm problem that is likely to become more and more common in other parts of America in the future.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—One of the more ridiculous facets of Hollywood life is the frantic urge of almost every local merchant to publicize his dealings—real or imaginary—with the stars. No hole-in-the-wall cafe is too little or too messy to be without its quota of autographed star photos—pledges to the credulous that kings and queens of glamordom eat their hot dogs there. Given a reluctant customer, our haberdashers invariably try to break down sales resistance with the bland statement: "Clark Gable bought one just like it last week." The butcher, the baker and the candlestick-maker all claim to be favored purveyors to the stars. The carpet-sweeper salesman tells us that he's just sold a deluxe model to Claudette Colbert; the cemetery lot salesman assures us that his proferred gravesite will soon be surrounded by the mortal remains of top-flight celebrities and, just the other day, I heard a radio ad for a pawn-broker who bills himself as "Loan Man to the Stars."

Hollywood is suffering from mass monomania—and it's small wonder if the rest of the world finds us amusing. We are so sure that being an actor is the highest pursuit open to man, and that, failing to attain that glorified state, the next best thing is to buy our doughnuts and our shoes and our cars from stores a movie star has deigned to enter.

When you remember that only one or two generations ago actors were merely tolerated, it's all very ironic, very profitable—and awfully nice!

Personal observations: Jane Withers calls her adult lady friends by their first names but—down-south fashion—always prefixes their names with a polite "Miss." Charles Boyer is a pacer-up-and-downer while the rest of the troupe gossips between scenes he shuttles the length of the stage in profound meditation. If there's a divan on the set, you'll find it occupied by the elongated frame of Arthur Treacher as soon as the director has said "Cut." Nominated for Hollywood's longest and reddest fingernail title: Mrs. Richard Barthelmess.

Tyrone Power will never have to worry about the little woman's hat bills—Annabella seldom, if ever, wears one. Add to your list of amusing star mannerisms, Freddie Bartholomew's habit of swelling out his chest—football hero style—as soon as he feels a set-visitor's curious gaze. Ronald Colman, who often smiles, almost never indulges in the luxury of a full-fledged laugh. Wonder why all actors, no matter how un-outdoorish, seem to feel it their sacred duty to register enthusiasm when the conversation drifts to hunting and fishing.

Connie Bennett, who uses much less slang than most cinemites, invariably says "dough," not "money." Studies in futility: the effort to hurry Gary Cooper past a sporting goods display in a store window—it just can't be done. There's a drop of acid in the dulcet tones of almost any actress when she mentions Sonja Henie—resentment, no doubt, of an amazing success unconnected with acting ability. Pick up any book that Grace Moore's been reading and you'll find it decorated with marginal notes—always in French.

Frank Capra, currently directing "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," is now trying to solve the second phase of a ticklish problem. As a premise, understand, first of all, that the villain of the piece is a congressman, and a deep-dyed despicable he is. Obviously, to avert fury in some one of the 48 states, he had to be given a name not duplicated in fact records for many years. That was fairly easy, for research revealed that since 1875 there has not been a congressman named Payne. But the second phase of the puzzle. It looks as though one of our political parties must inevitably be offended. In congress, the Republicans sit on one side of the house, the Democrats sit on the other—and Mr. Payne, that nasty man, must sit somewhere.

An amusing incident at M-G-M, when Eleanor Powell and Fred Astaire, the king and queen of taps, were summoned for a conference about their first co-starring venture, "Broadway Melody of 1940." The producer spent the first 15 minutes in outlining the story situations and eventually arrived at a scene where the two stars exchange their first kiss. Fred interrupted. "I beg your pardon," he said very seriously, "but before we carry this romance any further, it might be a good idea to introduce me to Miss Powell. We've never met."

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1939, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

In its final form, American baseball, like most of the important public assets of this country, "just grew." It wasn't evolved by uniformed sports-fuehrers, cooking up "strength through joy." This summer we come to the centennial of the invention of baseball—starting with two catchers, six men in the infield and four in the garden—by Abner Doubleday, of Cooperstown, N. Y., according to the best information that can be obtained.

It was during the summer of his second year at West Point, in 1839, that Abner Doubleday, later Major-General Doubleday, garlanded in three wars, scratched out a diamond with a stick, and refashioned the rules of town ball and one old cat.

And here's a curious note about General Doubleday. Diligent search in the dusty old archives of West Point brings to light this century-old cutback about the young shavetail, as recorded by one of his professors: "He is a man who does not care for or go into any outdoor sports."

The 1939 baseball season went off to a fast running start, to the crash of the bands, the crackling of the peanut shells, the raucous bark of the umpires, the hard smack of the bat and the yells of happy and yappant multitudes, under a free sky, exercising the penchant of free men—to howl their heads off in ecstacy or rage, as it may happen to please our sovereign souls.

It is not only a grand sluice for a whole lot of pent-up national deviltry, but it is just about a $175,000,000 industry, in stadia and playing fields, with an annual turnover of many more millions in the manufacture of equipment, and employment to many thousands of people.

Quartermastering these 5,000 professional baseball players—to say nothing of the amateurs—with bats, balls and uniforms, chewing gum, towels, soap, medicine, chewing tobacco, sweat shirts, blankets, beds, grass seed, top-soil, fertilizer, shovels, rakes, hose lines, rosin and arnica marks a feat of annual wealth distribution which the goose-step sportsmen will find it hard to match.

General Doubleday, a tall handsome man, with wavy black hair and a lush moustache, fought in the Seminole wars, the Mexican war and the Civil war, commanding the Seventy-Sixth Infantry of New York in the last. He retired in 1873, writing various books of memoirs, studies of military tactics and whatnot, but nothing on his invention of baseball. He did note, casually, that he had introduced baseball among the northern troops, and it is known that its swift spread over the country in the post-war years was largely due to this.

The general was a facile and informed writer and no doubt would have wished to have been remembered for his books. But it was that summer scheming of a new game which finally rated him a bronze plaque at Cooperstown and a large oil painting in the Cooperstown railway station.

Many of the known facts about his origination of baseball were dredged up by a commission of baseball moguls and sports historians, in 1907, which sleuthed every available clue and ran down every known story about him. In spite of West Point's finding to the contrary, he was an eager player of baseball, and was a good catcher. Born at Ballston Spa, N. Y., in 1819, he studied civil engineering at the Cooperstown Classical and Military academy before his appointment to West Point.

Baseball was born barehanded. It was not until 1883 that Arthur Irwin, shortstop for Providence, first padded a buckskin driving glove and used it for a catcher's mitt, although unpadded gloves had been used as early as 1875. The first big round, thick catcher's glove did not come until 1891. In 1877 James Tyng, Harvard catcher, worked over a fencer's mask into a catcher's mask, with the aid of a tinsmith. Yale jeered the innovation but quickly strung along. The chest protector came in 1885 and about that time Hughie Ahearn of Baltimore introduced shinguards.

The first game for gate money was played between the New York and Brooklyn clubs at Fashion race course, Long Island, on July 20, 1858, before a crowd of 1,500. Cincinnati had the first pro nine, with its Red Stockings of 1869. Incidentally, this was the first pro team to wear short pants and long stockings, baseball pants previously having been something like sock-top cricket pants.

The Red Stockings started a wild outbreak of color in leagues all over the country. Gaudy and gaudier uniforms matched the wild ebullience of the considerably bewhiskered populace. The ball grew from a two-and-one-half-ounce yarn affair to the six-and-one-half-ounce ball of today. The diamond grew to thirty yards square. Rubber plates replaced rocks for bases. The six-foot-square pitcher's box became only figurative.

The crowds and gate receipts swelled to millions, growing as America grew, and giving us something to celebrate, after this first hundred years, possibly quite as important as anything General Doubleday wrote about in his books.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

I reviewed the scout troop and standing beside me was a friend fresh from a visit to a far country where he had seen boys and girls in smart uniforms, in military order, marching proudly behind gorgeously arrayed bands.

"Fine youngsters, aren't they?" said I, proud of the healthy brown skins, the sturdy legs, straight back and clear eyes of the little boys.

"Yes, but you ought to see the kids on the other side. They look like something. Their uniforms fit to the last button. They have style. Your kids look a mess. Their uniforms don't fit; their hats don't sit; they aren't well set up at all. Why don't you make them look like something? You dress those kids up and smarten them up a little with military drills and you couldn't beat them. Americans are too free and easy."

I swallowed the first few words that rose to the end of my tongue and tried to hold on to my manners. After all, he was company. "Well," said I, when I could, "to me those lads look like something mighty good. They look like the United States of America to me, and somehow that's a wonderful sight for my eyes. I think they'll do."

In fact, now that there is no company, I am sure they will do. These boys of ours are trained in service. Their motto is: Be prepared. They are prepared to live by training themselves in the habits that make for sound health. They hike instead of marching for long miles in military formation. Their bodies and their spirits are free as they go. Free to see the beauty of the country, to feel the spring of the earth under their feet, to halt at the spring for a drink, to visit at the farms as they pass, to meet gayly the adventures on the road they travel. They are out to learn the ways of people, the habits and the needs of the creatures of the woods and meadows, the names and the uses of the plants by the way.

The woods are the schools for these lads. In them they study how to enjoy trees, how to use them for daily necessities of shelter and fire and food. They are out to preserve beauty, to conserve use, to further growth, and not to abuse and ruin and destroy.

They build a campfire and gather about it to talk over the strange ways of this world, and each scout says his say. Side by side they sit there on their wrinkled brown blankets, in their mottled khaki suits, hats tilted, crushed, maybe missing. And no one questions the other's right to a place [illegible]. There is but one qualification here, [illegible] of the United States of America. Each belongs.

So Solomon and Salvatore and [illegible] and Bradford Whitehead [illegible] out the vexatious problems of the team, [illegible] duty, who's who for which job and agreeing to disagree on many subjects, join heartily in the campfire song before turning in for the night. Tomorrow this may be the guard of honor for the president, or just a bunch of scouts doing each his good deed for the day.

But wherever they go and whatever they do they are for me and for thousands like me, the great hope of this nation. They are our own healthy, happy, clean, free-spirited lads, growing into service, not for destruction and death, but for construction and life. I'd rather review ten little chaps in catch-as-catch-can dress, clothed in the freedom of their souls, than a multitude of smartly dressed youth jacketed in the uniform of authority.

That Body of Yours

THE HEART IS A TOUGH ORGAN

As the greatest single cause of death is heart disease, it might be thought that the heart is a complicated and delicate organ. As a matter of fact, the heart is about the simplest acting organ in the body—just a pump—whereas the liver stores sugar, filters poisons from the blood, manufactures bile which breaks up fats, kills harmful organisms and is a natural purgative.

What about the strength of the heart? Is it because it is a weak or delicate organ that it is the most frequent cause of death?

Dr. Paul D. White, Harvard, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, says:

"The undue stress which is now being laid on heart disease has caused many cases of heart neuroses (thinking you have a heart disease when none is present) and has made many patients miserable unnecessarily. A patient with a damaged heart may live long and happily. We must learn to recognize the difference between immediate and later danger in these cases. The heart is a 'tough' organ which will stand much abuse and recover even after serious damage.

"Most people think that if coronary disease (damage to little vessels carrying the blood to the heart walls or muscles) occurs, the patient will die in a short time, or be an invalid the rest of his life. The fact is that thousands of such cases die of fear, free from all heart symptoms.

"A patient with coronary disease can live happily for many years if he will use common sense and follow his doctor's orders. If he will remain in bed for a few weeks at times, avoid large meals and late hours, he may not be permanently disabled, though he may be for a short while."

Dr. White says that the above statements apply also to other forms of heart disease such as tacchycardia—very rapid beating of the heart—and rheumatic heart disease.

The point then is that the heart is a tough organ—muscle—and can stand a great amount of damage without death occurring. One of the greatest dangers in cases of damaged hearts is the damage done to the whole body, including the heart, by fear.

The heart may be damaged but can still carry half its former load. Heart disease is always a serious condition but you may be helped by "using common sense and following your doctor's orders."

Look At The Substance

Our political words are getting all scrambled.

Some of them have come to mean practically nothing at all.

When men understand widely different things by the same word, then that word is no longer of much value.

Two words ring in every ear today, and all day long. They are "democracy" and dictatorship."

Are we talking about the same thing when we use these words? Let's see. Democracy. Why, that's a country where the people govern themselves!

Is it? Well the United States is not, never was, and never was intended to be, a pure democracy. It is a democratic republic.

The people govern themselves, but not directly. They are governed by popularly-chosen officials who have certain powers as long as they are in office. People can replace them with others if they don't like what is done. That is a republic, but it is not pure democracy.

Is Sweden a democracy? Of course not, we say. It is a monarchy. The king is head of the state, and he rules because his father ruled.

Yet in Sweden everything of importance is done by popularly-elected representatives of the people. The king walks about town or rides the trolleys like anybody else. And the Socialists think he's swell. In many ways Sweden is more democratic under the monarchy than France is under a republic.

Is Russia a democracy? It is a government set up and run by the members of a single party. They alone have power. They alone have rights. That is a theory that works like this: A small part of highly-trained people decide that the great bulk of the people are dopes, and unable to govern themselves.

So they say, "With the best motives in the world, and in behalf of those voiceless millions, we appoint ourselves their representatives. We will seize power and rule for them until some day they are able to do it themselves."

But your most rigid South American dictator always insists that he also is merely a trustee of the people's power, ruling for them until they are able to do it themselves. And that is dictatorship.

So whenever we hear those words "democracy" and "dictatorship" today let's stop and ask ourselves, just what do we mean?

Better than either word today is a "free country." Every American has defiantly asked the question "Well, it's a free country isn't it?" He knows what that means.

And the important thing about any country today is not "Is it a democracy?" or "A dictatorship?" or "A monarchy?" but "Is it free?"

OKLAHOMA'S MAGIC

Oklahoma, celebrating the end of the first half century of its development, has the distinction of being the first state possessing all the requisites of quick growth. Its transformation from 70,000 square miles of Indian settlements and wilderness to its present estate of populousness and wealth has been, as times goes, in the twinkling of an eye because everything needed was available as it was to no other state.

Agriculturally Oklahoma came into being just as the age of implements began to flower and as crop improvement was coming to full tide. Minerally Oklahoma caught the surge of demand coincidentally with the discovery of its great oil fields. Industrially the state has partaken in the westward trek of industry, a manifestation which had been only feeble before Oklahoma's settlement.

Add to this synchronization of resources with the fortuities of invention and advancement of the fact that Oklahoma was peopled by folks of great initiative, perseverance and vision and you have the explanation of a state of magic progress such as the world has never before experienced.

A GOOD RECORD

The Civil Aeronautics authority reports that in the period between December 12 and March 20 domestic lines flew 128,162,050 passenger-miles with only one fatal accident. The three transcontinental systems, United, TWA and American, and the Eastern Airlines flew 50,000,000 passenger-miles without even a forced landing.

The winter season is the most dangerous flying season of the year. Past records show what a really remarkable improvement this year's record is. On the basis of airplane miles flown we find the following figures:

In the winter of 1935-36 12,909,995 miles were flown with eighteen fatalities. In 1936-37 14,218,365 miles were flown with twenty-eight fatalities. This past winter 17,863,370 miles were flown with only four fatalities.

This is real progress. The authority is justly proud of this season's record. The lines may also be proud that an expanding business, still in an era of development, has made safety keep step with speed.

Headline: "New Deal Business Aid in Test Tube." Some businessmen think a test tube is just about the right size.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—The famous "hunger march" of the southeastern Missouri share-croppers dropped out of the news two months ago, or more. But the underlying problem which that march high-lighted is still unsolved.

Detailed reports on the fate of the families involved in the march have been made by field agents of the Farm Security administration.

They make up a depression picture of human suffering and discouragement, caused not by any human being's cussedness or malice, but by a fundamental economic tangle which is no nearer solution now than it was before the march began.

What Happened To Families

When the hunger march was broken up, some of the marchers were returned to the land. Certain families went back to the farms they came from; day laborers who had never been permanently located were, in some instances, assigned to farms. But a number of families were more or less left stranded.

Some 40 families were dumped down at the Sweet Home Baptist church, owned by negroes. Others were taken to a crossroads settlement named Dorena and given a camping place on the flood plain below the levee.

For two dozen or more of these families, the Farm Security administration provided army tents—which, flimsy shelter as they are, are still more comfortable dwellings than anything the bulk of these families have ever lived in.

These people are being fed through state relief authorities and through grants from the FSA. Some improvement in the situation came a few weeks ago, when spring weather started the planting of cotton on the plantations and made jobs available. But a large number of the 300-odd families involved in the march are still unemployed.

Riddle Confronts FSA

If the FSA continues to support people who won't work at prevailing wages, it is in effect supporting a strike. The FSA authorities may feel that farm labor wages in the southeastern Missouri cotton belt are too low, but they say that it is no part of their function to fight for a higher scale.

The average farm laborer in this area, say the FSA people, gets only four months work in a year. During his idle time, he can't support himself, and FSA (or somebody) has to take care of him. By caring for him in that idle season, then, FSA is in effect subsidizing the landlords and their low wage scale.

As a matter of fact, it is not only the hunger marchers who are on FSA's hands. During the last three months, FSA has been supporting approximately 5,500 families in those seven southeast Missouri counties, at a monthly cost of rather more than $80,000.

Just at present, there doesn't seem to be much it can do but go on supporting them. Its rehabilitation program doesn't work in that area, because family-sized tracts on which penniless farm families might be settled just aren't available.

Economic Pressure Causes Trouble

Many disquieting rumors have come out of the southeastern Missouri area. Landlords are said to have forbidden their tenants to hold meetings. One report has it that a tenant group trying to attend a cross-roads meeting was broken up and its dilapidated truck confiscated.

Basically, in the judgment of FSA officials, the southeast Missouri situation is simply a factory problem, with an agricultural proletariat. And because the agricultural proletariat in America is growing, the Missouri problem is taken as an advance warning of the kind of farm problem that is likely to become more and more common in other parts of America in the future.

TODAY'S BIBLE THOUGHT

Now therefore in the sight of all Israel the congregation of the Lord, and in the audience of our God, keep and seek for all the commandments of the Lord your God: that ye may possess this good land, and leave it for an inheritance for your children after you forever.—I Chronicles 28:8.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—One of the more ridiculous facets of Hollywood life is the frantic urge of almost every local merchant to publicize his dealings—real or imaginary—with the stars. No hole-in-the-wall cafe is too little or too messy to be without its quota of autographed star photos—pledges to the credulous that kings and queens of glamordom eat their hot dogs there. Given a reluctant customer, our haberdashers invariably try to break down sales resistance with the bland statement: "Clark Gable bought one just like it last week." The butcher, the baker and the candlestick-maker all claim to be favored purveyors to the stars. The carpet-sweeper salesman tells us that he's just sold a deluxe model to Claudette Colbert; the cemetery lot salesman assures us that his proferred gravesite will soon be surrounded by the mortal remains of top-flight celebrities and, just the other day, I heard a radio ad for a pawn-broker who bills himself as "Loan Man to the Stars."

Hollywood is suffering from mass monomania—and it's small wonder if the rest of the world finds us amusing. We are so sure that being an actor is the highest pursuit open to man, and that, failing to attain that glorified state, the next best thing is to buy our doughnuts and our shoes and our cars from stores a movie star has deigned to enter.

When you remember that only one or two generations ago actors were merely tolerated, it's all very ironic, very profitable—and awfully nice!

Personal observations: Jane Withers calls her adult lady friends by their first names but—down-south fashion—always prefixes their names with a polite "Miss." Charles Boyer is a pacer-up-and-downer—while the rest of the troupe gossips between scenes he shuttles the length of the stage in profound meditation. If there's a divan on the set, you'll find it occupied by the elongated frame of Arthur Treacher as soon as the director has said "Cut." Nominated for Hollywood's longest and reddest fingernail title: Mrs. Richard Barthelmess.

Tyrone Power will never have to worry about the little woman's hat bills—Annabella seldom, if ever, wears one. Add to your list of amusing star mannerisms, Freddie Bartholomew's habit of swelling out his chest—football hero style—as soon as he feels a set-visitor's curious gaze. Ronald Colman, who often smiles, almost never indulges in the luxury of a full-fledged laugh. Wonder why all actors, no matter how un-outdoorish, seem to feel it their sacred duty to register enthusiasm when the conversation drifts to hunting and fishing.

Connie Bennett, who uses much less slang than most cinemites, invariably says "dough," not "money." Studies in futility: the effort to hurry Gary Cooper past a sporting goods display in a store window—it just can't be done. There's a drop of acid in the dulcet tones of almost any actress when she mentions Sonja Henie—resentment, no doubt, of an amazing success unconnected with acting ability. Pick up any book that Grace Moore's been reading and you'll find it decorated with marginal notes—always in French.

Frank Capra, currently directing "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," is now trying to solve the second phase of a ticklish problem. As a premise, understand, first of all, that the villain of the piece is a congressman, and a deep-dyed despicable he is. Obviously, to avert fury in some one of the 48 states, he had to be given a name not duplicated in fact records for many years. That was fairly easy, for research revealed that since 1875 there has not been a congressman named Payne. But the second phase of the puzzle. It looks as though one of our political parties must inevitably be offended. In congress, the Republicans sit on one side of the house, the Democrats sit on the other—and Mr. Payne, that nasty man, must sit somewhere.

An amusing incident at M-G-M, when Eleanor Powell and Fred Astaire, the king and queen of taps, were summoned for a conference about their first co-starring venture, "Broadway Melody of 1940." The producer spent the first 15 minutes in outlining the story situations and eventually arrived at a scene where the two stars exchange their first kiss. Fred interrupted. "I beg your pardon," he said very seriously, "but before we carry this romance any further, it might be a good idea to introduce me to Miss Powell. We've never met."

Allen Jenkins plays a tough mug in "Five Came Back"—a mug so very tough that there's a bit of humor in an accident which befell him the other day. He's limping about with a sprained ankle—the result of being kicked by a half-grown fawn that's working in the picture.

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

In its final form, American baseball, like most of the important public assets of this country, "just grew." It wasn't evolved by uniformed sports-fuehrers, cooking up "strength through joy." This summer, we come to the centennial of the invention of baseball—starting with two catchers, six men in the infield and four in the garden—by Abner Doubleday, of Cooperstown, N. Y., according to the best information that can be obtained.

It was during the summer of his second year at West Point, in 1839, that Abner Doubleday, later Major-General Doubleday, garlanded in three wars, scratched out a diamond with a stick, and refashioned the rules of town ball and one old cat.

And here's a curious note about General Doubleday. Diligent search in the dusty old archives of West Point brings to light this century-old cutback about the young shavetail, as recorded by one of his professors: "He is a man who does not care for or go into any outdoor sports."

The 1939 baseball season went off to a fast running start, to the crash of the bands, the crackling of the peanut shells, the raucous bark of the umpires, the hard smack of the bat and the yells of happy and yappant multitudes, under a free sky, exercising the penchant of free men—to howl their heads off in ecstacy or rage, as it may happen to please our sovereign souls.

It is not only a grand sluice for a whole lot of pent-up national deviltry, but it is just about a $175,000,000 industry, in stadia and playing fields, with an annual turnover of many more millions in the manufacture of equipment, and employment to many thousands of people.

Quartermastering these 5,000 professional baseball players—to say nothing of the amateurs—with bats, balls and uniforms, chewing gum, towels, soap, medicine, chewing tobacco, sweat shirts, blankets, beds, grass seed, top-soil, fertilizer, shovels, rakes, hose lines, rosin and arnica marks a feat of annual wealth distribution which the goose-step sportsmen will find it hard to match.

General Doubleday, a tall handsome man, with wavy black hair and a lush moustache, fought in the Seminole wars, the Mexican war and the Civil war, commanding the Seventy-Sixth Infantry of New York in the last. He retired in 1873, writing various books of memoirs, studies of military tactics and whatnot, but nothing on his invention of baseball. He did note, casually, that he had introduced baseball among the northern troops, and it is known that its swift spread over the country in the post-war years was largely due to this.

The general was a facile and informed writer and no doubt would have wished to have been remembered for his books. But it was that summer scheming of a new game which finally rated him a bronze plaque at Cooperstown and a large oil painting in the Cooperstown railway station.

Many of the known facts about his origination of baseball were dredged up by a commission of baseball moguls and sports historians, in 1907, which sleuthed every available clue and ran down every known story about him. In spite of West Point's finding to the contrary, he was an eager player of baseball, and was a good catcher. Born at Ballston Spa, N. Y., in 1819, he studied civil engineering at the Cooperstown Classical and Military academy before his appointment to West Point.

Baseball was born barehanded. It was not until 1883 that Arthur Irwin, shortstop for Providence, first padded a buckskin driving glove and used it for a catcher's mitt, although unpadded gloves had been used as early as 1875. The first big, round, thick catcher's glove did not come until 1891. In 1877, James Tyng, Harvard catcher, worked over a fencer's mask into a catcher's mask, with the aid of a tinsmith. Yale jeered the bird-cage but quickly strung along. The chest protector came in 1885 and about that time Hughie Ahern of Baltimore introduced shinguards.

The first game for gate money was played between the New York and Brooklyn clubs at Fashion race course, Long Island, on July 20, 1858, before a crowd of 1,500. Cincinnati had the first pro nine, with its Red Stockings of 1869. Incidentally, this was the first pro team to wear short pants and long stockings, baseball pants previously having been something like sock-top cricket pants.

The Red Stockings started a wild outbreak of color in leagues all over the country. Gaudy and gaudier uniforms matched the wild ebullience of the considerably bewhiskered populace. The ball grew from a two-and-one-half-ounce yarn affair to the six-and-one-half-ounce ball of today. The diamond grew to thirty yards square. Rubber plates replaced rocks for bases. The six-foot-square pitcher's box became only figurative.

The crowds and gate receipts swelled to millions, growing as America grew, and giving us something to celebrate, after this first hundred years, possibly quite as important as anything General Doubleday wrote about in his books.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

I reviewed the scout troop and, standing beside me was a friend fresh from a visit to a far country where he had seen boys and girls in smart uniforms, in military order, marching proudly behind gorgeously arrayed bands.

"Fine youngsters, aren't they?" said I, proud of the healthy brown skins, the sturdy legs, straight back and clear eyes of the little boys.

"Yes, but you ought to see the kids on the other side. They look like something. Their uniforms fit to the last button. They have style. Your kids look a mess. Their uniforms don't fit; their hats don't sit; they aren't well set up at all. Why don't you make them look like something? You dress those kids up and smarten them up a little with military drills and you couldn't beat them. Americans are too free and easy."

I swallowed the first few words that rose to the end of my tongue and tried to hold on to my manners. After all, he was company. "Well," said I, when I could, "to me those lads look like something mighty good. They look like the United States of America to me, and somehow that's a wonderful sight for my eyes. I think they'll do."

In fact, now that there is no company, I am sure they will do. These boys of ours are trained in service. Their motto is: Be prepared. They are prepared to live by training themselves in the habits that make for sound health. They hike instead of marching for long miles in military formation. Their bodies and their spirits are free as they go. Free to see the beauty of the country, to feel the spring of the earth under their feet, to halt at the spring for a drink, to visit at the farms as they pass, to meet gayly the adventures on the road they travel. They are out to learn the ways of people, the habits and the needs of the creatures of the woods and meadows, the names and the uses of the plants by the way.

The woods are the schools for these lads. In them they study how to enjoy trees, how to use them for daily necessities of shelter and fire and food. They are out to preserve beauty, to conserve use, to further growth, and not to abuse and ruin and destroy.

They build a campfire and gather about it to talk over the strange ways of this world, and each scout says his say. Side by side they sit there on their wrinkled brown blankets, in their messed khaki suits, hats tilted, crushed, maybe missing. And no one questions the other's right to a place in the council, or a voice in its proceedings because of his ancestry. They know but one qualification here—citizenship of the United States of America. Each belongs.

So Solomon and Salvatore and Aloysius and Bradford Whitehead thrash out the vexatious problems of the team, police duty, who's who for which job, and agreeing to disagree on many subjects, join heartily in the campfire songs before turning in for the night. Tomorrow they may be the guard of honor for the president, or just a bunch of scouts doing each his good deed for the day.

But wherever they go and whatever they do, they are for me and for thousands like me, the great hope of this nation. They are our own healthy happy, clean, free-spirited lads, growing into service, not for destruction and death, but for construction and life. I'd rather review ten little chaps in catch-as-catch-can dress, clothed in the freedom of their souls, than a multitude of smartly dressed youth jacketed in the uniform of authority.

That Body of Yours

THE HEART IS A TOUGH ORGAN

As the greatest single cause of death is heart disease, it might be thought that the heart is a complicated and delicate organ. As a matter of fact, the heart is about the simplest acting organ in the body—just a pump—whereas the liver stores sugar, filters poisons from the blood, manufactures bile which breaks up fats, kills harmful organisms and is a natural purgative.

What about the strength of the heart? Is it because it is a weak or delicate organ that it is the most frequent cause of death?

Dr. Paul D. White, Harvard, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, says:

"The undue stress which is now being laid on heart disease has caused many cases of heart neuroses (thinking you have a heart disease when none is present) and has made many patients miserable unnecessarily. A patient with a damaged heart may live long and happily. We must learn to recognize the difference between immediate and later danger in these cases. The heart is a 'tough' organ which will stand much abuse and recover even after serious damage.

"Most people think that if coronary disease (damage to little vessels carrying the blood to the heart walls or muscles) occurs, the patient will die in a short time, or be an invalid the rest of his life. The fact is that thousands of such cases die of fear, free from all heart symptoms.

"A patient with coronary disease can live happily for many years if he will use common sense and follow his doctor's orders. If he will remain in bed for a few weeks at times, avoid large meals and late hours, he may not be permanently disabled, though he may be for a short while."

Dr. White says that the above statements apply also to other forms of heart disease such as tacchycardia—very rapid beating of the heart—and rheumatic heart disease.

The point then is that the heart is a tough organ—muscle—and can stand a great amount of damage without death occurring. One of the greatest dangers in cases of damaged hearts is the damage done to the whole body, including the heart, by fear.

The heart may be damaged but can still carry half its former load. Heart disease is always a serious condition but you may last for years by "using common sense and following your doctor's orders."

Why Worry About Your Heart?

EMPLOYMENT WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

This week, April 30 to May 6, has been set aside for employment week, with special emphasis on the "40-plus" problem, that is, to interest employers in the use of workers over 40, by the United States department of labor.

Veterans organizations are urged to avail themselves of this opportunity to advertise to the employing public the fact that approximately 400,000 veterans out of jobs at the present time are available for employment in various lines of endeavor. As these veterans are all the "40-plus" class it is specially appropriate that every veterans' post in the country give its active support to the movement.

A program for every day this week is suggested by John T. Wentz, of the veterans' replacement office, 600 Perdido street, New Orleans.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, April 30, 1939.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Remember, I pray thee, who ever perished, being innocent? or where were the righteous cut off?" (Job 4).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is useless to suppose that the wicked can gloat over their offences to the last moment and then be suddenly pardoned and pushed into heaven, or that the hand of love is satisfied with giving us only toil, sacrifice, cross-bearing, multiplied trials, for our efforts at well doing" (Pg. 36) and mockery of our motives in return

GRACE CHURCH

Services for the third Sunday after Easter are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. The church school will assemble at 9:30 a.m., and morning prayer will be read and sermon preached at 10:45 a.m. Services during the week are as follows: Monday, May 1, is the feast of St. Philip and St. James. The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 9 a.m. The services on Wednesday and Friday are as usual, the Holy Eucharist on Wednesday at 9 a.m., and Friday at 7:30 a.m. The Eucharist on Friday is a requiem. Christian consistency in the profession of Christ Crucified is the theme of the day, and its mighty power over sinners, to persuade them to repentance, this is suggested. The epistle, therefore, shows us what part of morality this consistency requires, and the Gospel shows us Whom we follow and whether He is leading us by His example. He says, "I go to the Father," and adds, "I will see you again and your heart shall rejoice."

The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

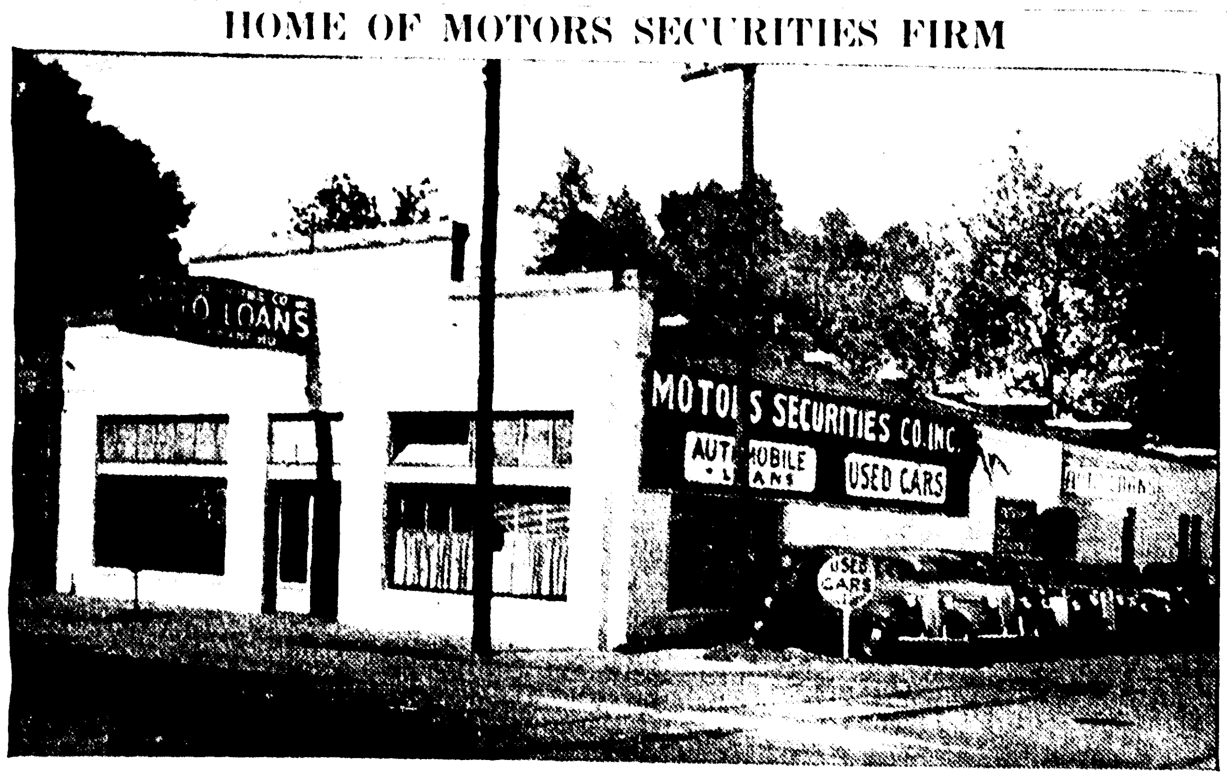
HOME OF MOTORS SECURITIES FIRM



This is the home of Motors Securities Company, Inc., 500 Walnut Street, Monroe, Louisiana. Here the company inspects cars for owners who want to borrow money or have their car payments reduced. New cars of all makes are also financed.

Money Loaned to Auto Owners by Local Firm for Past 11 Years

The Motors Securities Company, Inc., has been loaning money to car owners for 11 years, according to J. Leon Dennis, manager. "We have filled an urgent need in this community since 1928," Mr. Dennis said, "by extending financial assistance promptly to car owners who cannot readily borrow money on their unsecured paper, or who prefer to use an open line of credit for other purposes. Our service appeals to the man who wants to be independent of others because we require no endorsements.

"We are frequently of service to car buyers who find their payments too high. If the car is worth it, we have no hesitancy about settling in full with whoever the customer owes, and reducing the payments to a point where the customer can meet them comfortably.

"We are a member of the National Association of Sales Finance Companies and of the American Finance conference," Mr. Dennis continued, "which is by way of saying that we operate on a high plane of integrity and usefulness to the community. Our business is loaning money on automobiles, and as in any other commercial activity, satisfied customers borrow money on their cars not of necessity, but to keep their other lines of credit open. Many of our customers use our facilities as an added source of capital for investment, for use in financing their own business activities, and for many other purposes which have nothing to do with necessity.

"And in any case," Mr. Dennis concluded, "we are justifiably proud of the thousands we are privileged to serve and of the need we fill in the Monroe trade area."—Adv.

EMPLOYMENT WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

This week, April 30 to May 6, has been set aside for employment week, with special emphasis on the "40-plus" problem—that is, to interest employers in the use of workers over 40—by the United States department of labor.

Veterans organizations are urged to avail themselves of this opportunity to advertise to the employing public the fact that approximately 400,000 veterans, out of jobs at the present time, are available for employment in various lines of endeavor. As these veterans are all the "40-plus" class, it is specially appropriate that every veterans' post in the country give its active support to the movement.

A program for every day this week is suggested by John T. Wentz, of the veterans' replacement office, 826 Perdido street, New Orleans.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, April 30, 1939.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Remember, I pray thee, who ever perished, being innocent? or where were the righteous cut off." (Job 4)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is useless to suppose that the wicked can gloat over their offences to the last moment and then be suddenly pardoned and pushed into heaven, or that the hand of love is satisfied with giving us only toil, sacrifice, cross-bearing, multiplied trials, for our efforts at well doing." (Pg. 36) and mockery of our motives in return

CHURCH OF CHRIST

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the third Sunday after Easter are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. The church school will assemble at 9:30 a.m., and morning prayer will be read and sermon preached at 10:45 a.m. Services during the week are as follows: Monday, May 1, is the feast of St. Philip and St. James. The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 9 a.m. The services on Wednesday and Friday are as usual; the Holy Eucharist on Wednesday at 9 a.m., and Friday at 7:30 a.m. The Eucharist on Friday is a requiem. Christian consistency in the profession of Christ Crucified is the theme of the day; and its mighty power over sinners, to persuade them to repentance—this is suggested. The epistle, therefore, shows us what part of morality this consistency requires; and the Gospel shows us Whom we follow, and whither He is leading us, by His example. He says: "I go to the Father," and adds, "I will see you again and your heart shall rejoice."

The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

"If you are looking for a church home, come; we can help you.

"If you are looking for church work come; you can help us."

It is the purpose of this church to furnish hospitable fellowship in worship to all who come to worship with us. We greet the stranger here today and bid him welcome and God-speed. Regardless of creed or denomination, or the lack of them, anyone who finds help here in the Lord's house is most unreservedly welcome. Morning services at 11 o'clock and evening worship at 7:45. For the morning worship the minster has chosen the subject, "Restoration," based on the prophecy found in Joel 2:25.

The Women's Missionary society will meet Tuesday afternoon at the church for the business meeting. A full attendance is urged as members will be privileged to hear echoes of the missionary conference held at Lake Charles recently.

The Parker Memorial class will have its monthly business and social meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. W. C. Scott, 702 Jackson street. Members of the church are urged to attend the meetings each Thursday evening at the church. The minister is reviewing the book, "The Meaning of Service," by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, and conducting most interesting discussions on this vital question.

There is a class in the church school for you. Have you enrolled? Young people are cordially invited to the fellowship services each Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Come and enjoy the fellowship and refreshments, and gain an inspiration from the worship and open forum.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

Choir practice Tuesday evening at 7:30. Bible study Thursday evening at 7:30. In the study of the book of Revelation we will use the fifth chapter for the evening lesson. We invite the public to attend these study periods. We suggest, in the event that you cannot attend the service that you read and study the lesson in your own home, even though many miles separate us, it will prove a blessing to you. In the drama of time, if you wish to know your location, study this last recorded God-given message.

With regard to industrial financing, the association said the securities act should be amended to "reduce the expense of creating and distributing new capital issues by private business; reduce the length of time now involved in creating and distributing new capital issues; reduce and clarify the liabilities incurred in the creation and distribution of new capital issues by private business."

Asserting continued prosperity could not be assured unless there was "a definite and dependable currency standard," the association urged, among other things, the repeal of the president's power to authorize issuance of $3,000,000,000 in greenbacks and of his power to change the gold content of the dollar.

The association's program is closely in line with proposals made by committees of the United States Chamber of Commerce and to be submitted to the chamber's four-day meeting beginning here Monday.

"The key to recovery," is to be the theme of the chamber's general discussions. Delegates look to Secretary of Commerce Hopkins to express the administration's views in an address scheduled for Tuesday night. The subject listed for him in the convention program is "What the Federal Government Can Do to Help."

Along with the subjects in the manufacturers association's program, the chamber is expected to take a stand on proposals for federal licensing of corporations.

A chamber committee reported today that this proposal in the pending Borah-O'Mahoney bill, contained features unacceptable to business, including the idea that "the right to engage in interstate commerce is conferred by congress whereas it has always been understood that this right belongs to the citizens of the states and that congress has a duty to protect it."

hemorrhage cut to less than that of normal persons by injections of oxalic acid.

One was a child who had scratched his throat eating rock candy. His normal time to end bleeding was 45 minutes. The acid reduced this time to 45 seconds.

It was necessary to continue giving the acid from time to time until the wounds healed in these hemophiliacs.

The report told of the acid stopping childbirth hemorrhage where all other remedies had failed. It stopped hemorrhage of "obstructive jaundice" in 15 to 30 minutes, after vitamin K, the new clotting vitamin had failed. It was used for several different types of "bloodless" operations successfully.

dinner tonight in his mammoth new chancellery.

The Hungarian diplomats arrived in Berlin this afternoon for a three-day state visit and talked with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler's chief aide.

The fuehrer declared in his reichstag speech yesterday that "Danzig is German and wants to come to Germany." He also intimated that he would not seek again to come to terms with Poland over the Danzig-Polish corridor issue because Poland had rejected his "one and only proposal."

Nazis in Danzig had hoped to return to Germany on Hitler's 50th birthday, April 20, which was preceded with unfulfilled rumors of a German coup. Instead, Hitler merely accepted honorary citizenship in the free city.

Now, however, the breaking of Germany's treaty bonds with Poland has raised the enthusiasm of Danzig Nazis again. Their mouthpiece, the Danziger Vorposten, said Hitler's speech "has relieved us of war about Danzig's future. Its fate is now the fuehrer's personal concern."

Hitler will have two occasions Monday to tell the world anything he forgot to say in his answer yesterday to President Roosevelt's peace message or to comment on world reaction to what Nazi newspapers called his "crushing rebuff."

He was expected to speak twice during Nazi May day celebrations—to Hitler youth in the early morning and again at a mid-day rally in the Lustgarten.

BRITAIN'S TONE CONTINUES FIRM

LONDON, April 29.—(AP)—Great Britain maintained officially today that Reichfuehrer Adolf Hitler's speech yesterday left Europe's troubles "much as they were."

But the firm tone of empire diplomacy since the Nazi absorption of most of Czecho-Slovakia was shown again in a summons to the cabinet to meet Monday and in the week-end attention given Soviet Russia.

A review of the Hitler address was known to be on the agenda of the special meeting of the cabinet which also will study military conscription machinery and the outlook for a Palestine settlement.

Prime Minister Chamberlain rested at Chequers but Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax went to the foreign office where he summoned Ivan Maisky, Soviet Russian ambassador to London, who just had returned from Moscow.

It was reported reliably that Lord Halifax told the Russian envoy he was eager to conclude as soon as possible the Anglo-Russian talks designed to add Russia to the bloc led by Britain and France.

Russia has proposed a complete Anglo-French-Russian military alliance which would contain specific commitments to guard against aggression not only in Europe but in the Far East.

Britain accepted the proposal as a basis for discussion but has suggested as a counter-proposal a Russian declaration of willingness to help Britain, France and their allies "if, as and when those allies request help."

terruption since 1926, underwent a further shakeup. In the face of persistent criticism, R. Emmett O'Malley requested and was granted a leave of absence as head of the water department until "I have cleared myself of charges now pending against me in federal court."

O'Malley, as state superintendent of insurance, played a major role in compromising the insurance rate case and was indicted with Pendergast April 7 on income tax evasion charges in connection with that settlement.

Pendergast, in all the years his organization has been the balance of power in Missouri, has worked behind the scenes as a business man uninterested in political office himself. He has kept his hand on an assortment of businesses including a concrete company which has bid successfully on many city contracts.

Today's indictment accused him of obtaining income from those firms under other names. An example is the allegation that in 1935 $12,500 was paid in dividends on 250 shares of stock in Pendergast's ready mixed concrete company "owned by Pendergast but recorded in the name of E. H. Matheus." Matheus was Pendergast's secretary for a long time.

square miles in Europe, of which she has regained only 5,705 square miles, and an overseas empire of 1,276,627 square miles, none of which has been recovered.

Yet today Germany has an area of 260,474 square miles, if the nominally independent protectorate of Slovakia is included, compared to 208,000 square miles in 1914. She has almost 87,000,000 inhabitants, compared to 67,000,000 before the war.

Her great expansion was produced by annexing Austria and most of Czecho-Slovakia—two areas which belonged to the old Austro-Hungarian empire before the World war.

Germany has recovered or partially recovered four of nine areas taken away from her in Europe at Versailles.

The four recovered are:

Upper Silesia—3,746 square miles returned to Germany after a plebiscite on March 20, 1921, while 1,241 square miles went to Poland.

The Saar—738 square miles, returned to Germany after the plebiscite of January 13, 1935.

Upper Silesia—129 square miles, which had gone to Czecho-Slovakia, were returned to Germany with the Sudetenland under the Munich accord of September 29, 1938.

Memel—1,099 square miles, which had gone to the League of Nations and annexed by Lithuania in 1923, returned to Germany last March 23.

Hitler, in reiterating on Friday his demands for Germany's war-lost colonies, declared that "the only claim I have ever made and shall continue to make on England is that for return of our colonies."

All but a tiny portion of the 1,276,627 square miles of Germany's former overseas possessions is held under League of Nations mandates by Great Britain or members of the British commonwealth of nations, France, Belgium and Japan.

Approximately three-fourths of the total is held by Britain or her dominions.

The portion not held under mandate is the Tsingtao area of China, 200 square miles, which Japan took, then delivered to China and re-took in her conquest of China.

The nibbling process on the treaty of Versailles began as early as 1921, though it remained for Hitler, after he became chancellor on January 30, 1933, to speed up the destruction.

After Hitler gained power, the following were among the principal moves by which, directly or indirectly, he broke the bonds of Versailles:

October 14, 1933—Withdrawal of Germany from the League of Nations and the world disarmament conference.

March 12, 1935—Announcement that Germany's military air force already was in existence.

March 16, 1935—Germany discloses approximate quadrupling of the regular army, limited by the treaty to 100,000 men, and declares she is no longer obligated under the Versailles treaty.

June 18, 1935—Germany and Britain reach naval pact allowing Germany a fleet 35 per cent as large as Britain's. This treaty was denounced Friday by Germany.

March 7, 1936—Rhineland zone, demilitarized under Versailles treaty, was remilitarized.

November 14, 1936—Germany discards treaty limitations concerning German rivers and streams.

January 30, 1937—Hitler tells reichstag that the treaty confession of Germany's guilt in the World war had been "wiped out."

The Versailles treaty embodied the ideal of a League of Nations fostered by President Wilson. The league still lives—but its influence has almost disappeared.

Roberts, who went back to Moncton with Anderson late today, said there were tracks in the tundra showing the Russian plane skipped along for a short distance before its wheels mired. He said the wheels were destroyed and the plane was badly damaged.

When the first islanders arrived at the scene, about five miles from the nearest habitation, the Russian pointed on a map they had flown from Moscow. They shook their heads politely at gestured offers of hospitality from the English and French-speaking residents, but accepted food brought to the plane, in which they spent last night.

Il Duce announced the army strengthening plans to his cabinet in making a detailed report on a conference he had two days ago with the minister of finance, Paolo Thaon di Revel, Jr., and the chief of staff of the army and under-secretary for war, General Alberto Pariani.

A communique said:

"The new appropriations allocated to the army are designed to increase still further its efficiency, both from the point of view of effectives and from the point of view of equipment and territorial defensive organization."

As Premier Mussolini announced his new plans, Colonel-General Walther von Brauchitsch, chief of staff of the German army, was on his way to Rome for staff talks with the Italians.

Later he will go to Libya to inspect the Italian military forces there. Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering inspected these north African troops less than three weeks ago.

Italy will have another opportunity to counter British and French diplomatic moves with the arrival tomorrow of Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian foreign minister, who will spend two days in Rome conferring with Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Gafencu comes here after visiting Berlin, London and Paris. (Paris diplomats said he was hunting the best bargain before deciding whether Rumania would line up with the Rome-Berlin axis or Paris-London bloc.)

largely one-sided and biased administration of the act is creating confusion, causing industrial disputes, and injuring employes, employers and the public alike."

With regard to industrial financing, the association said the securities act should be amended to "reduce the expense of creating and distributing new capital issues by private business; reduce the length of time now involved in creating and distributing new capital issues; reduce and clarify the liabilities incurred in the creation and distribution of new capital issues by private business."

Asserting continued prosperity could not be assured unless there was "a definite and dependable currency standard," the association urged, among other things, the repeal of the president's power to authorize issuance of $3,000,000,000 in greenbacks and of his power to change the gold content of the dollar.

The association's program is closely in line with proposals made by committees of the United States Chamber of Commerce and to be submitted to the chamber's four-day meeting beginning here Monday.

"The key to recovery," is to be the theme of the chamber's general discussions. Delegates look to Secretary of Commerce Hopkins to express the administration's views in an address scheduled for Tuesday night. The subject listed for him in the convention program is "What the Federal Government Can Do to Help."

Along with the subjects in the manufacturers association's program, the chamber is expected to take a stand on proposals for federal licensing of corporations.

A chamber committee reported today that this proposal in the pending Borah-O'Mahoney bill, contained features unacceptable to business, including the idea that "the right to engage in interstate commerce is conferred by congress whereas it has always been understood that this right belongs to the citizens of the states and that congress has a duty to protect it."

As Premier Mussolini announced his new plans, Colonel-General Walther von Brauchitsch, chief of staff of the German army, was on his way to Rome for staff talks with the Italians.

Later he will go to Libya to inspect the Italian military forces there. Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering inspected these north African troops less than three weeks ago.

Italy will have another opportunity to counter British and French diplomatic moves with the arrival tomorrow of Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian foreign minister, who will spend two days in Rome conferring with Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Gafencu comes here after visiting Berlin, London and Paris. (Paris diplomats said he was hunting the best bargain before deciding whether Rumania would line up with the Rome-Berlin axis or Paris-London bloc.)

Ben Downing, Jr., Wins High School Golf Crown Again

A NEW HERO

Kelton Maxfield, diminutive southpaw hurler recently picked up by the White Sox at bargain rates, is making local fans forget Tom Perry. And Mr. Perry, if you've forgotten, was the Cotton States league's leading hurler in 1938 and an important factor in the Sox drive to the pennant. Like Perry, Maxfield is a southpaw. His physical statistics likewise stack up along the Perryesque line.

Maxfield has pitched better ball than any other member of the staff so far this spring. He has shown plenty of stuff, and in Friday night's game with Greenville the lefthander exhibited excellent control. His second effort was even better than his first, which is a good sign. Not only that, but in his initial appearance of the season he got three hits, one of which was a triple. There wasn't anything flukey about his stickwork that night.

He lost a tough decision Friday to the Bucks. The Sox spotted the Mississippians six runs in the first frame. After Narbitt had been routed Max hurled six consecutive scoreless innings, only to allow a run in the eighth—a run that could have been prevented with some airtight fielding—and thus lose the game when he was jerked for a pinch hitter. Monroe, of course, had tied the score before Max went out.

Nevertheless, the youngster won the plaudits of the big crowd for his heroic rescue act and convinced the club owners that they made a smart deal when they bought him. Not every pitcher will go in there six runs behind and put everything into his work as Maxfield did. He showed plenty of courage as well as pitching skill.

After compiling a brilliant record in 1937, last year Maxfield complained of trouble with his flipper, yet he won 12 games and lost nine for the sixth-place Opelousas club in the Evangeline league. That isn't a record to be ashamed of. The Evangeline is a pretty fast Class D circuit and there are some right rugged batsmen cavorting in the swamps. Too, Max undoubtedly will boast a better batting average in the Cotton States, 'cause his mark for 1938 was a husky .119.

Maxfield's performances here have not shown an indication of sore arm trouble and if he maintains his present pace he's likely to be one of the prize rookies of the season.

A REAL RECORD

Speaking of records, Ben Downing, Jr., racked up one yesterday that stands out like the well known lighthouse in a fog. His other two winning efforts were 147 and 153.

He's outstanding in his field, whereas ordinarily you can expect the championship to be a dogfight between a half dozen or so better than average high school golfers. PITT SETS MILE, HALF-MILE RELAY RECORDS AT PENN

Emerges As First Team To Take Four Titles At Track Carnival

By Bill Boni

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's Panthers, anchored each time by giant-striding John Woodruff, blazed over the fast Franklin field cinder track in successful defense of their half-mile and mile championships today, set new track meet records in both, and thus emerged as the first school ever to win four titles in the long history of the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival.

Long John, Olympic champion at 800 meters, was the standout figure in this 45th renewal of the track and field extravaganza. Appearing here for the last time as a collegian, the 6-foot, 4-inch giant gave proof of his versatility by running a blistering 220-yard leg in the morning and then coming back in the last event of the meet, the classic one-mile relay, to rip off a 47.4-second quarter-mile.

That anchor leg brought Pitt home 10 yards in front of Michigan. The time was 3 minutes, 14.8 seconds, one of the fastest performances on the books and six-tenths of a second under the Penn relay mark established seven years ago by Bill Carr and his University of Pennsylvania teammates. Coupled with the half-mile victory in 1:25.9, seven-tenths under the former best mark, and yesterday's sprint medley win, it enabled the Panthers to repeat all three of their 1938 triumphs. In addition they won the quarter-mile championships yesterday.

Pittsburgh and Woodruff combined for two of the seven carnival standards which were smashed today. The others fell in the Class "B" college [illegible] by Maryland in [illegible] three-tenths under the former mark, the teachers' college mile, won by Hampton of Virginia in 3:21.4, the high school mile and the prep school mile [illegible].

BROWN OF L. S. U. WINS 100-YARD DASH AT RELAYS

Borican, New York Negro, Bested In Special 1,000-Yard Race By Fenske

By Charles Dunkley

DES MOINES, Ia., April 29.—(AP)—Johnny Borican, spindle-legged negro from New York, traveled 1,000 miles to test his famed legs in a special 1,000-yard race winding up the Drake relay carnival today and failed by three precious yards to triumph.

Charles Fenske, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, out-gamed and out-finished Borican in a thriller before a crowd of 13,000.

Fenske, rated as the chief rival to Kansas' Glenn Cunningham as the nation's greatest miler, conquered the negro in a stretch duel, covering the distance in 2:12.2.

Borican, spurting into the lead from the inside lane, maintained his advantage until near the finish of the second turn over the 440-yard cinder oval with Fenske always a stride behind him. Then the red shirted former Badger poured on the heat and inch by inch began chopping down Borican's lead.

They ran shoulder to shoulder into the stretch turn and there Fenske began to pull gradually away. Driving his spikes into the cinders he settled the race 80 yards from the finish. There was no doubt of his triumph then as Borican was tiring rapidly.

Calvin Bell of Rice and Raymond Gahan of Oklahoma, the other starters, never threatened the leaders. Fenske, who won the 1,000-yard championship here a year ago, beating Cunningham's time for the distance, was defending that honor. He failed, however, by one and a half seconds to equal the time he hung up in the 1938 carnival.

The wind-up today saw four more carnival records ripped from the book, bringing the two days' total to seven. The Oklahoma Aggies started it by winning the four-mile relay in 17:20.6 to shade Missouri's mark of a year ago by five seconds.

A game quartet from George Pepperdine college, Los Angeles, smashed the next record by winning the two-mile college relay in 7:43.4, and the college division one-half mark fell when the Southwest State Teachers

Challedon And Johnstown Are Favorites Of Trainers

Two Tie In Poll By A.P. To Determine Choice To Win Kentucky Derby

By Sid Feder

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—After due deliberations, the trainers string along with Challedon and Johnstown for the Kentucky Derby.

A "jury box" full of the fellows who saddle the horses and send 'em to the races made their selections for next Saturday's Blue Grass classic for the Associated Press today, and decided it was between the W. L. Brann hopeful and William Woodward's big bay, with Technician and El Chico drawing slim support.

Of the 12 trainers in the "jury," four picked Challedon and four others gave it to the tall son of Jamestown. Another, Max Hirsch, who knows a thing or two about the gee-gees, couldn't make up his mind between the pair. Two "leaned" toward Technician, and Matt Brady climbed aboard his own entry, little El Chico.

Seven of the dozen have Derby eligibles of their own. Of course, Lou Schaeffer, who trains Challedon; Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, who does the same for Johnstown; Ben Jones, Technician's boss, and Brady each voted for his own candidate.

Earl Sande joined the Johnstown cheering and chowder society, but figured his own Heather Broom "may fool 'em." Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who had to take on the job for his own stables because of Bud Stottler's injury, will probably keep his Impound out of the Derby to save the Sun Beau colt for the Preakness. So he voted for Challedon. Roscoe Goose, whose Lightspur is a doubtful starter, saw Technician in the crystal ball.

Challedon's breeding drew the fancy of most of those going for the Maryland-bred nominee, while Johnstown's backers, naturally, pointed to

Greenville Noses Out Locals By Same Count As On Friday Night

Scoring three runs in the ninth inning and holding a Monroe rally to two runs in the same frame, the Greenville Buckshots again nosed out the White Sox here last night, 9 to 8. The score was the same as that of Friday night, and it was the fourth time the Sox had lost to Greenville by a one-run margin.

Despite some heavy hitting by the Bucks, Monroe errors again were contributing factors in the victory for Greenville. The Sox committed six errors against only two for the Mississippians, while the Bucks outhit Monroe, 15 to 9.

The umpiring last night didn't appear to be just what it should have been. Monroe batters and runners got some questionable decisions against them at the plate and on the bases.

That's a record that's likely to stand for many years. Young golfers like Ben aren't uncovered every year or every decade, for that matter. He's outstanding in his field, whereas ordinarily you can expect the championship to be a dogfight between a half dozen or so better than average high school golfers. And the odds are about 100 to 1 that no prep school star will win the coveted crown three years in a row.

PITT SETS MILE, HALF-MILE RELAY RECORDS AT PENN

Emerges As First Team To Take Four Titles At Track Carnival

By Bill Boni

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's Panthers, anchored each time by giant-striding John Woodruff, blazed over the fast Franklin field cinder track in successful defense of their half-mile and mile championships today, set new track meet records in both, and thus emerged as the first school ever to win four titles in the long history of the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival.

Long John, Olympic champion at 800 meters, was the standout figure in this 45th renewal of the track and field extravaganza. Appearing here for the last time as a collegian, the 6-foot, 4-inch giant gave proof of his versatility by running a blistering 220-yard leg in the morning and then coming back in the last event of the meet, the classic one-mile relay, to rip off a 47.4-second quarter-mile.

That anchor leg brought Pitt home 10 yards in front of Michigan. The time was 3 minutes, 14.8 seconds, one of the fastest performances on the books and six-tenths of a second under the Penn relay mark established seven years ago by Bill Carr and his University of Pennsylvania teammates. Coupled with the half-mile victory in 1:25.9, seven-tenths under the former best mark, and yesterday's sprint medley win, it enabled the Panthers to repeat all three of their 1938 triumphs. In addition, they won the quarter-mile championships yesterday.

Pittsburgh and Woodruff combined for two of the seven carnival standards which were smashed today. The others fell in the Class "B" college mile, won by Maryland in 3:19.3, three-tenths under the former mark; the teachers' college mile, won by Hampton of Virginia in 3:21.4; the high school mile, and the prep school mile and two-mile.

In addition one meet mark was tied by Mozel Ellerbee, N. C. A. champion from Tuskegee (Ala.) institute. The negro whipped through the final of the 100-yard invitation sprint in 9.6 seconds to win by a good three feet from Kenny Clapp of Brown.

Besides Pitt, only one other school took more than one title. North Texas State Teachers' college, featuring Wayne and Blaine Rideout, added to the distance medley it had won on opening day the four-mile championship, with Wayne Rideout running a 4:16.3 mile and twin brother Blaine a 4:13.5 anchor to score by 120 yards over Manhattan college in 17:25.9. New York U. with a 7:45 performance, succeeded Manhattan as two-mile champion, and Virginia, owing almost all of its success to Frank Fuller, took down the 480-yard shuttle hurdle title.

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 29.—(AP)—Mississippi State, sporting a fast crew of sprinters, defeated the University of Mississippi track team today, 79 2-3 to 50 1-3. The Ole Miss frosh beat the State yearlings 11 to 4.

BROWN OF L. S. U. WINS 100-YARD DASH AT RELAYS

Borican, New York Negro, Bested In Special 1,000-Yard Race By Fenske

By Charles Dunkley

DES MOINES, Ia., April 29.—(AP)—Johnny Borican, spindle-legged negro from New York, traveled 1,000 miles to test his famed legs in a special 1,000-yard race winding up the Drake relay carnival today and failed by three precious yards to triumph.

Charles Fenske, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, out-gamed and out-finished Borican in a thriller before a crowd of 13,000.

Fenske, rated as the chief rival to Kansas' Glenn Cunningham as the nation's greatest miler, conquered the negro in a stretch duel, covering the distance in 2:12.2.

Borican, spurting into the lead from the inside lane, maintained his advantage until near the finish of the second turn over the 440-yard cinder oval, with Fenske always a stride behind him. Then the red shirted former Badger poured on the heat and inch by inch began chopping down Borican's lead.

They ran shoulder to shoulder into the stretch turn and there Fenske began to pull gradually away. Driving his spikes into the cinders he settled the race 50 yards from the finish. There was no doubt of his triumph then as Borican was tiring rapidly.

Calvin Bell of Rice and Raymond Gahan of Oklahoma, the other starters, never threatened the leaders. Fenske, who won the 1,000-yard championship here a year ago, beating Cunningham's time for the distance, was defending that honor. He failed, however, by one and a half seconds to equal the time he hung up in the 1938 carnival.

The wind-up today saw four more carnival records ripped from the book, bringing the two days' total to seven. The Oklahoma Aggies started it by winning the four-mile relay in 17:29.6 to shade Missouri's mark of a year ago by five seconds.

A game quartet from George Pepperdine college, Los Angeles, smashed the next record by winning the two-mile college relay in 7:43.4, and the college division one-half mark fell when the Southwest State Teachers

Challedon And Johnstown Are Favorites Of Trainers

By Sid Feder

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—After due deliberations, the trainers string along with Challedon and Johnstown for the Kentucky Derby.

A "jury box" full of the fellows who saddle the horses and send 'em to the races made their selections for next Saturday's Blue Grass classic for the Associated Press today, and decided it was between the W. L. Brann hopeful and William Woodward's big bay, with Technician and El Chico drawing slim support.

Of the 12 trainers in the "jury," four picked Challedon and four others gave it to the tall son of Jamestown. Another, Max Hirsch, who knows a thing or two about the gee-gees, couldn't make up his mind between the pair. Two "leaned" toward Technician, and Matt Brady climbed aboard his own entry, little El Chico.

Seven of the dozen have Derby eligibles of their own. Of course, Lou Schaeffer, who trains Challedon; Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, who does the same for Johnstown; Ben Jones, Technician's boss, and Brady each voted for his own candidate.

Earl Sande joined the Johnstown cheering and chowder society, but figured his own Heather Broom "may fool 'em." Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who had to take on the job for his own stables because of Bud Stottler's injury, will probably keep his Impound out of the Derby to save the Sun Beau colt for the Preakness. So he voted for Challedon. Roscoe Goose, whose Lightspur is a doubtful starter, saw Technician in the crystal ball.

Challedon's breeding drew the fancy of most of those going for the Maryland-bred nominee, while Johnstown's backers, naturally, pointed to

Greenville Noses Out Locals By Same Count As On Friday Night

Scoring three runs in the ninth inning and holding a Monroe rally to two runs in the same frame, the Greenville Buckshots again nosed out the White Sox here last night, 9 to 8. The score was the same as that of Friday night, and it was the fourth time the Sox had lost to Greenville by a one-run margin.

Despite some heavy hitting by the Bucks, Monroe errors again were contributing factors in the victory for Greenville. The Sox committed six errors against only two for the Mississippians, while the Bucks outhit Monroe, 15 to 9.

The umpiring last night didn't appear to be just what it should have been. Monroe batters and runners got some questionable decisions against them at the plate and on the bases.

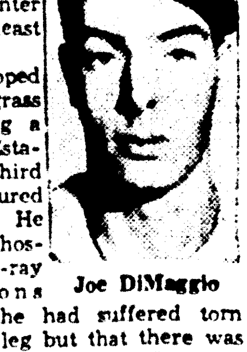
SENATORS WHIP YANKEES FOR SECOND TIME

Nats Exercise Jinx Over Champions; Joe DiMaggio Hurt In Game

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—The Washington "jinx" struck the world champion New York Yankees twice today. The Yanks lost their second game of the season to the Senators, 3-1, and they lost the services of Joe DiMaggio, their star center fielder, for at least a week.



Joe DiMaggio

DiMaggio slipped on the wet grass while chasing a triple by Bob Estalella in the third inning and injured his right leg. He was taken to a hospital, where X-ray examinations revealed that he had suffered torn muscles in his leg but that there was no fracture. He was released from the hospital after the examination.

Dr. Robert E. Walsh, the team physician, said the injury would keep DiMaggio on the bench at least a week.

The southpaw pitching of Ken Chase was largely responsible for the Yanks' second setback. Their only other defeat this season was at the hands of the Senators a week ago.

All the scoring was bunched in the first two innings, the Senators jumping on the left-handed slants of Vernon Gomez in the first for their three runs.

Two singles and a passed ball put George Case and Charley Gelbert in position to score on Taft Wright's double and Wright himself scored when Joe Gordon booted Cecil Travis' grounder.

DiMaggio singled, advanced on a walk to Lou Gehrig and scored on Joe Gallagher's single to give the Yankees their tally in the second. It was the seventh consecutive game in which DiMaggio had hit safely.

Each team got nine hits. Gomez was removed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth and Johnny Murphy finished on the mound for the Yankees.

OUACHITA RELAY TEAM SETS NEW MARK AT RALLY

Establishes Mile Record Of 3:29.8, Two Seconds Better Than Old

BATON ROUGE, La., April 29.—(AP)—Seven new records went into the books today as Baton Rouge High school captured its perennial raily track and field title for competition among athletes from the larger Louisiana schools.

Plain Dealing won in the B division, events for schools with less than 110 enrollment.

New A division records were set in the mile relay and shot put and records equalled in the 100-yard dash and the quarter-mile. New records set in B division came in the high and low hurdles, mile relay, javelin and shot and the pole vault mark was equalled.

Baton Rouge High swept a division for its 16th title in the past 17 years with 36 points to 18 each for Byrd High of Shreveport and Istrouma of Baton Rouge, 14 for Jesuit of New Orleans, 12 for Warren Easton of New Orleans and 11 for Bolton of Alexandria.

Trailing Plain Dealing's 36 1-4 points in B division were Tioga with 24 1-2, Pride with 18, Rayne with 10 and Boyce with 9.

Although Baton Rouge presented a balanced team, its star performers were J. D. Tucker and Billy Christopher. Tucker equalled the 100-yard dash mark at 9.8, two timers clocking him at 9.7, and captured the furlong dash in 22.3 and anchored the winning football shuttle relay team and second-place mile relay team.

Christopher took three first places in the broad jump, high jump and hop, step and jump. T. J. Bankston, husky Istrouma High youngster, set the new A division shot put record at 52 feet, 3 3-8 inches and won the discus event with a heave that missed the record by four feet.

Ouachita High of Monroe won the mile relay in the record-breaking time of 3:29.8, bettering the old mark by more than two seconds.

Starring in the B division was Woodrow Holland of Plain Dealing, who set new records for the javelin and low hurdles. He sped over the timbers in 24.9, nearly a second better than the existing mark, and in yesterday's javelin final threw the spear 177 feet, 8 inches, more than ten feet further than the old record.

RIGGS WINS HOT SPRINGS TOURNEY

Contender For No. 1 On Davis Cup Team Has Hard Time Beating Sabin

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 29.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, one of the nation's ranking amateurs, won the Hot Springs Invitation tennis tournament today from Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., national indoor champion, in a hard-fought match. The score was 6-3, 9-7, 8-6.

A cold wind swept the courts as Riggs, a leading contender for No. 1 on the American Davis Cup team, piled up points with the aid of tricky drop shots in the first set. The Chicagoan exhibited amazing accuracy in cross fire to the side lines to take the last two sets.

Sabin had a 5-4 lead in the second set and Riggs had to pull himself out of a hole twice on the set point with his own serve to tie the games 5-5 and run out the set 9-7. Sabin, seeded No. 2 in the tournament, also took a 5-4 advantage in the third set but Riggs' blistering ace gave him the winning point in the next game. Each won his next serve and then Riggs broke Sabin's service.

In the final game, after being love 40 on his own service, Riggs took the next five points to clinch the championship.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Beverly Farms, Mass., and Miss Eliza Coxe of Asheville, N. C., won the women's doubles from Mrs. Peter Belin of Washington and Miss Allison Harrison of New York 8-6, 3-6, 6-4.

WHITE SOX PACK 1,917 FANS INTO PARK FOR OPENER

Announcement Of Award Made By Judge Harty, League President

The Monroe White Sox, pennant winners of the Cotton States league last season, won the Peacock attendance day trophy by turning out 1,917 spectators in their opening day game here April 21 against El Dorado, it was announced yesterday by Judge Emmett Harty, league president, of Greenville, Miss.

Judge Harty, with E. L. Lueckenbach, league secretary, came to Monroe yesterday to officially present the Monroe club with the trophy. They also were in attendance at the Greenville-Monroe game here last night.

The Clarksdale Red Sox were runners-up for the trophy, offered by the Peacock Jewelry company of Monroe, with 1,763 paid admissions at their first home game, according to Judge Harty. The El Dorado Lions, running third, played their first game to 1,534 fans.

The attendances at the opening day games in the other five cities of the circuit were: Helena, 1,362; Greenville, 1,357; Hot Springs, 1,239; Greenwood, 1,013; and Pine Bluff, 675.

Judge Harty, after seeing the Buckshots and White Sox in action both in Greenville and Monroe, considers the White Sox the best club in the league at the present despite the fact that the league leading Bucks have shaded the Sox in their engagements.

He also considers that the lowly El Dorado Lions, now playing with only four class men, are due for an upward swing as soon as Manager Frank O'Rourke gets the players he needs.

Judge Harty and Secretary Lueckenbach followed the Buckshots on to El Dorado, where they will witness today's game between the Bucks and Lions.

CLARKS LOSES TO TIGERS BUT BEATS DOWNSVILLE

CLARKS, La., April 29.—(Special)—The Clarks High school Lumberjacks split their last two games of the season here this week, bowing before the Neville High school Tigers of Monroe, 7 to 5, yesterday and defeating Downsville, 11 to 7, Thursday.

Clarks outhit Neville, 9 to 4, but nine Lumberjack errors went a long way toward contributing to the Tiger victory.

The locals broke a 2-and-2 tie with Downsville by scoring six runs in the third inning to take a lead Downsville was never able to overcome, despite a four-run rally in the seventh.

MONROE CLUB GETS ATTENDANCE TROPHY

While in Monroe yesterday on a swing through the circuit, Judge Emmet Harty of Greenville, president of the Cotton States league, presented the Monroe club with the attendance trophy offered by Peacock Jewelry company to the team having the most spectators at its opening game of the season. TECHMEN WALLOP CHOCTAWS AGAIN

Bulldogs Sweep Series With Mississippi College With 13-5 Victory

RUSTON, La., April 28.—(Special)—Boosting their winning streak to six consecutive contests, Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs scalped a war-painted crew of Mississippi college Choctaws here Friday afternoon, 13-5, sweeping clean a two-game series.

Left-handed Kay Jones, who traveled the route for the Canines, took spotlight honors in the encounter. Mixing his pitches deceptively, Jones limited the Indian invaders to five base licks, striking out 10 of them. Tadlock, Mississippi leadoff man, beat out a slow dribbler down the third-base line in the opening frame and until the sixth, when Tadlock again singled, Jones handcuffed the Choctaws. He lapsed his vigilance momentarily in the eighth and, aided by two errors by his mates, allowed five runs to come in on two hits.

The Bulldog batters climbed all over Fulton, Choctaw starter, for 17 hits in seven and two-thirds innings. With the bases jammed and two men out, he was replaced by Pope. The Mississippi relief man worked his way out of a bad hole, however, by retiring Jimmy Sumrall, Canine clean-up hitter, who had homered off him the day before, on called strikes.

GRAYS, ALL-STARS CLASH TUESDAY

Negro Ball Clubs Will Tangle Following Cotton States League Game

Philadelphia's Homestead Grays, negro baseball champions of the world, will be in Monroe for an exhibition game with the Monroe All-Stars at Casino park Tuesday night immediately after the regularly scheduled Cotton States league game.

The Grays are due to arrive here tomorrow morning. They will go to Tallulah for one game with a Tallulah negro aggregation Tuesday afternoon and come back here immediately after the Tallulah battle for the engagement with Manager William Hunter's All-Stars.

The All-Stars, boasting in their lineup two former big leaguers of negro baseball, will be seeking their third victory of the year when they face the Negro National league club.

Last Sunday the All-Stars defeated a Shreveport negro team, 6 and 5, and previously had divided two games with Alexandria negroes. The locals beat Alexandria one game, 2 to 0, and lost the second, 3 to 0.

Monroe's veteran performers are Sanders, shortstop, who formerly played with the old Monroe Monarchs, and Bill Gray, second baseman, who was formerly with the Birmingham Black Barons.

Treadway, the All-Star catcher, is out to make a baseball career for himself that will rival that of his brother, William Treadway, the Monroe colored boy now hurling for the Kansas City club of the Negro American league.

Manager Hunter announced that Goolen, who hurled a no-hit game against the Memphis Red Sox last year, would pitch for the Monroe club.

WASHINGTON BEATS NEW YORK BY 3-1 SCORE

Nats Exercise Jinx Over Champions; Joe DiMaggio Hurt In Game

Joe DiMaggio

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—The Washington "jinx" struck the world champion New York Yankees twice today. The Yanks lost their second game of the season to the Senators, 3-1, and they lost the services of Joe DiMaggio, their star center fielder, for at least a week.

DiMaggio slipped on the wet grass while chasing a triple by Bob Estalella in the third inning and injured his right leg. He was taken to a hospital, where X-ray examinations revealed that he had suffered torn muscles in his leg but that there was no fracture. He was released from the hospital after the examination.

Dr. Robert E. Walsh, the team physician, said the injury would keep DiMaggio on the bench at least a week.

The southpaw pitching of Ken Chase was largely responsible for the Yanks' second setback. Their only other defeat this season was at the hands of the Senators a week ago.

All the scoring was bunched in the first two innings, the Senators jumping on the left-handed slants of Vernon Gomez in the first for their three runs.

Two singles and a passed ball put George Case and Charley Gelbert in position to score on Taft Wright's double and Wright himself scored when Joe Gordon booted Cecil Travis' grounder.

DiMaggio singled, advanced on a walk to Lou Gehrig and scored on Joe Gallagher's single to give the Yankees their tally in the second. It was the seventh consecutive game in which DiMaggio had hit safely.

OUACHITA RELAY TEAM SETS NEW MARK AT RALLY

Establishes Mile Record Of 3:29.8, Two Seconds Better Than Old

BATON ROUGE, La., April 29.—(AP)—Seven new records went into the books today as Baton Rouge High school captured its perennial raily track and field title for competition among athletes from the larger Louisiana schools.

Plain Dealing won in the B division, events for schools with less than 110 enrollment.

New A division records were set in the mile relay and shot put and records equalled in the 100-yard dash and the quarter-mile. New records set in B division came in the high and low hurdles, mile relay, javelin and shot and the pole vault mark was equalled.

Baton Rouge High swept a division for its 16th title in the past 17 years with 36 points to 18 each for Byrd High of Shreveport and Istrouma of Baton Rouge, 14 for Jesuit of New Orleans, 12 for Warren Easton of New Orleans and 11 for Bolton of Alexandria.

Trailing Plain Dealing's 36 1-4 points in B division were Tioga with 24 1-2, Pride with 18, Rayne with 10 and Boyce with 9.

Although Baton Rouge presented a balanced team, its star performers were J. D. Tucker and Billy Christopher. Tucker equalled the 100-yard dash mark at 9.8, two timers clocking him at 9.7, and captured the furlong dash in 22.3 and anchored the winning football shuttle relay team and second-place mile relay team.

Christopher took three first places, in the broad jump, high jump and hop, step and jump. T. J. Bankston, husky Istrouma High youngster, set the new A division shot put record at 52 feet, 3 3-8 inches and won the discus event with a heave that missed the record by four feet.

Ouachita High of Monroe won the mile relay in the record-breaking time of 3:29.8, bettering the old mark by more than two seconds.

Starring in the B division was Woodrow Holland of Plain Dealing, who set new records for the javelin and low hurdles. He sped over the timbers in 24.9, nearly a second better than the existing mark, and in yesterday's javelin final threw the spear 177 feet, 8 inches, more than ten feet further than the old record.

RIGGS WINS HOT SPRINGS TOURNEY

Contender For No. 1 On Davis Cup Team Has Hard Time Beating Sabin

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 29.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, one of the nation's ranking amateurs, won the Hot Springs Invitation tennis tournament today from Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., national indoor champion, in a hard-fought match. The score was 6-3, 9-7, 8-6.

A cold wind swept the courts as Riggs, a leading contender for No. 1 on the American Davis Cup team, piled up points with the aid of tricky drop shots in the first set. The Chicagoan exhibited amazing accuracy in cross fire to the side lines to take the last two sets.

Sabin had a 5-4 lead in the second set and Riggs had to pull himself out of a hole twice on the set point with his own serve to tie the games 5-5 and run out the set 9-7. Sabin, seeded No. 2 in the tournament, also took a 5-4 advantage in the third set but Riggs' blistering ace gave him the winning point in the next game. Each won his next serve and then Riggs broke Sabin's service.

In the final game, after being love 40 on his own service, Riggs took the next five points to clinch the championship.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Beverly Farms, Mass., and Miss Eliza Coxe of Asheville, N. C., won the women's doubles from Mrs. Peter Belin of Washington and Miss Allison Harrison of New York 8-6, 3-6, 6-4.

WHITE SOX PACK 1,917 FANS INTO PARK FOR OPENER

Announcement Of Award Made By Judge Harty, League President

The Monroe White Sox, pennant winners of the Cotton States league last season, won the Peacock attendance day trophy by turning out 1,917 spectators in their opening day game here April 21 against El Dorado, it was announced yesterday by Judge Emmett Harty, league president, of Greenville, Miss.

Judge Harty, with E. L. Lueckenbach, league secretary, came to Monroe yesterday to officially present the Monroe club with the trophy. They also were in attendance at the Greenville-Monroe game here last night.

The Clarksdale Red Sox were runners-up for the trophy, offered by the Peacock Jewelry company of Monroe, with 1,763 paid admissions at their first home game, according to Judge Harty. The El Dorado Lions, running third, played their first game to 1,534 fans.

The attendances at the opening day games in the other five cities of the circuit were: Helena, 1,362; Greenville, 1,357; Hot Springs, 1,239; Greenwood, 1,013; and Pine Bluff, 675.

Judge Harty, after seeing the Buckshots and White Sox in action both in Greenville and Monroe, considers the White Sox the best club in the league at the present despite the fact that the league leading Bucks have shaded the Sox in their engagements.

He also considers that the lowly El Dorado Lions, now playing with only four class men, are due for an upward swing as soon as Manager Frank O'Rourke gets the players he needs.

Judge Harty and Secretary Lueckenbach followed the Buckshots on to El Dorado, where they will witness today's game between the Bucks and Lions.

CLARKS LOSES TO TIGERS BUT BEATS DOWNSVILLE

CLARKS, La., April 29.—(Special)—The Clarks High school Lumberjacks split their last two games of the season here this week, bowing before the Neville High school Tigers of Monroe, 7 to 5, yesterday and defeating Downsville, 11 to 7, Thursday.

Clarks outhit Neville, 9 to 4, but nine Lumberjack errors went a long way toward contributing to the Tiger victory.

The locals broke a 2-and-2 tie with Downsville by scoring six runs in the third inning to take a lead Downsville was never able to overcome, despite a four-run rally in the seventh.

MONROE CLUB GETS ATTENDANCE TROPHY

Bulldogs Sweep Series With Mississippi College With 13-5 Victory

RUSTON, La., April 28.—(Special)—Boosting their winning streak to six consecutive contests, Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs scalped a war-painted crew of Mississippi college Choctaws here Friday afternoon, 13-5, sweeping clean a two-game series.

Left-handed Kay Jones, who traveled the route for the Canines, took spotlight honors in the encounter. Mixing his pitches deceptively, Jones limited the Indian invaders to five base licks, striking out 10 of them. Tadlock, Mississippi leadoff man, beat out a slow dribbler down the third-base line in the opening frame and until the sixth, when Tadlock again singled, Jones handcuffed the Choctaws. He lapsed his vigilance momentarily in the eighth and, aided by two errors by his mates, allowed five runs to come in on two hits.

The Bulldog batters climbed all over Fulton, Choctaw starter, for 17 hits in seven and two-thirds innings. With the bases jammed and two men out, he was replaced by Pope. The Mississippi relief man worked his way out of a bad hole, however, by retiring Jimmy Sumrall, Canine clean-up hitter, who had homered off him the day before, on called strikes.

GRAYS, ALL-STARS CLASH TUESDAY

Negro Ball Clubs Will Tangle Following Cotton States League Game

Philadelphia's Homestead Grays, negro baseball champions of the world, will be in Monroe for an exhibition game with the Monroe All-Stars at Casino park Tuesday night immediately after the regularly scheduled Cotton States league game.

The Grays are due to arrive here tomorrow morning. They will go to Tallulah for one game with a Tallulah negro aggregation Tuesday afternoon and come back here immediately after the Tallulah battle for the engagement with Manager William Hunter's All-Stars.

The All-Stars, boasting in their lineup two former big leaguers of negro baseball, will be seeking their third victory of the year when they face the Negro National league club.

Last Sunday the All-Stars defeated a Shreveport negro team, 6 and 5, and previously had divided two games with Alexandria negroes. The locals beat Alexandria one game, 2 to 0, and lost the second, 3 to 0.

Monroe's veteran performers are Sanders, shortstop, who formerly played with the old Monroe Monarchs, and Bill Gray, second baseman, who was formerly with the Birmingham Black Barons.

Treadway, the All-Star catcher, is out to make a baseball career for himself that will rival that of his brother, William Treadway, the Monroe colored boy now hurling for the Kansas City club of the Negro American league.

Manager Hunter announced that Gooden, who hurled a no-hit game against the Memphis Red Sox last year, would pitch for the Monroe club.

Hack Gets Only Bingle As Arkansas Hurler Shuts Out Chicago Again

CHICAGO, April 29.—(AP)—Lanky Lon Warneke, St. Louis Cardinals' ace pitcher, missed out on no-hit baseball fame today by one scratch single as he whitewashed the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 0.

Lon Warneke

Stanley Hack, Cub third baseman, made the only hit as the Arkansas hurler shut out the Cubs for the second time this season. It was the Chicago team's third straight loss.

Hack and Billy Herman, second baseman, were the only Cubs to reach first base, but only 28 men faced Warneke, as Herman was thrown out attempting to steal after being hit by a pitched ball.

Only 18 Cubs had faced Warneke in the first six innings when Hack came to bat at the start of the seventh. He hit a weak roller between the pitcher and first baseman, but the ball was traveling a little too fast to be fielded by Warneke. First Baseman Johnny Mize fielded the ball, but Hack slid into first base before Warneke could receive it.

The lapse failed to ruffle the Cardinal pitcher, who continued to mow down the opposing batters. The defeat was Bill Lee's second in as many days after winning his first two starts.

REDS BEAT BUCS AGAIN

PITTSBURGH, April 29.—(AP)—Cincinnati's fighting Reds gave the staggering Pittsburgh Pirates their eighth straight defeat today and tightened their own hold on first place in the National league behind the clever pitching of the erstwhile infielder, Bucky Walters. The score was 5 to 2.

Walters was wild—he yielded seven passes on balls and the Pirates touched him for eight hits, one more than the Reds got, but he was master of the situation in the pinches, leaving eleven Pirates stranded on the bases. In their last eight games, the Pirates have had 89 men left on base.

Bill Werber and Harry Craft led the Cincinnati attack. Werber hit a triple and a single, driving in two runs, while Craft smashed a homer over the left field fence in the sixth to put the game in the bag.

DODGERS SHUT OUT PHILS

BROOKLYN, April 29.—(AP)—Whitlow Wyatt, 29-year-old rookie obtained by the Dodgers from Milwaukee, shut out the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 0, today. Big Dolph Camilli contributed some fancy hitting, including his third homer of the year, to the Brooklyn cause.

Wyatt spread seven hits in good fashion.

Swift Of Georgia Ousts Castillo Of L. S. U. As Champ

WINS CONFERENCE GOLF CROWN WITH EXTRA HOLE PUTT

Gains Title By Playing Steadier Game Than Brilliant Tiger

By Norman Walker

BATON ROUGE, La., April 29.—(AP)—A handsome University of Georgia sophomore, George (Sonny) Swift, today calmly sank an extra hole putt to dethrone Henry Castillo, defending champion from Louisiana State, and annex the Southeastern conference golf crown.

With extreme self-possession in the exciting finals, the 19-year-old youngster rammed home a six-footer on the 19th hole for a birdie to cinch the match. His steady pars won out over Castillo's more brilliant but more erratic brand of golf.

The tournament was the second in which Castillo, slim 22-year-old Spaniard, finished as runner-up. Two weeks ago he lost in the Southern intercollegiate finals at Athens, Ga.

Castillo was off to a shaky start in today's finals and Swift took an early lead. One up at the turn, the Georgia sharpshooter swelled his lead to three up through the 12th. Castillo rallied for a birdie on the 13th, lost to Swift's par on the 14th and took the 15th to whittle the score to two down with two holes left to play.

Then Castillo, familiar with every cranny over L. S. U.'s par 72 course, surged forward to net a birdie each on the 17th and 18th to tie the match.

Putting on the 18th green was dramatic as Castillo missed a 30-foot putt for an eagle and scored a birdie and Swift, with only a four-footer for his birdie to tie the hole and win the match, tapped his shot to the cup's lip where it stopped dead.

With the match all square, both golfers drove evenly on the extra hole, a par four, and gained the green on their second shots. Castillo's ball was ten feet from the cup, Swift's six. Castillo missed his putt and Swift, with the conference championship hanging in the balance, rammed his ball home with complete calm.

Swift was comparatively unheralded in the tournament. In the qualifying rounds, in which Castillo won medal honors for his second straight year with 70-70—140 over the par 72 course, Swift barely gained the championship flight. He and two other contestants, all with 160, had the highest scores among players rating the title flight.

The new champion defeated Ellis Taylor, University of Alabama, 5 and 4, in the first round but barely won from Maynard Ramsey, University of Florida, one up, in the quarter-finals.

This morning, in the semi-finals, Swift conquered Ed Hudson, Alabama, 5 and 4, as Castillo, playing fiery golf, eliminated Vincent D'Antoni, the 1937 champion from Tulane, 4 and 3. Castillo finished the tournament with a medal score seven strokes under par.

Lee Ramsel, L. S. U., won the championship consolation flight by defeating Bert McDowell, his teammate and last year's tournament runner-up, 6 and 5.

L. S. U. won the conference team championship in Thursday's qualifying rounds.

N. O. A. C. WINS WRESTLING TITLE 17TH STRAIGHT YEAR

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—(AP)—The New Orleans Athletic club won the Southern A. A. U. wrestling championship for the 17th consecutive year tonight at the N. O. A. C. gymnasium. The local club annexed five of the nine titles.

Three defending champions won their matches. They were Eddie Carr, 118-pound class, and Mike Lucia, 126 pounds, both of the N. O. A. C., and Clifford Day of the Houston Y. M. C. A. in the heavyweight class.

SOX NOSE OUT BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, April 29.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox shaded the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 8, today after a see-saw battle opened with three innings of sensational pitching by 21-year-old Jack Kramer, who was finally knocked out in the eighth inning.

George McQuinn homered, scoring behind Roy Hughes as the Browns won with three runs in the eighth. Eric McNair tripled, John Rosenthal doubled and Rosenthal scored the winning run on Raymond Radcliff's fly.

TWO FIRST ROUND MATCHES PENDING

McGuire Park Club Tournament Almost Ready To Enter Second Round

With the exception of two first-round matches, the annual McGuire Park club championship tournament will be ready to enter the second round tomorrow, it was announced last night by Jim McKenzie, club pro. The two matches yet to be played will be disposed of today.

Cramer Haas and Wesley Shafto, two of the best golfers of this area, turned in exceptional scores yesterday in winning their first-round matches. Haas, with a 71, beat A. B. Sherrard, 5 and 4, and Shafto, with a 73, beat C. E. Wilds, 4 and 3.

Results of other first-round matches to date are: Bunn Beasley defeated Ben Downing, Sr., 3 and 2; H. K. Touchstone beat R. B. Henry, 3 and 2; J. L. Keenan defeated F. M. Johnson, 2 and 1; Ben Downing, Jr., beat M. C. McDonald, 1 up in 20 holes; Kenneth Holt defeated F. F. Millsaps, 5 and 3; Ed Shaver beat C. L. Phillips, 1 up; Jack Rogers defeated Malcolm Biedenharn, 6 and 5; E. S. Girault, medalist, defeated C. W. Wallace, 4 and 2; H. A. McDonald beat J. C. Liner, Sr., 1 up; Lund Harper beat A. Allison, 1 up; Ford Hines beat R. W. Alleman, 2 up, and Ed Watkins beat S. L. Digby, 1 up.

Matches that remain to be played today are: John Jordan vs. A. O. Evans and H. Woods vs. Vance Rhodes.

First round consolation matches, to be played before May 8, are as follows: Ben Downing, Sr., vs. F. M. Johnson, R. B. Henry vs. winner of Jordan-Evans match; M. C. McDonald vs. F. F. Millsaps, C. L. Phillips vs. Malcolm Biedenharn, C. W. Wilds vs. G. W. Wallace, J. C. Liner, Sr., vs. winner of Woods-Rhodes match; A. Allison vs. R. W. Alleman, and A. B. Sherrard vs. S. L. Digby.

Considerable interest in golfing has been shown over the McGuire course the past week, and large turnouts of golfers have kept Pro McKenzie busy, especially yesterday, which was one of the best days of the season. Interest is expected to become keener as the club championship tourney progresses and some good scores are due to be posted.

Bunn Beasley is the defending club champion.

STELLAR PROGRAM IS SCHEDULED AT WRESTLING ARENA

Davidson Will Meet 'The Shadow'; Freeman Will Oppose Jack Curtis

One of the most interesting wrestling programs scheduled here since Promoter Gus Kallio brought the sport back to Monroe some weeks ago, is carded for the Monroe Wrestling arena, 310 Walnut street, next Wednesday night.

Each of the four performers carded for the two weekly bouts has become a favorite hero or a favorite villain with the fans, and each has his special crowd appeal.

Decidedly the most dramatic, colorful and intriguing grappler of the Wednesday night wars is his Satanic majesty, the "Wrestling Shadow," who performs in the ring clad in scarlet, full-length tights and mask. His identity unknown, the "Shadow" is making a bid for the honors held locally several years ago by Nick Elitch, as Prince of Imps. The "Shadow" is the only villain carded for Wednesday night, and in event he loses to his opponent, Bob Davidson, of Terre Haute, Ind., he has agreed to unmask himself before the fans.

Davidson captured the fancy of the fans last Wednesday night when he defeated Carl von Bromberg, the No. 1 villain of the local wrestling wars. A wrestler of unusually powerful physique, Davidson absorbed considerable punishment from the German's off-color tactics, but handed von Bromberg a thorough working over to win the third and deciding fall.

The "Shadow"-Davidson bout will be the main event. In the semi-final, Ace Freeman, the Jewish wrestler of New York City, will meet Jack Curtis, the Vicksburg, Miss., sensation. Both Freeman and Curtis prefer the scientific type of wrestling, and a scientifically-waged battle between them is expected to be balanced against what undoubtedly will be a rough and bitterly-fought main event. Both bouts will be waged on the basis of two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio said he has received several bids for the berth of third man in the Wednesday night program. Bob Dartez, heavyweight who refereed wrestling bouts here in the past, probably will be given the assignment, the promoter said.

AUBURN NINE WINS PAIR OF GAMES FROM REBELS

AUBURN, Ala., April 29.—(AP)—Brilliant hurling gave Auburn's baseball team a double victory over Ole Miss here today, the Tigers winning 3-2 and 4-1. Auburn has lost only one Southeastern conference game in eight starts, and leads the circuit.

Timely hitting aided Pitchers Lefty Diamond and French Gunter today. Both flingers permitted five hits.

The Plainsmen bunched hits in the second and seventh frames of the first game to shade the Mississippians. A three-run first inning gave them a winning margin in the second.

The value of livestock on United States farms during the last ten years has ranged from a high of $6,164,000,000 in 1929 to a low of $2,772,000,000 in 1933. January 1, 1939, it was $4,854,000,000.

L. S. U., TULANE BALL CLUBS TO MEET MONDAY

Tigers Have Visions Of Capturing Southeastern Conference Title

BATON ROUGE, La., April 29.—(Special)—With visions of their first Southeastern conference baseball championship dancing before their eyes, Louisiana State university's Tigers will meet Tulane at New Orleans Monday afternoon in the first of four games that will decide their title chances.

Winners of seven of nine conference games so far this season, the Tigers hope to finish the season with at least a share of the loop title.

Should the Tigers win three games from the Green Wave, they would at least finish right near the top in league standings. A record of ten won and three lost might even give them the title that has eluded Louisiana State baseball team in past years.

Coach Rabenhorst plans to send Jesse Danna, left-handed ace whose home is in New Orleans, against Tulane Tuesday afternoon. The two teams meet here in the final two contests next Friday and Saturday.

Three New Orleans boys will be in the regular L. S. U. lineup in addition to the two hurlers. Albert "Chuck" Poretto, catcher, and Joffre Crouere, shortstop, prepped at Warren Easton, and Charles Erman, center field, attended Samuel J. Peters High.

Paul Brotherton will be at first base; George Haynie at second; Larry King at third; Charles Anastasio in left field and Ken Kavanaugh in right.

The Tigers already have won three out of four games from Alabama; three out of three from Mississippi State (the fourth was rained out), and split a two-game series with Ole Miss. They defeated Minnesota four straight, broke even with Northwestern in two games and defeated Northern Illinois State Teachers college in a single game.

BIG SIX LEAGUE IS REORGANIZED

CHATHAM, La., April 29.—(Special)—Reorganization of the Big Six baseball league took place here Friday night at a meeting of six clubs at the Abbott Drug store, and Larry J. Fox, of Ruston, was elected president of the loop.

Fox, already serving his first term as president of the Ouachita Valley league, was chosen head of the Big Six for the first time.

Teams entered in the league this year are Ansley, Clarks, Brown, Dubach, Ruston and Chatham.

The league schedule has not been approved as yet, but the opening date has been set for May 14.

An exhibition game between the Brown Independents and the Chatham club will be played here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, according to an announcement by C. M. Abbott, manager of the local team.

The city of Bombay, India, is completely dry as the result of the extension of the Ahmedabad experimental dry area to include the entire city. Liquor permits may be obtained by Europeans.

Hack Gets Only Bingle As Arkansas Hurler Shuts Out Chicago Again

CHICAGO, April 29.—(AP)—Lanky Lon Warneke, St. Louis Cardinals' ace pitcher, missed out on no-hit baseball fame today by one scratch single as he whitewashed the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 0.

Lon Warneke

Stanley Hack, Cub third baseman, made the only hit as the Arkansas hurler shut out the Cubs for the second time this season. It was the Chicago team's third straight loss.

Hack and Billy Herman, second baseman, were the only Cubs to reach first base, but only 28 men faced Warneke, as Herman was thrown out attempting to steal after being hit by a pitched ball.

Only 18 Cubs had faced Warneke in the first six innings when Hack came to bat at the start of the seventh. He hit a weak roller between the pitcher and first baseman, but the ball was traveling a little too fast to be fielded by Warneke. First Baseman Johnny Mize fielded the ball, but Hack slid into first base before Warneke could receive it.

The lapse failed to ruffle the Cardinal pitcher, who continued to mow down the opposing batters. The defeat was Bill Lee's second in as many days after winning his first two starts.

REDS BEAT BUCS AGAIN

PITTSBURGH, April 29.—(AP)—Cincinnati's fighting Reds gave the staggering Pittsburgh Pirates their eighth straight defeat today and tightened their own hold on first place in the National league behind the clever pitching of the erstwhile infielder, Bucky Walters. The score was 5 to 3.

Walters was wild—he yielded seven bases on balls—and the Pirates touched him for eight hits, one more than the Reds got, but he was master of the situation in the pinches, leaving eleven Pirates stranded on the bases. In their last eight games, the Pirates have had 89 men left on base.

Bill Werber and Harry Craft led the Cincinnati attack. Werber hit a triple and a single, driving in two runs, while Craft smashed a homer over the left field fence in the sixth to put the game in the bag.

DODGERS SHUT OUT PHILS

BROOKLYN, April 29.—(AP)—Whitlow Wyatt, 29-year-old rookie obtained by the Dodgers from Milwaukee, shut out the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 0, today. Big Dolph Camilli contributed some fancy hitting, including his third homer of the year, to the Brooklyn cause.

Wyatt spread seven hits in good fashion.

WINS CONFERENCE GOLF CROWN WITH EXTRA HOLE PUTT

By Norman Walker

BATON ROUGE, La., April 29.—(AP)—A handsome University of Georgia sophomore, George (Sonny) Swift, today calmly sank an extra hole putt to dethrone Henry Castillo, defending champion from Louisiana State, and annex the Southeastern conference golf crown.

With extreme self-possession in the exciting finals, the 19-year-old youngster rammed home a six-footer on the 19th hole for a birdie to cinch the match. His steady pars won out over Castillo's more brilliant but more erratic brand of golf.

The tournament was the second in which Castillo, slim 22-year-old Spaniard, finished as runner-up. Two weeks ago he lost in the Southern intercollegiate finals at Athens, Ga.

Castillo was off to a shaky start in today's finals and Swift took an early lead. One up at the turn, the Georgia sharpshooter swelled his lead to three up through the 12th. Castillo rallied for a birdie on the 13th, lost to Swift's par on the 14th and took the 15th to whittle the score to two down with two holes left to play.

Then Castillo, familiar with every cranny over L. S. U.'s par 72 course, surged forward to net a birdie each on the 17th and 18th to tie the match.

Putting on the 18th green was dramatic as Castillo missed a 30-foot putt for an eagle and scored a birdie and Swift, with only a four-footer for his birdie to tie the hole and win the match, tapped his shot to the cup's lip where it stopped dead.

With the match all square, both golfers drove evenly on the extra hole, a par four, and gained the green on their second shots. Castillo's ball was ten feet from the cup, Swift's six. Castillo missed his putt and Swift, with the conference championship hanging in the balance, rammed his ball home with complete calm.

Swift was comparatively unheralded in the tournament. In the qualifying rounds, in which Castillo won medal honors for his second straight year with 70-70—140 over the par 72 course, Swift barely gained the championship flight. He and two other contestants, all with 160, had the highest scores among players rating the title flight.

The new champion defeated Ellis Taylor, University of Alabama, 5 and 4, in the first round but barely won from Maynard Ramsey, University of Florida, one up, in the quarter-finals.

This morning, in the semi-finals, Swift conquered Ed Hudson, Alabama, 5 and 4, as Castillo, playing fiery golf, eliminated Vincent D'Antoni, the 1937 champion from Tulane, 4 and 3. Castillo finished the tournament with a medal score seven strokes under par.

L. S. U. won the conference team championship in Thursday's qualifying rounds.

McGuire Park Club Tournament Almost Ready To Enter Second Round

With the exception of two first-round matches, the annual McGuire Park club championship tournament will be ready to enter the second round tomorrow, it was announced last night by Jim McKenzie, club pro. The two matches yet to be played will be disposed of today.

Cramer Haas and Wesley Shafto, two of the best golfers of this area, turned in exceptional scores yesterday in winning their first-round matches. Haas, with a 74, beat A. B. Sherrard, 5 and 4, and Shafto, with a 73, beat C. E. Wilds, 4 and 3.

Results of other first-round matches to date are: Bunn Beasley defeated Ben Downing, Sr., 3 and 2; H. K. Touchstone beat R. B. Henry, 3 and 2; J. L. Keenan defeated F. M. Johnson, 2 and 1; Ben Downing, Jr., beat M. C. McDonald, 1 up in 20 holes; Kenneth Holt defeated F. F. Millsaps, 5 and 3; Ed Shaver beat C. L. Phillips, 1 up; Jack Rogers defeated Malcolm Biedenharn, 6 and 5; E. S. Girault, medalist, defeated C. W. Wallace, 4 and 2; H. A. McDonald beat J. C. Liner, Sr., 1 up; Lund Harper beat A. Allison, 1 up; Ford Hines beat R. W. Alleman, 2 up, and Ed Watkins beat S. L. Digby, 1 up.

Matches that remain to be played today are: John Jordan vs. A. O. Evans and H. Woods vs. Vance Rhodes.

First round consolation matches, to be played before May 8, are as follows: Ben Downing, Sr., vs. F. M. Johnson, R. B. Henry vs. winner of Jordan-Evans match; M. C. McDonald vs. F. F. Millsaps, C. L. Phillips vs. Malcolm Biedenharn, C. W. Wilds vs. G. W. Wallace, J. C. Liner, Sr., vs. winner of Woods-Rhodes match; A. Allison vs. R. W. Alleman, and A. B. Sherrard vs. S. L. Digby.

Considerable interest in golfing has been shown over the McGuire course the past week, and large turnouts of golfers have kept Pro McKenzie busy, especially yesterday, which was one of the best days of the season. Interest is expected to become keener as the club championship tourney progresses and some good scores are due to be posted.

Bunn Beasley is the defending club champion.

One of the most interesting wrestling programs scheduled here since Promoter Gus Kallio brought the sport back to Monroe some weeks ago, is carded for the Monroe Wrestling arena, 310 Walnut street, next Wednesday night.

Each of the four performers carded for the two weekly bouts has become a favorite hero or a favorite villain with the fans, and each has his special crowd appeal.

Decidedly the most dramatic, colorful and intriguing grappler of the Wednesday night wars is his Satanic majesty, the "Wrestling Shadow," who performs in the ring clad in scarlet, full-length tights and mask. His identity unknown, the "Shadow" is making a bid for the honors held locally several years ago by Nick Elitch, as Prince of Imps. The "Shadow" is the only villain carded for Wednesday night, and in event he loses to his opponent, Bob Davidson, of Terre Haute, Ind., he has agreed to unmask himself before the fans.

Davidson captured the fancy of the fans last Wednesday night when he defeated Carl von Bromberg, the No. 1 villain of the local wrestling wars. A wrestler of unusually powerful physique, Davidson absorbed considerable punishment from the German's off-color tactics, but handed von Bromberg a thorough working over to win the third and deciding fall.

The "Shadow"-Davidson bout will be the main event. In the semi-final, Ace Freeman, the Jewish wrestler of New York City, will meet Jack Curtis, the Vicksburg, Miss., sensation. Both Freeman and Curtis prefer the scientific type of wrestling, and a scientifically-waged battle between them is expected to be balanced against what undoubtedly will be a rough and bitterly-fought main event. Both bouts will be waged on the basis of two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio said he has received several bids for the berth of third man in the Wednesday night program. Bob Dartez, heavyweight who refereed wrestling bouts here in the past, probably will be given the assignment, the promoter said.

AUBURN NINE WINS PAIR OF GAMES FROM REBELS

AUBURN, Ala., April 29.—(AP)—Brilliant hurling gave Auburn's baseball team a double victory over Ole Miss here today, the Tigers winning 3-2 and 4-1. Auburn has lost only one Southeastern conference game in eight starts, and leads the circuit.

Timely hitting aided Pitchers Lefty Diamond and French Gunter today. Both flingers permitted five hits.

The Plainsmen bunched hits in the second and seventh frames of the first game to shade the Mississippians. A three-run first inning gave them a winning margin in the second.

The value of livestock on United States farms during the last ten years has ranged from a high of $6,164,000,000 in 1929 to a low of $2,772,000,000 in 1933. January 1, 1939, it was $4,854,000,000.

L. S. U., TULANE BALL CLUBS TO MEET MONDAY

Tigers Have Visions Of Capturing Southeastern Conference Title

BATON ROUGE, La., April 29.—(Special)—With visions of their first Southeastern conference baseball championship dancing before their eyes, Louisiana State university's Tigers will meet Tulane at New Orleans Monday afternoon in the first of four games that will decide their title chances.

Winners of seven of nine conference games so far this season, the Tigers hope to finish the season with at least a share of the loop title.

Should the Tigers win three games from the Green Wave, they would at least finish right near the top in league standings. A record of ten won and three lost might even give them the title that has eluded Louisiana State baseball team in past years.

Coach Rabenhorst plans to send Jesse Danna, left-handed ace whose home is in New Orleans, against Tulane Tuesday afternoon. The two teams meet here in the final two contests next Friday and Saturday.

Three New Orleans boys will be in the regular L. S. U. lineup in addition to the two hurlers. Albert "Chuck" Poretto, catcher, and Joffre Crouere, shortstop, prepped at Warren Easton, and Charles Erman, center field, attended Samuel J. Peters High.

Paul Brotherton will be at first base; George Haynie at second; Larry King at third; Charles Anastasio in left field and Ken Kavanaugh in right.

The Tigers already have won three out of four games from Alabama; three out of three from Mississippi State (the fourth was rained out), and split a two-game series with Ole Miss. They defeated Minnesota four straight, broke even with Northwestern in two games and defeated Northern Illinois State Teachers college in a single game.

Teams entered in the league this year are Ansley, Clarks, Brown, Dubach, Ruston and Chatham.

The league schedule has not been approved as yet, but the opening date has been set for May 14.

An exhibition game between the Brown Independents and the Chatham club will be played here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, according to an announcement by C. M. Abbott, manager of the local team.

The city of Bombay, India, is completely dry as the result of the extension of the Ahmedabad experimental dry area to include the entire city. Liquor permits may be obtained by Europeans.

JOHNSTOWN WINS WOOD MEMORIAL

Favorite To Triumph In Kentucky Derby Skyrockets To New Heights

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—William Woodward's big bay Johnstown, already regarded as the choice in the Kentucky Derby, skyrocketed to new heights as a three-year-old prospect today by sweeping to a six-length victory in the mile-and-70 yard Wood Memorial before a crowd of more than 18,000 at Jamaica.

gressive because the pressure was on him. He had won the title twice and it was Downing against the field. But he didn't falter, a fact that indicates he'll be tough to handle in college and state competition in the near future. In other words, the youngster showed plenty of the old competitive spirit to come through when the chips were down.

Downing's scores, when compared with those posted by our southern college stars in the current collegiate tourney, are more impressive. They also compare favorably with medal scores in state tournaments. Medalist honors have been won with no lower scores than his 147, 150 and 153.

When Neville High school is passing out the awards, Ben Downing, Jr., should get one that stands out like his own golf record. His school, his city and his parents have every right to be proud of him.

A BASEBALL LIBRARY

Fans who wish to have a part in baseball's centennial anniversary which is being observed this year are offered the opportunity to aid in assembling the baseball library which will be dedicated at Cooperstown, N. Y., on July 9.

The library is being sponsored by the National association, the governing body of the minors. It will be set up in the beautiful baseball museum at Cooperstown, birthplace of the game, and the dedication will be a part of the program planned for "Minor League Day" on July 9.

Old record books, documents, old signed contracts and other papers of historic value are wanted for the library, and fans who wish to contribute such material should send it to George M. Trautman, Chamber of Commerce building, Columbus, O.

The museum committee must pass upon the acceptability of the gifts, and any that do not prove so will be returned. The gifts will be identified with the name of the donor if he so desires.

"This is a big job and a never-ending one," said Trautman, who is in charge of assembling the library. "Those of us in baseball can not do it alone, and we must call upon the friends of the game for assistance.

"We are only starting the library this year. It is something that never will be completed, for historic matter will be added to it from year to year. We do want to make a good showing for the dedication, and for that reason, we ask that donors send us their material without delay, that we may catalogue and arrange it for display.

"This baseball library is something we have needed for a long time, and in years to come it will be a very interesting and valuable institution, with its contents available to the public."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—What he's been seeing in spring practice at Minnesota caused Bernie Bierman to issue this order: "Play football or turn in your suits." . . . The Georgia-Florida league has outlawed the old hidden ball trick—caused too much confusion. . . . Doc Robb, who trained Jim Braddock for all his important bouts, will be Lou Nova's chief second against Baer. . . . Tom Yawkey and Donie Bush are putting on one of those good old-fashioned baseball revivals in Louisville. . . . Most of the big Derby future books closed tonight.

They call him Midas.

Before arriving in New York from Washington, the king and queen of England will leave the train at Red Bank, N. J. (pop. 13,000) and ride down the main drag. . . . Red Bank also is the home town of Mike Jacobs, who'll probably have the ticket rights.

Tony Galento's debut on the coast was described as weary, dreary, teary and bleary. . . . The Herald-Tribune has lined up such headliners as Wallace Wade, Duke; Dutch Meyer, Texas Christian, and Bill Kern, Carnegie Tech, for its coaching school at the World's fair in August. . . . The Dodgers are having trouble finding a room-mate for Pitcher Red Evans, who likes to smoke a ten-year-old pipe in bed. . . . Add Sutherland: The Boston Globe says it's an even money bet Jock will be coaching a New York City eleven in 1940.

Today's guest star:

Bus Ham, Oklahoma City Oklahoman: "The reason this paper is so seldom accurate as to the starting pitcher of the Indians is that Manager Mule Haas will have one pitcher in mind and President Johnny Holland another." . . . Oh, oh!

Bill Brandt, National league publicity chief, calls Manuel Salvo of the Giants "the mastodonic maestro of the mound." . . . Sounds like Bill is warming up for a job with the circus.

Moses Sewell mebbe?

A New York paper said yesterday it hears there is a plot afoot to make Luke Sewell manager of the Indians. When he rejoined the Tribe after being canned by Brooklyn, Luke said: "Now I know how the children of Israel felt when they saw Moses."

Does Luke mean he aims to lead the Injuns out of the wilderness, or that he is just plumb glad to get out of them Flatbush bullrushes?

MONROE RALLY FALLS SHORT

CRACKERS HERE TODAY

The Greenwood Crackers invade Monroe today for the first of a three-game series with the White Sox. A single game is slated for this afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock.

Frank Narbut is slated to pitch for Monroe, Manager Doug Taitt announced last night, while Manager Cecil "Dusty" Rhodes is expected to pitch either Jesse Feaster or Royce Mills.

Monroe club officials last night announced the outright purchase of an outfielder, Bob Hill, from Montgomery of the Southeastern league. Hill, a center fielder, started last season with Manager Taitt at Tyler in the East Texas league and finished the season there with a batting average of .316.

Manager Taitt is personally acquainted with the ability of Hill and boosts him as a steady hitter and a fast fielder.

Monroe purchased Hill with the feeling that he will bolster the outfield, and that the presence of an outfielder of his rating in the lineup the past couple of nights would have meant a different story in regard to the Greenville games.

Two outfielders due here on option, one from Anniston and the other from Richmond, Va., have so far failed to show up, and local club officials felt they could wait no longer on the promised players when they made the move to buy Hill, who is expected here late today.

And Floyd Speer, Monroe hurler who relieved Tex Nugent in the seventh, didn't help the Monroe cause much in the ninth when, with two strikes on the batter, he fed Salveson a fat one over the plate that went for a double and scored Roberts and Lloyd Heitman with what eventually turned out to be the runs that beat the locals.

Manager Doug Taitt put his Sox out in front in a big way in the first inning when he homered over the right field fence for the first circuit blow to be hit in the local park since the opening of the season. Frank Hargrove was on base at the time, thus giving the locals two runs.

But the Bucks overhauled the Sox in the fifth and forged ahead in the sixth. Monroe tied it up again with four runs in the seventh, but Greenville runners crossed the plate three times in the ninth. The Sox went down in their half of the ninth with a runner on second and two runs in.

Cy Block, the Greenville third baseman, copped batting honors with four hits, all singles, in five times at bat. He scored three times. Heitman and Billy Seal also hit good for the visitors, Heitman getting three hits, one a double, in five times at bat, and Seal getting three safe blows, one a triple, in five times at bat.

Johnny Conway, shortstop, produced most of the Sox hitting, getting three singles in five times at bat and scoring twice.

The only runs in the first three frames were produced by Monroe in the opening frame. Hargrove was hit by a pitched ball, automatically getting first base, and he came in ahead of Manager Taitt on his homer off Pitcher Shelton.

The Bucks scored first in the fourth inning after Block singled into center field and went on to second while Taitt was juggling the ball. Bill Kramer's single scored Block.

Then the visitors tied it up with an unearned run in the fifth. Seal singled and went on to second while McClain was juggling his drive into left field. He scored when Conway let Tucker's drive get through him at short.

Three runs in the sixth gave Greenville the lead for the first time. Howard Roberts doubled and scored on Kramer's single. Kramer went to second on Heitman's safe bunt. Salveson sacrificed Kramer and Heitman around the bases. Kramer scored on Shelton's out, Hackney to Jones, and Heitman scored on Seal's single.

The Bucks scored once more in the seventh when Block singled, went to second on an error, reached third on a passed ball and scored on an error, but Monroe came back with four runs in their half of the seventh to again tie the count.

"Red" Pruitt singled, stole second, went to third on Murrell Jones' single and scored on Taylor's single that sent Jones to third. Speer flied out to first, but Conway singled, scoring Jones and Taylor. Conway stole second and scored when Heitman let Hargrove's drive get through him at short.

Then the ninth inning was just about a repetition of the Friday night game.

Block, first up, singled and was sacrificed to second. Roberts was intentionally walked and Block stole third. Kramer flied out to Conway but Heitman singled to score Block. Then Speer fed Salveson a fat third strike which the Bucks' catcher labeled a double and scored Roberts and Heitman. Bobby Crowe flied out for the third out.

Then the Monroe rally began after one was out. Frank Narbut, batting for Speer, was given a base on balls and then retired for a base-runner, Kelton Maxfield. Conway singled, sending Maxfield to second. Link fanned. Hargrove singled, scoring Maxfield and sending Conway to second. Conway stole third and raced on home when Catcher Salveson threw wild to third in an attempt to stop the steal. Hargrove went to second on the play, but died there as Taitt flied out to second base for the last out.

BROWN OF L. S. U. WINNER OF DASH

college four of San Marcos, Tex., sprinted the route in 3:17.5.

Ohio State climaxed the day with a smashing triumph in the one-mile university relay, establishing a record of 3:14.1 to blot out the old mark of 3:16.4 made by the University of Iowa a year ago.

The Buckeyes barely nosed out Louisiana State in a nerve-tingling finish. Church, running as anchor man for the southerners, in turn nosed out Iowa for second place. Church caught his Iowa rival in the last stride and fell over the finish line, face downward in the cinders, with the other straggling runners leaping over him.

Billy Brown of Louisiana State flashed to victory in the 100-yard dash, beating the Big Ten outdoor champion, John Davenport of the University of Chicago, to the tape by a step in 10 seconds flat, slowest time in the event in Drake competition in ten years. Myron Piker, Northwestern, indoor Big Ten champion, pulled up with a strained muscle after setting the pace.

Lilburn Williams, ponderous negro from Xavier, New Orleans, captured the shot put with a toss of 51 feet, 3 inches.

Summaries included:

One mile university (final) won by Ohio State (Sulzman, Cooperrider, Howells, Lewis); second, Louisiana State; third Iowa; fourth, Oklahoma A. and M.; fifth, Rice. Time—3:14.1 (new Drake record. Old record 3:15 by Iowa in 1938).

Pole vault (final) Padway, Wisconsin; Bryan, Texas; Stolburg, Marquette; Cassels, Chicago, tied for first at 13 feet, 8 inches; Sargent, Iowa State; Dean, Notre Dame; Eivens, Drake; Davidson, Chicago; Thistlethwaite, Northwestern; Wonacott, Louisiana State, tied for fifth at 13 feet, 2 inches.

High jump (final) won by Diefenthaler, Illinois; 6 feet 5 5-8 inches; Burke, Marquette; Williams, Xavier of New Orleans; and Washington, Western Michigan Teachers, tied for second at 6 feet, 3 5-8 inches.

The 440-yard university relay final was won by Louisiana State (Davis, Rachal, Ware, Brown); second, Rice. Time :41.8.

The 440-yard hurdles final was won by Simmons, Nebraska; second, Wright, Oklahoma A. and M.; third, Farren, Xavier of New Orleans. Time :55.5.

the amazing speed of the Belair stud's tall stepper.

Ballot-by-ballot, here's the way the jury reported:

Alfred G. Vanderbilt—Challedon's the best horse and will like the Derby distance. He's bred in Maryland, where they breed good race horses.

Lou Schaeffer—Challedon's chances are as good as any of 'em, even though horses like Technician, Johnstown and El Chico will be tough.

H. G. (Guy) Bedwell—Hope Challedon wins it.

Hirsch Jacobs—Challedon to win, he's a real nice colt, has been trained well.

Earle Sande—Johnstown has class, but watch Heather Broom.

Jim Fitzsimmons—Johnstown is a real good horse; Technician, and Challedon and El Chico, if he can go the route, are the toughest.

George Odom—Johnstown is one of the best.

Max Hirsch—Johnstown and Challedon to fight it out.

Ben Jones—Technician has Johnstown to beat, but he's used to the choppy track at the Downs.

Roscoe Goose—I lean to Technician, but Johnstown is a tough nut to crack.

Matt Brady—El Chico will run all day; Johnstown and Challedon are good.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—Buying or selling incentives were scarce in today's stock market and leading issues generally stumbled over a slightly irregular route.

Scattered recoveries were in evidence at the close, with steels and motors coming back for modest advances, but minus signs were also plentiful. Transfers approximated 175,000 shares for the two hours.

After an overnight struggle to put together the European crossword puzzle, as posed in Hitler's lengthy speech of yesterday, most traders threw up their hands in despair and decided to remain in neutral territory.

Informed opinion in Wall Street still held to the belief that, while war scares may continue to put shivers into world markets, no real armed explosion is likely now. The thought was expressed that the fuehrer, in his address to the reichstag answering the Roosevelt peace plea, had left the door open a trifle for an amicable settlement of the Nazi demands.

The domestic business and political picture again displayed few highlights from a market standpoint.

Despite signs of lagging operations in the steel field, due partly to the soft coal tieup, it was suggested stocks in this category may have discounted temporary setbacks. United States Steel and Bethlehem received support after an early dip.

Helpful was the estimate of the secretary of labor that building permit valuations in March were 44 per cent higher than in the same month a year ago and 18 per cent better than February. Residential construction jumped 70 per cent from 1938.

Reports of declines at Amsterdam, the most important foreign market open today, turned stock exchange quiet again. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Included in recoveries at the finish were General Motors, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak.

In the minus column most of the time were American Telephone, International Nickel, General Electric, Westinghouse, Sperry, Goodyear and du Pont.

Favorite To Triumph In Kentucky Derby Skyrockets To New Heights

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—William Woodward's big bay Johnstown, already regarded as the choice in the Kentucky Derby, skyrocketed to new heights as a three-year-old prospect today by sweeping to a six-length victory in the mile-and-70 yard Wood Memorial before a crowd of more than 18,000 at Jamaica.

pressive because the pressure was on him. He had won the title twice and it was Downing against the field. But he didn't falter, a fact that indicates he'll be tough to handle in college and state competition in the near future. In other words, the youngster showed plenty of the old competitive spirit to come through when the chips were down.

Downing's scores, when compared with those posted by our southern college stars in the current collegiate tourney, are more impressive. They also compare favorably with medal scores in state tournaments. Medalist honors have been won with no lower scores than his 147, 150 and 153.

When Neville High school is passing out the awards, Ben Downing, Jr., should get one that stands out like his own golf record. His school, his city and his parents have every right to be proud of him.

A BASEBALL LIBRARY

Fans who wish to have a part in baseball's centennial anniversary which is being observed this year are offered the opportunity to aid in assembling the baseball library which will be dedicated at Cooperstown, N. Y., on July 9.

The library is being sponsored by the National association, the governing body of the minors. It will be set up in the beautiful baseball museum at Cooperstown, birthplace of the game, and the dedication will be a part of the program planned for "Minor League Day" on July 9.

Old record books, documents, old signed contracts and other papers of historic value are wanted for the library, and fans who wish to contribute such material should send it to George M. Trautman, Chamber of Commerce building, Columbus, O.

The museum committee must pass upon the acceptability of the gifts, and any that do not prove so will be returned. The gifts will be identified with the name of the donor if he so desires.

"This is a big job and a never-ending one," said Trautman, who is in charge of assembling the library. "Those of us in baseball can not do it alone, and we must call upon the friends of the game for assistance.

"We are only starting the library this year. It is something that never will be completed, for historic matter will be added to it from year to year. We do want to make a good showing for the dedication, and for that reason, we ask that donors send us their material without delay, that we may catalogue and arrange it for display.

"This baseball library is something we have needed for a long time, and in years to come it will be a very interesting and valuable institution, with its contents available to the public."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—What he's been seeing in spring practice at Minnesota caused Bernie Bierman to issue this order: "Play football or turn in your suits." . . . The Georgia-Florida league has outlawed the old hidden ball trick—caused too much confusion. . . . Doc Robb, who trained Jim Braddock for all his important bouts, will be Lou Nova's chief second against Baer. . . . Tom Yawkey and Donie Bush are putting on one of those good old-fashioned baseball revivals in Louisville. . . . Most of the big Derby future books closed tonight.

They call him Midas.

Before arriving in New York from Washington, the king and queen of England will leave the train at Red Bank, N. J. (pop. 13,000) and ride down the main drag. . . . Red Bank also is the home town of Mike Jacobs, who'll probably have the ticket rights.

Tony Galento's debut on the coast was described as weary, dreary, teary and bleary. . . . The Herald-Tribune has lined up such headliners as Wallace Wade, Duke; Dutch Meyer, Texas Christian, and Bill Kern, Carnegie Tech, for its coaching school at the World's fair in August. . . . The Dodgers are having trouble finding a room-mate for Pitcher Red Evans, who likes to smoke a ten-year-old pipe in bed. . . . Add Sutherland: The Boston Globe says it's an even money bet Jock will be coaching a New York City eleven in 1940.

Today's guest star:

Bus Ham, Oklahoma City Oklahoman: "The reason this paper is so seldom accurate as to the starting pitcher of the Indians is that Manager Mule Haas will have one pitcher in mind and President Johnny Holland another." . . . Oh, oh!

Bill Brandt, National league publicity chief, calls Manuel Salvo of the Giants "the mastodonic maestro of the mound." . . . Sounds like Bill is warming up for a job with the circus.

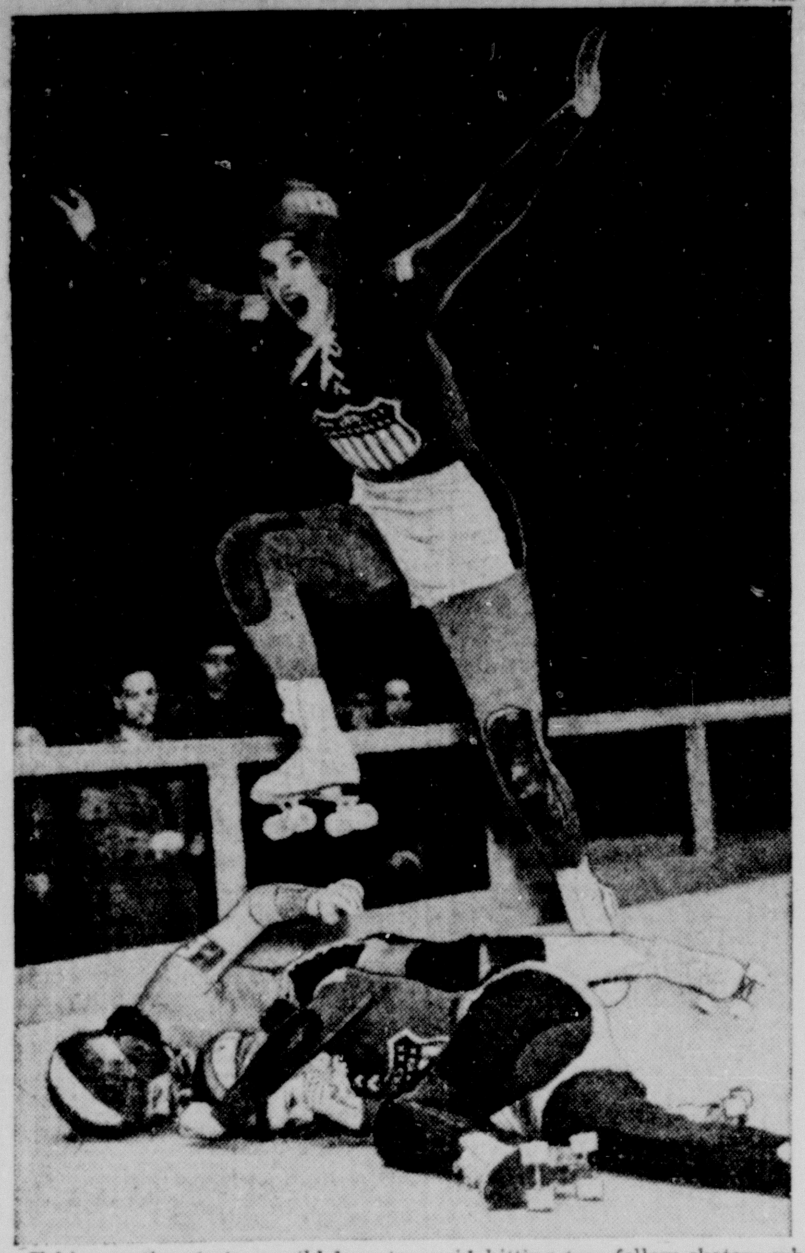
Moses Sewell mebbe?

A New York paper said yesterday it hears there is a plot afoot to make Luke Sewell manager of the Indians.

When he rejoined the Tribe after being canned by Brooklyn, Luke said: "Now I know how the children of Israel felt when they saw Moses."

Does Luke mean he aims to lead the Injuns out of the wilderness, or that he is just plumb glad to get out of them Flatbush bullrushes?

OVERCOMING TRAFFIC PROBLEM



Taking to the air in a wild leap to avoid hitting two fellow-skaters who had collided and fallen, this American girl is shown in an unusual picture as she averted a crash on London's new roller speedway.

And Floyd Speer, Monroe hurler who relieved Tex Nugent in the seventh, didn't help the Monroe cause much in the ninth when, with two strikes on the batter, he fed Salveson a fat one over the plate that went for a double and scored Roberts and Lloyd Heitman with what eventually turned out to be the runs that beat the locals.

Manager Doug Taitt put his Sox out in front in a big way in the first inning when he homered over the right field fence for the first circuit blow to be hit in the local park since the opening of the season. Frank Hargrove was on base at the time, thus giving the locals two runs.

But the Bucks overhauled the Sox in the fifth and forged ahead in the sixth. Monroe tied it up again with four runs in the seventh, but Greenville runners crossed the plate three times in the ninth. The Sox went down in their half of the ninth with a runner on second and two runs in.

Cy Block, the Greenville third baseman, copped batting honors with four hits, all singles, in five times at bat. He scored three times. Heitman and Billy Seal also hit good for the visitors, Heitman getting three hits, one a double, in five times at bat, and Seal getting three safe blows, one a triple, in five times at bat.

Johnny Conway, shortstop, produced most of the Sox hitting, getting three singles in five times at bat and scoring twice.

The only runs in the first three frames were produced by Monroe in the opening frame. Hargrove was hit by a pitched ball, automatically getting first base, and he came in ahead of Manager Taitt on his homer off Pitcher Shelton.

The Bucks scored first in the fourth inning after Block singled into center field and went on to second while Taitt was juggling the ball. Bill Kramer's single scored Block.

Then the visitors tied it up with an unearned run in the fifth. Seal singled and went on to second while McClain was juggling his drive into left field. He scored when Conway let Tucker's drive get through him at short.

Three runs in the sixth gave Greenville the lead for the first time. Howard Roberts doubled and scored on Kramer's single. Kramer went to second on Heitman's safe bunt. Salveson sacrificed Kramer and Heitman around the bases. Kramer scored on Shelton's out, Hackney to Jones, and Heitman scored on Seal's single.

The Bucks scored once more in the seventh when Block singled, went to second on an error, reached third on a passed ball and scored on an error; but Monroe came back with four runs in their half of the seventh to again tie the count.

"Red" Pruitt singled, stole second, went to third on Murrell Jones' single and scored on Taylor's single that sent Jones to third. Speer flied out to first, but Conway singled, scoring Jones and Taylor. Conway stole second and scored when Heitman let Hargrove's drive get through him at short.

Then the ninth inning was just about a repetition of the Friday night game.

Block, first up, singled and was sacrificed to second. Roberts was intentionally walked and Block stole third. Kramer flied out to Conway but Heitman singled to score Block. Then Speer fed Salveson a fat third strike which the Bucks' catcher labeled a double and scored Roberts and Heitman. Bobby Crowe flied out for the third out.

Then the Monroe rally began after one was out. Frank Narbut, batting for Speer, was given a base on balls and then retired for a base-runner, Kelton Maxfield. Conway singled, sending Maxfield to second. Link fanned, Hargrove singled, scoring Maxfield and sending Conway to second. Conway stole third and raced on home when Catcher Salveson threw wild to third in an attempt to stop the steal. Hargrove went to second on the play, but died there as Taitt flied out to second base for the last out.

CRACKERS HERE TODAY

The Greenwood Crackers invade Monroe today for the first of a three-game series with the White Sox. A single game is slated for this afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock.

Frank Narbut is slated to pitch for Monroe, Manager Doug Taitt announced last night, while Manager Cecil "Dusty" Rhodes is expected to pitch either Jesse Feaster or Royce Mills.

Monroe club officials last night announced the outright purchase of an outfielder, Bob Hill, from Montgomery of the Southeastern league. Hill, a center fielder, started last season with Manager Taitt at Tyler in the East Texas league and finished the season there with a batting average of .316.

Manager Taitt is personally acquainted with the ability of Hill and boosts him as a steady hitter and a fast fielder.

Monroe purchased Hill with the feeling that he will bolster the outfield, and that the presence of an outfielder of his rating in the lineup the past couple of nights would have meant a different story in regard to the Greenville games.

Two outfielders due here on option, one from Anniston and the other from Richmond, Va., have so far failed to show up, and local club officials felt they could wait no longer on the promised players when they made the move to buy Hill, who is expected here late today.

college four of San Marcos, Tex., sprinted the route in 3:17.5.

Ohio State climaxed the day with a smashing triumph in the one-mile university relay, establishing a record of 3:14.1 to blot out the old mark of 3:16.4 made by the University of Iowa a year ago.

The Buckeyes barely nosed out Louisiana State in a nerve-tingling finish. Church, running as anchor man for the southerners, in turn nosed out Iowa for second place. Church caught his Iowa rival in the last stride and fell over the finish line, face downward in the cinders, with the other straggling runners leaping over him.

Billy Brown of Louisiana State flashed to victory in the 100-yard dash, beating the Big Ten outdoor champion, John Davenport of the University of Chicago, to the tape by a step in 10 seconds flat, slowest time in the event in Drake competition in ten years. Myron Piker, Northwestern, indoor Big Ten champion, pulled up with a strained muscle after setting the pace.

Lilburn Williams, ponderous negro from Xavier, New Orleans, captured the shot put with a toss of 51 feet, 3 inches.

Summaries included:

One mile university (final) won by Ohio State (Sulzman, Cooperrider, Howells, Lewis); second, Louisiana State; third Iowa; fourth, Oklahoma A. and M.; fifth, Rice. Time—3:14.1 (new Drake record. Old record 3:15 by Iowa in 1938).

Pole vault (final) Padway, Wisconsin; Bryan, Texas; Stolburg, Marquette; Cassels, Chicago, tied for first at 13 feet, 8 inches; Sargent, Iowa State; Dean, Notre Dame; Eivens, Drake; Davidson, Chicago; Thistlethwaite, Northwestern; Wonacott, Louisiana State, tied for fifth at 13 feet, 2 inches.

High jump (final) won by Diefenthaler, Illinois; 6 feet 5 5-8 inches; Burke, Marquette; Williams, Xavier of New Orleans; and Washington, Western Michigan Teachers, tied for second at 6 feet, 3 5-8 inches.

The 440-yard university relay final was won by Louisiana State (Davis, Rachal, Ware, Brown); second, Rice. Time :41.8.

The 440-yard hurdles final was won by Simmons, Nebraska; second, Wright, Oklahoma A. and M.; third, Farron, Xavier of New Orleans. Time :53.5.

CHALLEDON AND JOHNSTOWN PICKED

the amazing speed of the Belair stud's tall stepper.

Ballot-by-ballot, here's the way the jury reported:

Alfred G. Vanderbilt—Challedon's the best horse and will like the Derby distance. He's bred in Maryland, where they breed good race horses.

Lou Schaeffer—Challedon's chances are as good as any of 'em, even though horses like Technician, Johnstown and El Chico will be tough.

H. G. (Guy) Bedwell—Hope Challedon wins it.

Hirsch Jacobs—Challedon to win; he's a real nice colt, has been trained well.

Earle Sande—Johnstown has class, but watch Heather Broom.

Jim Fitzsimmons—Johnstown is a real good horse; Technician, and Challedon and El Chico, if he can go the route, are the toughest.

George Odom—Johnstown is one of the best.

Max Hirsch—Johnstown and Challedon to fight it out.

Ben Jones—Technician has Johnstown to beat, but he's used to the choppy track at the Downs.

Roscoe Goose—I lean to Technician, but Johnstown is a tough nut to crack.

Matt Brady—El Chico will run all day; Johnstown and Challedon are good.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—Buying or selling incentives were scarce in today's stock market and leading issues generally stumbled over a slightly irregular route.

Scattered recoveries were in evidence at the close, with steels and motors coming back for modest advances, but minus signs were also plentiful. Transfers approximated 175,000 shares for the two hours.

After an overnight struggle to put together the European crossword puzzle, as posed in Hitler's lengthy speech of yesterday, most traders threw up their hands in despair and decided to remain in neutral territory.

Informed opinion in Wall Street still held to the belief that, while war scares may continue to put shivers into world markets, no real armed explosion is likely now. The thought was expressed that the fuehrer, in his address to the reichstag answering the Roosevelt peace plea, had left the door open a trifle for an amicable settlement of the Nazi demands.

The domestic business and political picture again displayed few highlights from a market standpoint.

Despite signs of lagging operations in the steel field, due partly to the soft coal tie-up, it was suggested stocks in this category may have discounted temporary setbacks. United States Steel and Bethlehem received support after an early dip.

Helpful was the estimate of the secretary of labor that building permit valuations in March were 44 per cent higher than in the same month a year ago and 18 per cent better than February. Residential construction jumped 70 per cent from 1938.

Prices of securities at Amsterdam, the only important foreign market open today, turned downward in quiet dealings. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Inclined to revive at the finish were General Motors, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak.

In difficulties most of the time were American Telephone, International Nickel, General Electric, Westinghouse, Sperry, Goodyear and du Pont.

BAPTIST HOME HOST TO PUBLIC

Throngs Inspect Property Saturday; Addresses Planned For Sunday

Large numbers of people attended the formal "open house" at the Louisiana Baptist Children's home on Saturday and still more are expected to attend today. The present superintendent, B. F. Wallace, is at this time celebrating the successful completion of three years of his administration.

The Saturday program started Saturday at 10:30 a.m., when a devotional was conducted by Rev. Dana Terry, pastor of the Winnsboro First Baptist church, and who is president of the board of trustees. Other speakers for Saturday morning were Mrs. Bess Harrison of Shreveport, Rev. C. W. Caldwell of Arcadia and Rev. C. W. Culp, pastor of the Queensboro Baptist church in Shreveport. Rev. Culp supplied for Rev. F. W. Tinnin, who was ill and unable to attend. Wallace Long rendered vocal selections. On the afternoon program were Secretary F. J. Katz of the Louisiana executive board and Miss Hannah Reynolds, secretary of the state W. M. U.

Large numbers of people visited the various buildings and inspected the well-kept grounds. Through the courtesy of the state highway department, traffic officers saw that the traffic was satisfactorily handled and the city of Monroe furnished sprinklers so that the roadways were freed of dust.

This morning at 10 o'clock, the Sunday school lesson will be taught, followed by addresses by Dr. Alfred Schwab of Acadia academy and Dr. Cottingham of Louisiana college.

The afternoon program will start at 1:30 o'clock and will include numbers by the Louisiana Training school band. Rev. L. Mark Roberts and Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist church of Monroe and also president of the Louisiana Baptist convention, will talk at the afternoon meeting. Music will be provided under direction of D. C. Black, music director of the First Baptist church.

The public is invited to attend all the Sunday exercises.

COURT JURY TERM MEETS MONDAY

Only Seven Cases, Including Two Murder Cases And Homicide, Docketed

With only seven cases scheduled, the spring jury term of Ouachita parish district court will convene Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse, with Judge David I. Garrett presiding.

The seven cases, comprising one of the lightest dockets of the district court in many years, are not viewed as indicating a decrease in crime, because of the unusually large number of pleas of guilty which have been entered in the court in recent months.

Following is the docket:

Monday

Roy LaCour, negro, murder of his wife, with a pistol bullet last April 4.

Tuesday

Ray Fletcher, forgery.

Ernest Lester and Joe Lester, larceny of an automobile valued at $500.

Wednesday

Jimmy Rhodes, involuntary homicide in connection with the death of Sam Clark, elderly West Monroe man, who allegedly was struck by an automobile driven by Rhodes last December 23.

Bob Smith, negro, larceny of a mule.

Thursday

FURTHER ACTION PLANNED TO EXTRADITE BIRDWELL

Making clear the reason why the local district attorney's office and members of the sheriff's department last week were unable to extradite M. H. Birdwell from Texas to Monroe to face a charge of obtaining a $300 loan from the Ouachita National bank by making a false statement, George W. Lester, assistant district attorney, said yesterday that under a recent ruling of the Texas supreme court a person may not be extradited from that state except on an affidavit signed by an aggrieved party or by action of the grand jury in the county or parish where the offense was committed. The affidavit used in the attempt to extradite Birdwell was signed by Mr. Lester.

The local district attorney's office had not been informed of the recent ruling of the Texas supreme court. However, the local prosecuting attorneys expect to obtain the proper legal papers and to take further action to bring Birdwell here to face the charge against him.

Sheriff Milton Coverdale and Deputy Sheriff Clyde Mitchell accompanied Mr. Lester to Austin, where the extradition hearing was held.

Union Parish Homemakers Hold Successful Meeting

The Union Parish Junior Homemakers held their fifth annual meeting in the Linville High school auditorium Friday, April 21. This year's club work has been centered around the study of vocations. The theme of this annual program was "Vocational Guidance," and the most extensive and highly developed procedure was used than has heretofore been employed.

The parish president, Fern Rockett of Spearsville High school, called the house to order, and the minutes of last year's meeting were read by Madeline Thaxton, secretary from Bernice High school. The Linville Rhythm band accompanied the audience during the singing of the state club song. Following this V. L. Davis, principal of the Linville High school, extended greetings to the visitors. Marie Wilson, president of the Linville club, welcomed the guests, and Marie Anderson of Marion High school responded.

Dr. Rodney Cline, Louisiana Polytechnic institute, and principle speaker of the occasion, addressed the group on the subject, "The Value of Guidance in the Selection of a Vocation." Dr. Cline said that it was the right of youth to demand expert guidance in the selection of a vocation equally as much as there was need, but above all else, the important thing was not what you do in life to make a living but what you do with a life.

Outstanding representatives from selected vocations were personally interviewed by the club girls, and the details of qualifications, preparation, needed personal characteristics, financial needs, and compensations were given concerning each vocational field. These speakers were:

In the field of homemaking—Mrs C. M. Crow, Linville homemaker, Linville; Kathleen Andrews, Linville High school.

In the field of teaching—Miss Lillian Talbot, state supervisor of home economics, Ruston; Mary Alice Smith, Downsville High school.

In the field of dietetics—Miss Toliver, Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Ruston; Mary Francis Hollis, Bernice High school.

In the field of salesmanship—Miss Olivia Barr, Farmerville Mercantile company, Farmerville; Lula Mae Patterson, Farmerville High school.

In the field of nursing—Miss Grace E. Mizell, Union parish public health nurse; Adeline Wilks, Bernice High school.

In the field of secretarial science—Mrs. Malcolm Seab, Farmerville; Mary Terrall, Spearsville High school.

In the field of journalism—Mrs. Faulk, The Ruston Leader, Ruston; Frenchie Roan, Farmerville High school.

In the field of library science—Miss Hilda Caroline Fuller, Union Parish High school supervisor; Charlotte Hollis, Marion High school.

Miss Lela Tomlinson, state supervisor of home economics and club sponsor, talked to the group and enthusiastically praised the progress since the organization was established.

Superintendent E. J. Upshaw addressed the group, congratulated them on the successful results of the year's work and stated that he was pleased with the growth and outstanding achievements of the schools.

The Glee clubs from Linville High school, Marion High school, Downsville High school, and Spearsville High school gave selections throughout the program, and the Farmerville High school orchestra gave a number.

Luncheon was served to all visitors during the noon hour.

The afternoon session was devoted to business matters, musical numbers, and tumbling stunts by the Linville club, and taking pictures of the various groups.

A committee, appointed by the president to draw up a resolution submitted the following which were unanimously accepted by the club:

Mrs. Seab, Mrs. C. M. Crow, Miss Vivian Kilpatrick, Mrs. Elton J. Upshaw, and Miss Hilda Fuller were made honorary members of the Union Parish Junior Homemakers club.

That the Junior Homemakers of Union parish wish to express appreciation to Superintendent E. J. Upshaw, V. L. Davis, Mrs. Melba McDonald, other faculty members, and the Linville Junior Homemakers, for making this meeting not only possible but interesting and educational.

The following officers were elected for the 1939-40 year: Parish president, Mary Terral, Spearsville High school; vice-president, Patsy Thompson, Marion High school; secretary, Kathleen Andrews, Linville High school; reporter, Margie Allen, Bernice High school; historian, Arlette Williams, Farmerville High school; committe to draw up constitution—Gloria Risinger, Gwendolyn McCuller, Julia Beth Holman, Nell Maroney, Ernestine Beal, Olga Lee Wilson.

It was voted that next year's meeting will be held at the Downsville High school.

LETTER SHOP MOVES TO LARGER OFFICES

The management of the Letter Service bureau, owned and operated by Misses Frances and Elizabeth Langford, announced Saturday removal from the Ouachita National bank building to Rooms 304-305, Bernhardt building.

With larger offices and added facilities, the Letter Shop will be better equipped to serve its customers in all forms of direct mail advertising.

Ten years ago this business was started in the Bernhardt building in a modest way by Miss Rosa Langford. From this small beginning it has grown into an established business and today it occupies an important place in local business life. Specializing in mimeographing, multigraphing, mailing lists, office forms, notary, newcomer welcome service and all forms of stenographic work, the owners now operate a first-class up-to-date letter shop.

Although the largest phase of work comes from business houses in direct mail advertising, the shop fills a great need from business houses and fills a need for secretaries of fraternal, religious and social organizations in and around Monroe.

About three years ago, a new feature was added. A newcomer welcome service is conducted on behalf of progressive merchants who have moved to Monroe for the first time. These new citizens find the courtesy extended them on behalf of the city and merchants both hearty and helpful.

Associated with Misses Frances and Elizabeth Langford are Miss Sarah Guy and M. L. Langford.

Throngs Inspect Property Saturday; Addresses Planned For Sunday

Large numbers of people attended the formal "open house" at the Louisiana Baptist Children's home on Saturday and still more are expected to attend today. The present superintendent, B. F. Wallace, is at this time celebrating the successful completion of three years of his administration.

The Saturday program started Saturday at 10:30 a.m., when a devotional was conducted by Rev. Dana Terry, pastor of the Winnsboro First Baptist church, and who is president of the board of trustees. Other speakers for Saturday morning were Mrs. Bess Harrison of Shreveport, Rev. C. W. Caldwell of Arcadia and Rev. C. W. Culp, pastor of the Queensboro Baptist church in Shreveport. Rev. Culp supplied for Rev. F. W. Tinnin, who was ill and unable to attend. Wallace Long rendered vocal selections. On the afternoon program were Secretary F. J. Katz of the Louisiana executive board and Miss Hannah Reynolds, secretary of the state W. M. U.

Large numbers of people visited the various buildings and inspected the well-kept grounds. Through the courtesy of the state highway department, traffic officers saw that the traffic was satisfactorily handled and the city of Monroe furnished sprinklers so that the roadways were freed of dust.

This morning at 10 o'clock, the Sunday school lesson will be taught, followed by addresses by Dr. Alfred Schwab of Acadia academy and Dr. Cottingham of Louisiana college.

The afternoon program will start at 1:30 o'clock and will include numbers by the Louisiana Training school band. Rev. L. Mark Roberts and Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist church of Monroe and also president of the Louisiana Baptist convention, will talk at the afternoon meeting. Music will be provided under direction of D. C. Black, music director of the First Baptist church.

The public is invited to attend all the Sunday exercises.

LEGION POST TO MEET

L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion will meet at the Legion's memorial home in Forsythe park Monday at 8 p.m.

COURT JURY TERM MEETS MONDAY

Only Seven Cases, Including Two Murder Cases And Homicide, Docketed

With only seven cases scheduled, the spring jury term of Ouachita parish district court will convene Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse, with Judge David I. Garrett presiding.

The seven cases, comprising one of the lightest dockets of the district court in many years, are not viewed as indicating a decrease in crime, because of the unusually large number of pleas of guilty which have been entered in the court in recent months.

Following is the docket:

Roy LaCour, negro, murder of his wife, with a pistol bullet last April 4.

Tuesday

Ray Fletcher, forgery.

Ernest Lester and Joe Lester, larceny of an automobile valued at $500.

Wednesday

Jimmy Rhodes, involuntary homicide in connection with the death of Sam Clark, elderly West Monroe man, who allegedly was struck by an automobile driven by Rhodes last December 23.

Bob Smith, negro, larceny of a mule.

Thursday

FURTHER ACTION PLANNED TO EXTRADITE BIRDWELL

Making clear the reason why the local district attorney's office and members of the sheriff's department last week were unable to extradite M. H. Birdwell from Texas to Monroe to face a charge of obtaining a $300 loan from the Ouachita National bank by making a false statement, George W. Lester, assistant district attorney, said yesterday that under a recent ruling of the Texas supreme court a person may not be extradited from that state except on an affidavit signed by an aggrieved party or by action of the grand jury in the county or parish where the offense was committed. The affidavit used in the attempt to extradite Birdwell was signed by Mr. Lester.

The local district attorney's office had not been informed of the recent ruling of the Texas supreme court. However, the local prosecuting attorneys expect to obtain the proper legal papers and to take further action to bring Birdwell here to face the charge against him.

Sheriff Milton Coverdale and Deputy Sheriff Clyde Mitchell accompanied Mr. Lester to Austin, where the extradition hearing was held.

Union Parish Homemakers Hold Successful Meeting

The Union Parish Junior Homemakers held their fifth annual meeting in the Linville High school auditorium Friday, April 21. This year's club work has been centered around the study of vocations. The theme of this annual program was "Vocational Guidance," and the most extensive and highly developed procedure was used than has heretofore been employed.

The parish president, Fern Rockett of Spearsville High school, called the house to order, and the minutes of last year's meeting were read by Madeline Thaxton, secretary from Bernice High school. The Linville Rhythm band accompanied the audience during the singing of the state club song. Following this V. L. Davis, principal of the Linville High school, extended greetings to the visitors. Marie Wilson, president of the Linville club, welcomed the guests, and Marie Anderson of Marion High school responded.

Dr. Rodney Cline, Louisiana Polytechnic institute, and princple speaker of the occasion, addressed the group on the subject, "The Value of Guidance in the Selection of a Vocation." Dr. Cline said that it was the right of youth to demand expert guidance in the selection of a vocation equally as much as there was need, but above all else, the important thing was not what you do in life to make a living but what you do with a life.

Outstanding representatives from selected vocations were personally interviewed by the club girls, and the details of qualifications, preparation, needed personal characteristics, financial needs, and compensations were given concerning each vocational field. These speakers were:

In the field of homemaking—Mrs C. M. Crow, Linville homemaker, Linville; Kathleen Andrews, Linville High school.

In the field of teaching—Miss Lillian Talbot, state supervisor of home economics, Ruston; Mary Alice Smith, Downsville High school.

In the field of dietetics—Miss Toliver, Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Ruston; Mary Francis Hollis, Bernice High school.

In the field of salesmanship—Miss Olivia Barr, Farmerville Mercantile company, Farmerville; Lula Mae Patterson, Farmerville High school.

In the field of nursing—Miss Grace E. Mizell, Union parish public health nurse; Adeline Wilks, Bernice High school.

In the field of secretarial science—Mrs. Malcolm Seab, Farmerville; Mary Terrall, Spearsville High school.

In the field of journalism—Mrs. Faulk, The Ruston Leader, Ruston; Frenchie Roan, Farmerville High school.

In the field of library science—Miss Hilda Caroline Fuller, Union Parish High school supervisor; Charlotte Hollis, Marion High school.

Miss Lela Tomlinson, state supervisor of home economics and club sponsor, talked to the group and enthusiastically praised the progress since the organization was established.

Superintendent E. J. Upshaw addressed the group, congratulated them on the successful results of the year's work and stated that he was pleased with the growth and outstanding achievements of the schools.

The Glee clubs from Linville High school, Marion High school, Downsville High school, and Spearsville High school gave selections throughout the program, and the Farmerville High school orchestra gave a number.

Luncheon was served to all visitors during the noon hour.

The afternoon session was devoted to business matters, musical numbers, and tumbling stunts by the Linville club, and taking pictures of the various groups.

A committee, appointed by the president to draw up a resolution submitted the following which were unanimously accepted by the club:

Mrs. Seab, Mrs. C. M. Crow, Miss Vivian Kilpatrick, Mrs. Elton J. Upshaw, and Miss Hilda Fuller were made honorary members of the Union Parish Junior Homemakers club.

That the Junior Homemakers of Union parish wish to express appreciation to Superintendent E. J. Upshaw, V. L. Davis, Mrs. Melba McDonald, other faculty members, and the Linville Junior Homemakers, for making this meeting not only possible but interesting and educational.

The following officers were elected for the 1939-40 year: Parish president, Mary Terral, Spearsville High school; vice-president, Patsy Thompson, Marion High school; secretary, Kathleen Andrews, Linville High school; reporter, Margie Allen, Bernice High school; historian, Arlette Williams, Farmerville High school; committe to draw up constitution—Gloria Risinger, Gwendolyn McCuller, Julia Beth Holman, Nell Maroney, Ernestine Beal, Olga Lee Wilson.

It was voted that next year's meeting will be held at the Downsville High school.

LETTER SHOP MOVES TO LARGER OFFICES

The management of the Letter Service bureau, owned and operated by Misses Frances and Elizabeth Langford, announced Saturday removal from the Ouachita National bank building to Rooms 304-305, Bernhardt building.

With larger offices and added facilities, the Letter Shop will be better equipped to serve its customers in all forms of direct mail advertising.

Ten years ago this business was started in the Bernhardt building in a modest way by Miss Rosa Langford. From this small beginning it has grown into an established business and today it occupies an important place in local business life. Specializing in mimeographing, multigraphing, mailing lists, office forms, notary, newcomer welcome service and all forms of stenographic work, the owners now operate a first-class up-to-date letter shop.

Although the largest phase of work comes from business houses in direct mail advertising, the shop fills a great need from business houses and fills a need for secretaries of fraternal, religious and social organizations in and around Monroe.

About three years ago, a new feature was added. A newcomer welcome service is conducted on behalf of progressive merchants who have moved to Monroe for the first time. These new citizens find the courtesy extended them on behalf of the city and merchants both hearty and helpful.

Associated with Misses Frances and Elizabeth Langford are Miss Sarah Guy and M. L. Langford.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Arthur Cruikshank, 812 Pine street, West Monroe, underwent another operation in the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic the past week. About five weeks ago, Mr. Cruikshank, when employed by a power and light company, fell 40 feet from a pole and received a badly crushed leg, which required a long course of treatment in a Monroe hospital.

Monroe Society Turns Swiftly To Out-Of-Doors As Early Summer Arrives

Dawkins Family One Of The Enthusiastic

Delta Beta Sigma Plans Style Revue; Norman Dicksons Will Leave For Florida

THE month of May brings not only perfumed flowers, azure sky and warm breeze, but a promise of lovelier, happier summer days that become, as it were, interwoven into man's existence. May arriving on flowery wings finds society enjoying life out of doors. Tennis courts are alive with exuberant youth—golf links are dotted with flaming color as feminine players swing down the fairway in sport clothes of vibrant hues—the chug-chug of motor boats on the river tell of summer's approach—hostesses forsake all form of formality and step into their gardens for a season of out-of-door living.

One family in particular, the Benjamin Dawkins, find out-of-door living very much to their liking. And no wonder. Summer glistens at every corner, especially beautiful being their patio where the protecting branches of a giant oak shut out the glaring sunlight. The vista from the patio reveals a wealth of beauty—a flower-bordered walk leads to the white stone out-of-door fireplace with a white pergola covered with crimson roses in the background. The paths are bordered with purple verbena and trellises far in the rear are a solid mass of climbing roses.

Impromptu social affairs from now until summer is over will be the design for living. One of the pleasantest phases of life in Monroe is the privilege it affords for out-of-door activity from early summer until late fall.

The ne plus ultra in the way of entertainment this week is the Delta Beta Sigma style revue at the Paramount theater on Tuesday. This group of beautiful young girls will model clothes for every stage of life commencing with grammar school through high school, commencement, and then as a vibrant debutante and last of all as a bride. You can well imagine how fascinating such a revue will be with a galaxy of lovely girls such as the D. B. S.'s stepping down the runway in the glare of flood lights. It seems that the revue is in the name of sweet charity so naturally it is of double interest.

Quite the busiest person in Monroe tomorrow will be Mildred Breard, that lovely young person who gives freely of her time to philanthropies and charities. She has offered to make corsages, 30 in number, for that gallant little band of women who will serve as hostesses at the opening of the Monroe Maternity Welfare clinic Monday afternoon.

Of all the splendid undertakings and all the worthwhile philanthropies that have gone before, this is perhaps the most wonderful of all. Pre-natal and post-natal information is given freely at the maternity clinic where prospective mothers will be cared for. The reception on Monday will permit the women of this community an opportunity to learn something of the work that is being carried on in their midst.

According to the law of compensation, our loss is always another's gain and vice versa. All of which reminds us that we will suffer a distinct loss but Jacksonville, Fla., will gain something of infinite value when the Norman Dicksons of Hodge pull up stakes and leave Louisiana. Mrs. Dickson, whose cultural influence has been felt the length and breadth of this section of the state, tells us that a more lucrative position for Mr. Dickson prompts them to make their future home henceforth in Jacksonville. We have grown accustomed to having this charming, cultured woman in our midst and have learned to associate her with the beautiful things with which she has surrounded herself. Naturally her departure will leave a distinct void—a niche that no other will be able to fill.

We remember one day in particular when Mrs. Dickson donned an ante-bellum gown and welcomed friends, far and near, during the tea hour. The glistening mahogany and rosewood reflected the gleam of candles in antique crystal candelabra and priceless silver tea services graced either end of the rosewood dining room table with its priceless Dresden china and Bohemian crystal. It was an occasion that will dwell in memory forever.

Virginia Blower could scarcely tear herself away from Washington where she went as a delegate from Fort Miro chapter, D. A. R., to the national congress. So much beauty confronted her on every side she found her two weeks' visit too short a space of time to fully grasp it all. Women prominent in the life of the nation were in evidence at every social affair, but the president's wife, Eleanor Roosevelt, was conspicuous by her absence. The reception at the White House went on as planned, however, with many notables acting as hostesses. The reception at Constitution hall was a brilliant event; also the pages' ball in the Chinese ballroom of the Mayflower hotel. Innumerable luncheons and a banquet at the Mayflower were included in the festivities. The marine band supplied the stirring music for the social affairs and for all sessions of the D. A. R. congress.

Virginia was not content to return home until she had visited the famous Williamsburg galleries and garden tour of "Monticello," the home of Thomas Jefferson, and "Ashlawn," the home of James Monroe. All through the Cumberland mountains the pink and white dogwood trees were in full bloom and the Blue Ridge mountains were covered with laurel.

Mrs. J. R. Wooten, who accompanied Mrs. Blower to Washington, is still lingering in the enchanting city, delving deep into old records in the Congressional library. Mrs. Wooten has made geneology a lifetime study and is availing herself of the privilege while in Washington of seeking desired information.

Hello and goodbye are on everyone's lips these days. Those who have journeyed far during the early spring are now returning home, and others are leaving for distant points daily. From Rio de Janeiro come Louise Kellogg and daughters. They landed in New York City last week but are attending the World's fair before coming home. Three sisters, Mrs. W. F. Cummings, Mrs. Charles McCord and Mrs. Charles Oswald, returned last week from a motor tour through the east, including a visit in Washington where they feasted their eyes on the avenues of blossoming cherry trees. They visited the World's fair and motored leisurely home through the New England states.

Mrs. Merrell Williams Entertains Book Club

Mrs. Merrell Williams was a charming hostess Thursday afternoon, when she entertained members of the Junior Gavel club and their guests at her home on Glenmar. A lovely arrangement of roses and verbena created a festive atmosphere in the reception suite, where the program was presented.

Mrs. H. L. Deloney, president, called the meeting to order. Roll call and minutes were read by Mrs. D. L. Bornman, secretary.

During the business session reports of the various committees were heard, foremost being the program committee for the coming year of which Mrs. John Richardson is chairman.

Mrs. John Naylor, chairman, presented the afternoon's program.

Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., gave a review of the novel, "Rebecca," by Daphne Du Maurier.

She said, in part:

"Daphne Du Maurier came into prominence about three years ago, when she wrote 'Jamaica Inn.' In real life she is Mrs. F. A. M. Browning, and is quite young.

"Miss Du Maurier's style in telling her story is exactly suited to her plot and her background and creates the exact spirit and atmosphere of the novel. The rhythm quickens with the story, and is always in measure with the story's beat. Her writing has an intensity, an intoxicating beauty, which is itself the utterance of the story's mood.

"Rebecca gives the story its urgency. Manderley gives the story its beauty.

"The story is written in the first person, the heroine is the narrator. After a brief, but not too brief courtship, she becomes the wife of an English aristocrat, Maxim de Winter, the owner of Manderley, one of the most magnificent show places in England, an estate of covetable beauty, and perfectly described.

"Therefore we know only what is shown to the bewildered gaze of this young bride and so well is this narrative scheme carried out that we never do know her given name, and we are also left to judge for ourselves whether she is as unattractive as she appears to herself in her own mirror."

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served refreshments to Mrs. John Richardson, Mrs. Blair Bartleson, Mrs. D. L. Bornman, Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. Olan Black, Mrs. H. L. Deloney, Mrs. C. O. Boyce, Mrs. Gorden Elliott, Mrs. Oliver Lowery and Mrs. John Naylor.

Guests present were Mrs. H. V. Collins, junior chairman for Welcome Branch; Mrs. Blanch Oliver, Mrs. Albert Williams of Ruston; Mrs. X. Holt, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, Mrs. Joe Ramey, Mrs. H. E. Thain and Mrs. Elizabeth King.

New Interest Is Shown In Y. W. C. A.

New life, interest and enthusiasm were displayed at a group meeting of the Y. W. C. A. girls who live in the residence Tuesday night. After the social dancing class the girls met with the residence secretary, Mrs. John D. Coats, and the executive secretary, Miss Ivo Wilson, to discuss matters of interest. Out of the meeting grew an organization of a club. Ella B. Brownell was elected president, Fannie Bonner, vice-president, and Olene Brandsburg, secretary and treasurer. Various interests of the group were discussed and each girl was asked to submit an interest list and a suggested name for the club. Miss Wilson interpreted the Y. W. C. A. program and stressed the importance of the opportunity that the Y. W. C. A. gives to the girls in a development of personality and appreciation for a good way of living. The club will meet each Tuesday night. Since the Y. W. C. A. professional and volunteer staff is interested not only in providing a home for girls, every effort is being made to prepare the girl in efficient and Christian living.

Current Literature Book Club Meets

Mrs. Mike John, Jr., was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the members of the Current Literature Book club. During a short business session, the president, Mrs. G. D. Holland, presided. Reports were given on the Fifth district meeting of federated clubs, held in Oak Grove, by Mrs. E. R. Whitaker, Mrs. F. T. Harkness, Mrs. J. E. Peters, Mrs. R. G. John and Mrs. Holland. Mrs. G. W. Mrs. Kersh said, "The book is filled with humor, wisdom of simple living. Grandma didn't believe you should pamper yourself with extravagances, or even with most of the necessities. Grandma called it carnal."

Little Theater Play Planned

The Little Theater of Monroe will present "Big Hearted Herbert" by Sophie Kerr and Anna Steese Richardson. This hilarious comedy is being directed by Mrs. Blanche Oliver at Neville auditorium, May 11.

It has long been an open question as to whether father or mother knows best how to bring up the children. Some say one thing, some say another. Herbert may be a great man in his factory, but at home he seems to be unable to adjust his viewpoint toward the rising generation, and the result is an evening of unbounded pleasure to the theatergoers of the nation.

He storms and fumes and threatens but his weapons are futile before the delightful feminine wiles of his loving and long-suffering wife.

Herbert Kalness ...... Harold Rigg
Robert Kalness .... Peter Jamerson
Elizabeth Kalness ... Trudie Black
Martha ... Louella Russell Hay
Herbert Kalness, Jr. ... Noel Learned

Dawkins Family One Of The Enthusiastic

Delta Beta Sigma Plans Style Revue; Norman Dicksons Will Leave For Florida

THE month of May brings not only perfumed flowers, azure sky and warm breeze, but a promise of lovelier, happier summer days that become, as it were, interwoven into man's existence. May arriving on flowery wings finds society enjoying life out of doors. Tennis courts are alive with exuberant youth—golf links are dotted with flaming color as feminine players swing down the fairway in sport clothes of vibrant hues—the chug-chug of motor boats on the river tell of summer's approach—hostesses forsake all form of formality and step into their gardens for a season of out-of-door living.

One family in particular, the Benjamin Dawkins, find out-of-door living very much to their liking. And no wonder. Summer glistens at every corner, especially beautiful being their patio where the protecting branches of a giant oak shut out the glaring sunlight. The vista from the patio reveals a wealth of beauty—a flower-bordered walk leads to the white stone out-of-door fireplace with a white pergola covered with crimson roses in the background. The paths are bordered with purple verbena and trellises far in the rear are a solid mass of climbing roses.

Impromptu social affairs from now until summer is over will be the design for living. One of the pleasantest phases of life in Monroe is the privilege it affords for out-of-door activity from early summer until late fall.

The ne plus ultra in the way of entertainment this week is the Delta Beta Sigma style revue at the Paramount theater on Tuesday. This group of beautiful young girls will model clothes for every stage of life commencing with grammar school through high school, commencement, and then as a vibrant debutante and last of all as a bride. You can well imagine how fascinating such a revue will be with a galaxy of lovely girls such as the D. B. S.'s stepping down the runway in the glare of flood lights. It seems that the revue is in the name of sweet charity so naturally it is of double interest.

Quite the busiest person in Monroe tomorrow will be Mildred Breard, that lovely young person who gives freely of her time to philanthropies and charities. She has offered to make corsages, 30 in number, for that gallant little band of women who will serve as hostesses at the opening of the Monroe Maternity Welfare clinic Monday afternoon.

Of all the splendid undertakings and all the worthwhile philanthropies that have gone before, this is perhaps the most wonderful of all. Pre-natal and post-natal information is given freely at the maternity clinic where prospective mothers will be cared for. The reception on Monday will permit the women of this community an opportunity to learn something of the work that is being carried on in their midst.

According to the law of compensation, our loss is always another's gain and vice versa. All of which reminds us that we will suffer a distinct loss but Jacksonville, Fla., will gain something of infinite value when the Norman Dicksons of Hodge pull up stakes and leave Louisiana. Mrs. Dickson, whose cultural influence has been felt the length and breadth of this section of the state, tells us that a more lucrative position for Mr. Dickson prompts them to make their future home henceforth in Jacksonville. We have grown accustomed to having this charming, cultured woman in our midst and have learned to associate her with the beautiful things with which she has surrounded herself. Naturally her departure will leave a distinct void—a niche that no other will be able to fill.

We remember one day in particular when Mrs. Dickson donned an antebellum gown and welcomed friends, far and near, during the tea hour. The glistening mahogany and rosewood reflected the gleam of candles in antique crystal candelabra and priceless silver tea services graced either end of the rosewood dining room table with its priceless Dresden china and Bohemian crystal. It was an occasion that will dwell in memory forever.

Virginia Blower could scarcely tear herself away from Washington where she went as a delegate from Fort Miro chapter, D. A. R., to the national congress. So much beauty confronted her on every side she found her two weeks' visit too short a space of time to fully grasp it all. Women prominent in the life of the nation were in evidence at every social affair, but the president's wife, Eleanor Roosevelt, was conspicuous by her absence. The reception at the White House went on as planned, however, with many notables acting as hostesses. The reception at Constitution hall was a brilliant event; also the pages' ball in the Chinese ballroom of the Mayflower hotel. Innumerable luncheons and a banquet at the Mayflower were included in the festivities. The marine band supplied the stirring music for the social affairs and for all sessions of the D. A. R. congress.

Virginia was not content to return home until she had visited the famous Williamsburg galleries and garden tour of "Monticello," the home of Thomas Jefferson, and "Ashlawn," the home of James Monroe. All through the Cumberland mountains the pink and white dogwood trees were in full bloom and the Blue Ridge mountains were covered with laurel.

Mrs. J. R. Wooten, who accompanied Mrs. Blower to Washington, is still lingering in the enchanting city, delving deep into old records in the Congressional library. Mrs. Wooten has made geneology a lifetime study and is availing herself of the privilege while in Washington of seeking desired information.

Hello and goodbye are on everyone's lips these days. Those who have journeyed far during the early spring are now returning home, and others are leaving for distant points daily. From Rio de Janeiro come Louise Kellogg and daughters. They landed in New York City last week but are attending the World's fair before coming home. Three sisters, Mrs. W. F. Cummings, Mrs. Charles McCord and Mrs. Charles Oswald, returned last week from a motor tour through the east, including a visit in Washington where they feasted their eyes on the avenues of blossoming cherry trees. They visited the World's fair and motored leisurely home through the New England states.

Mrs. Merrell Williams Entertains Book Club

Mrs. Merrell Williams was a charming hostess Thursday afternoon, when she entertained members of the Junior Gavel club and their guests at her home on Glenmar. A lovely arrangement of roses and verbena created a festive atmosphere in the reception suite, where the program was presented.

Mrs. H. L. Deloney, president, called the meeting to order. Roll call and minutes were read by Mrs. D. L. Bornman, secretary.

During the business session reports of the various committees were heard, foremost being the program committee for the coming year of which Mrs. John Richardson is chairman.

Mrs. John Naylor, chairman, presented the afternoon's program.

Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., gave a review of the novel, "Rebecca," by Daphne Du Maurier.

She said, in part:

"Daphne Du Maurier came into prominence about three years ago, when she wrote 'Jamaica Inn.' In real life she is Mrs. F. A. M. Browning, and is quite young.

"Miss Du Maurier's style in telling her story is exactly suited to her plot and her background and creates the exact spirit and atmosphere of the novel. The rhythm quickens with the story, and is always in measure with the story's beat. Her writing has an intensity, an intoxicating beauty, which is itself the utterance of the story's mood.

"Rebecca gives the story its urgency. Manderley gives the story its beauty.

"The story is written in the first person, the heroine is the narrator. After a brief, but not too brief courtship, she becomes the wife of an English aristocrat, Maxim de Winter, the owner of Manderley, one of the most magnificent show places in England, an estate of covetable beauty, and perfectly described.

"Therefore we know only what is shown to the bewildered gaze of this young bride and so well is this narrative scheme carried out that we never do know her given name, and we are also left to judge for ourselves whether she is as unattractive as she appears to herself in her own mirror."

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served refreshments to Mrs. John Richardson, Mrs. Blair Bartleson, Mrs. D. L. Bornman, Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. Olan Black, Mrs. H. L. Deloney, Mrs. C. O. Boyce, Mrs. Gorden Elliott, Mrs. Oliver Lowery and Mrs. John Naylor.

Guests present were Mrs. H. V. Collins, junior chairman for Welcome Branch; Mrs. Blanch Oliver, Mrs. Albert Williams of Ruston; Mrs. X. Holt, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, Mrs. Joe Ramey, Mrs. H. E. Thain and Mrs. Elizabeth King.

New Interest Is Shown In Y. W. C. A.

New life, interest and enthusiasm were displayed at a group meeting of the Y. W. C. A. girls who live in the residence Tuesday night. After the social dancing class the girls met with the residence secretary, Mrs. John D. Coats, and the executive secretary, Miss Ivo Wilson, to discuss matters of interest. Out of the meeting grew an organization of a club. Ella B. Brownell was elected president, Fannie Bonner, vice-president, and Olene Brandsburg, secretary and treasurer. Various interests of the group were discussed and each girl was asked to submit an interest list and a suggested name for the club. Miss Wilson interpreted the Y. W. C. A. program and stressed the importance of the opportunity that the Y. W. C. A. gives to the girls in a development of personality and appreciation for a good way of living. The club will meet each Tuesday night. Since the Y. W. C. A. professional and volunteer staff is interested not only in providing a home for girls, every effort is being made to prepare the girl in efficient and Christian living.

An informal reception indoors permitted friends to extend their well wishes and to accept the courtesies extended by Mr. and Mrs. Cobb and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Paul Wagner of Water Valley, Miss., brother and sister of the bride.

The bride's table was developed in pink and white, a plaque of orange blossoms and pink roses forming the centerpiece. Mrs. Carol Rowe and two daughters, Misses Carolyn and [illegible] Ann Rowe, assisted in extending courtesies.

History Of Rayville's Redbud Campaign Told

We are indebted to Mrs. W. Davis Cotton of Rayville for a charming description of the beautiful redbud trees planted in mass formation in accordance with the city beautification plan.

The following conversation is supposed to have taken place while Mrs. Cotton motored around the city in company with a visitor from the north.

"So this is Rayville. The little town I have heard so much about in all of the years you have been married and this is my first chance to come south to visit you. Oh! Sally, take me all over it. Your letters have been so interesting I am sure I shall recognize many of your friends. It was so late last night when I arrived I couldn't see your town but this morning I can hardly wait to get started."

"All right Nell, hop in the car and let's start now."

"Sally, wait a minute, what is that tree there?"

"Where, which one?"

"That one there, all alive in pink and red."

"Why, Sally, that is a redbud tree, haven't you ever seen one?"

"No, I never did, and didn't know anything so lovely existed on this side of heaven."

"Look, Nell, there is another and another as far as you can see up and down this street."

"Sally, they are perfect, are there any more of them in Rayville?"

"Why of course, Nell, they are all over town. Here, I'll show you, we'll drive up and down the familiar streets, Julia, Louisa, Madeline, Rose and Benedette named for the daughters of John Ray, the founder of Rayville."

"But the redbud trees, Sally, where did they come from?"

"They grow in abundance in our surrounding woods."

"But how did Rayville happen to have so many of them?"

"First the property owners brought them in one by one from their farms in the outskirts of town, and it wasn't long after that time that someone with a vision suggested to a number of her friends that they could build up a little trade in Rayville by selling the trees. Taking her at her word several of the farmers added redbud trees to their stock when they came into town to peddle fruit and vegetables and began taking orders for them.

"It didn't take the ladies long to become interested in the trees and a [illegible]

"No, I've [illegible] them grow in [illegible] Rayville [illegible]

"Sally, the story of the redbuds is fascinating, go on."

"Well, Nell, Rayville will be ready to celebrate its first redbud festival three years from now."

"Why three years, Sally?"

"Because, Nell, in the small area that comprises Rayville two thousand additional redbuds were set out this year in January and February."

"That seems incredible, how was it done?"

"Mrs. [illegible], the [illegible] Kappa club, which is one of Louisiana's Federated clubs, sponsored the project. I say the [illegible] Kappa club, but really the credit belongs to only one of our members. The rest of us gave her our moral backing and support, but she did it. I am speaking of Mrs. Sartor, the wife of Dr. James C. Sartor. At the last meeting of our club when Mrs. [illegible], our president, attempted to thank her on behalf of the club, Mrs. Sartor said, [illegible] the National Youth [illegible] transportation [illegible] Mr. [illegible] court.

"A doctor's wife, the NYA boys and a judge, that certainly was a splendid combination, and what a service to render to their community."

"You're right, Nell, and every tree represented plenty of work and personal supervision.

"The project was worked out by Mrs. A. J. Willis, the area supervisor of the NYA and Mr. Belton M. Dillard, the boys' supervisor for Richland parish, and the NYA who reported to Judge Ellis for work. It took many trips into the woods with the judge using his own automobile and trailer for transportation for the boys who were taught how to recognize the trees and to dig them without injury to the roots.

"Mrs. Sartor's work was to train the boys to transplant the trees without injury to the roots. The exact spot for planting was determined by studying the map of Rayville, aided by Mrs. Sartor who gave expert instructions in transplanting.

"Those who assisted in the planting of the redbud trees can visualize their beauty in years to come and the possibility of a movie scout, selecting this particular site as a background for a picture."

Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary Meets

The regular meeting of the Rodney J. Hobbs auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was held Thursday night at the club room on DeSiard street.

Due to the absence of the president the meeting was presided over by the senior vice-president, Mrs. Gladys K. Miller.

Plans were made for a benefit bingo party to be held at the V. F. W. club room Monday night, May 15. Each auxiliary member will be expected to sell four tickets, the post members will also be asked to assist with the sale of tickets. The entire net proceeds will be sent to the departemnt hospital chairman, Mrs. Mildred Duggan, of Alexandria, to be used for the patient at the veterans' hospital there. The thought of those sick and crippled veterans is ever before members of the Hobbs auxiliary and they consider the hospital work a most worthy cause and in their line of duty as an auxiliary to a veterans' organization.

The benefit party Tuesday night will be at the home of Mrs. Chelie Wilson, Clayton street, West Monroe. Members are urged to attend as the encampment is drawing near and this fund is very important in the report to be made at that time.

Finally, the women's organizations, especially the federated clubs, became interested in them and the men's organizations backed them up in a publicity campaign to interest the property owners of Rayville in planting redbuds. The trees were their own publicity agents and acted as ambassadors of spring, and with the coming of each spring more redbuds bloomed in Rayville. May Day Will Be Widely Celebrated; Schools To Have Special Observances

Colorful Events Will Be Staged In Monroe

Barkdull Faulk Pupils Will Crown Queen, Jane Bradley, In Elaborate Program Tomorrow

May day! A day for gladness, and for outbreak into new life and beauty. A day to give expression to our gladness in song and dance and floral games.

In England, as we learn from Chaucer and other writers, it was customary during the middle ages for all, both high and low—even the court itself—to go on the first of May at an early hour "to fetch the flowers fresh." Hawthorn branches were also gathered and brought home about sunrise, with accompaniments of horn and tabor and all possible signs of joy and merriment. The people, young and old, decorated their doors and windows with the wild flowers and hawthorn branches. By a natural transition of ideas, they gave the hawthorn bloom the name of "the May," and called the ceremony "the bringing home of the May." They spoke of the expedition of going to the woods as "going-a-Maying." The fairest maid of the village was crowned with flowers and called the "queen of the May." These lovely customs have been handed down to us and today, just as in the long ago, children dance around the May pole and lovely girls are crowned queen of the May.

This custom of having a May queen is a relic of the old Roman celebration of the day when the goddess Flora was specially worshipped. Perhaps the most conspicuous feature of these festivities was the erection in every town and village of a Maypole as high as the mast of a vessel and upon which was suspended garlands of flowers and around which the people danced and entwined ribbons.

Tomorrow, the first of May, will be a happy day for the school children of Monroe. Every grammar school has selected a lovely girl for queen and on every campus will be erected a Maypole around which the children will dance and make merry.

Especially colorful will be the May day celebration at the Barkdull Faulk school where an elaborate program will be presented at 2 o'clock with the crowning of the queen, Jane Bradley, the outstanding feature. Her maid of honor will be Mary Lee Butler. Folk dancing will be introduced followed by a pagent in which all the school children will participate.

A lovely poem, written by Miss Rose Taylor of this city, was recently published in the Hamlin Democrat, of Hamlin, W. Va. The poem, which is entitled "Devotion," is prefaced with the following notes:

"During the World war some Belgian refugees found new homes in other parts of Europe, but many retired to safer places within their own nation, or to lands nearby and watched their beloved little country as a mother watches a sick child, waiting with stricken eyes for the time when they could return to the devastated area and, amid the ruins, begin the task of reconstruction. I feel that perhaps the following lines describe the meditations of these sad patriots during their weary wait."

Mrs. Lovey Gregory of Monroe, worthy grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star of the state of Louisiana, paid an official visit to the Tallulah chapter Wednesday night. Preceding the session she was entertained at a tea in the reception room of the Masonic temple.

BORDER ADVENTURE

CHAPTER XIII

Hope Kildare arose at 5 o'clock on the morning following the "visit" with Luis Barro in Mexico.

He went outside his landlady's house and, surprisingly, put up a ladder that gave him access to the roof. But even with his powerful field glasses he couldn't see the Montezuma hotel in Juarez, because of nearby obstructions. The Two Republics building in downtown El Paso seemed to be directly in the way. Anyway the light was still dense at that hour.

He got into his own swift sport coupe then and drove hurriedly around in a large half circle, coming out on the Mount Franklin Scenic drive, a long hill that gave him altitude quickly. He stopped at Lookout Point, several hundred feet above the city, and focused his field glasses again.

"That's the Montezuma, right enough," he murmured. "And that's sure as shootin' the northeast room on the fourth floor. But the window is blank."

That disturbed him. He watched the window in the haze for several minutes, wondering if Betty Mary could have forgotten to put up her promised signal. Or maybe she didn't mean to hang out the two handkerchiefs until some time this morning anyway. After all, she only suggested it last evening. She would hardly be awake yet.

He envisioned her asleep. Would she have the sleeping-beauty type of daintiness? Frankly, and exquisitely colored, her dark eyes [illegible] in little curves, her little [illegible] glory. He wished he had taken a poke last night at Luis Barro. Or just up and shot him where he stood!

Betty Mary had saved his life a few nights ago [illegible] he would [illegible] indebted to her. [illegible] girl as he had never [illegible] person anywhere. He wished he might tell her so. But—

Well, there was Sherry [illegible]

She had given Sherry the first date. She had given Sherry [illegible] night [illegible] Sherry. What did Sherry have that made him preferable? Frankly, he didn't know. But certainly he cared, Hope [illegible]

"See anything?" Hope asked, without preliminaries.

"You up already?" Sherry greeted. "Not yet a thing. She must be oversleepin'. It's after 7."

"Listen, you mug, a girl doesn't have to get up at unearthly hours like a flatfoot federal cop, see? Maybe she thinks 9 o'clock is the crack o' dawn. Can you see her window?"

"Sure, plain as day now. Its open, but the shade's pulled, against the morning sun I guess."

"Um. Well, when you going to eat?"

"I talked the man out of half his shift up here, so I'll have to perch here until 8. Wait for me."

"Okay," said Hope, and hung up.

At 8 Sherry came down looking glum, and the two men ate breakfast in silence at a nearby restaurant. When they drifted back to the office at 9, a special delivery letter, postmarked El Paso, was waiting for them. It was addressed to Sherry! But inside it said:

"Dear Boys:

"We made no arrangements for communicating with each other, except the window signals, so I shall cross back to El Paso in a taxicab at daybreak and mail this letter to you.

"Barro escorted me to the Montezuma hotel at 11 p.m. He told the Mexican maid to take special care of me, and the way he presumed to order her—almost fiercely—made me suspect that she might be one of his band. When she came to help me go to bed, I managed to display my .22 cartridge to her, and again it worked!

"She is one of Barro's spotters. Being in a hotel, she can watch for aliens and others who might be his customers, and tip him off to a lot of things. He pays her well, she says. She never questioned my status at all. Naturally she wouldn't, since Barro himself brought me there, and I had the secret token. So I pumped her all I dared, posing as a smuggler also. BORDER ADVENTURE

Hope Kildare arose at 5 o'clock on the morning following the "visit" with Luis Barro in Mexico.

He went outside his landlady's house and, surprisingly, put up a ladder that gave him access to the roof. But even with his powerful field glasses he couldn't see the Montezuma hotel in Juarez, because of nearby obstructions. The Two Republics building in downtown El Paso seemed to be directly in the way. Anyway the light was still dense at that hour.

He got into his own swift sport coupe then and drove hurriedly around in a large half circle, coming out on the Mount Franklin Scenic drive, a long hill that gave him altitude quickly. He stopped at Lookout Point, several hundred feet above the city, and focused his field glasses again.

"That's the Montezuma, right enough," he murmured. "And that's sure as shootin' the northeast room on the fourth floor. But the window is blank."

That disturbed him. He watched the window in the haze for several minutes, wondering if Betty Mary could have forgotten to put up her promised signal. Or maybe she didn't mean to hang out the two handkerchiefs until some time this morning anyway. After all, she only suggested it last evening. She would hardly be awake yet.

He envisioned her asleep. Would she have the sleeping-beauty type of daintiness? Fragile, and exquisitely colored, her dark eyelashes drooping in little curves, her little ear—oh glory! He wished he had taken a poke last night at Luis Barro. Or just up and shot him while he could.

Betty Mary had saved his life a few nights ago, he would be eternally indebted to her. And there was no use kidding himself about it, he loved that girl as he had never loved any other person anywhere. He wished he might tell her so. But—

Well, there was Sheridan.

She had given Sherry the first date. She had given Sherry the note last night. Obviously she favored Sherry. What did Sherry have that made him preferable? Frankly, he didn't know. But certainly he cared! Hope sighed.

Abruptly, he touched his starter and rolled back toward town. He was deeply unhappy, miserable and sick at heart without very strong cause. He didn't recognize it as such, but the truth was, he was jealous, thoroughly jealous. But he would not have admitted this.

He stopped at the house where Sherry lived but learned that Sherry had already dressed and gone to town. It was still not 7 a.m. Hope drove down to Border Patrol headquarters. The men on night duty greeted him cordially. Kildare and Starr were a popular "team" among the immigration and naturalization officers and the customs force.

"Sherry Starr been around this morning?" Hope inquired.

"Yep. He went up the tower to take a two-hour shift and relieve the regular man a little. He's up there now."

"Yeah? Well."

So Sheridan also was looking for Betty Mary's signals, Hope realized. But then—why not? She was working with both of them; they both felt responsible for her, justly so. He went inside the building and telephoned up to Sherry.

"See anything?" Hope asked, without preliminaries.

"You up already?" Sherry greeted. "Naw, not a thing. She musta overslept. It's after 7."

"Listen, you mug, a girl doesn't have to get up at unearthly hours like a flatfoot federal cop, see? Maybe she thinks 9 o'clock is the crack o' dawn. Can you see her window?"

"Sure, plain as day now. Its open, but the shade's pulled, against the morning sun I guess."

"Um. Well, when you going to eat?"

"I talked the man out of half his shift up here, so I'll have to perch here until 8. Wait for me."

"Okay," said Hope, and hung up.

At 8 Sherry came down looking glum, and the two men ate breakfast in silence at a nearby restaurant. When they drifted back to the office at 9, a special delivery letter, postmarked El Paso, was waiting for them. It was addressed to Sherry! But inside it said:

"Dear Boys:

"We made no arrangements for communicating with each other, except the window signals, so I shall cross back to El Paso in a taxicab at daybreak and mail this letter to you.

"Barro escorted me to the Montezuma hotel at 11 p.m. He told the Mexican maid to take special care of me, and the way he presumed to order her—almost fiercely—made me suspect that she might be one of his band. When she came to help me go to bed, I managed to display my .22 cartridge to her, and again it worked!

"She is one of Barro's spotters. Being in a hotel, she can watch for aliens and others who might be his customers, and tip him off to a lot of things. He pays her well, she says. She never questioned my status at all. Naturally she wouldn't, since Barro himself brought me there, and I had the secret token. So I pumped her all I dared, posing as a worker also. I learned this—that narcotics are going across the river every day, in broad daylight. She, and all of Barro's gang who know about it, are elated with the success of the newest dodges, she revealed. I pretended to be one of those in the know, so I didn't learn everything. But I do know that a woman is bringing some of the dope over. It is cocaine, and somehow there is a child in the plan, too. That's all the hints I could pick up.

"Don't try to answer, or see me. (Unless you want to pose again!) I'll communicate with you somehow. Love —Betty Mary."

The two officers read the letter together, then Sheridan read it aloud.

"Whew!" Hope breathed.

"Could that be the Tafoya woman? With her kid?"

"No, I don't see how, Sherry. She's been arrested twice already, she and her daughter, and both of them searched by the jail matron. I was there the last time myself. In fact I held the little kid's doll while they took her inside. She's a cute kid. No hint of smuggling there."

"They had a clean permit to cross."

"Why'd they pick her up in the first place? Her and the kid."

"Just on suspicion. They cross nearly every day, visiting."

"Let's go look at the window now," Hope said then.

They walked a block to a point on the American bank of the Rio Grande where they could see the Montezuma hotel in Juarez, and at once both men discovered what they sought.

"They're up!" murmured Hope. "Two white cloths. She's okay."

"Well, so much for that, for the time being," Sheridan agreed. "But we got work locating a woman bringing over Mr. Barro's cocaine!"

CARL TAYLOR IS NEXT SPEAKER

Will Talk For Town Hall On 'What Makes America Great'

The final time for enrolling in the membership of the Monroe Town Hall will be on Monday at 8 p.m. at the Ouachita Parish High school when the second of the series of lectures will be given. The speaker, one of the most outstanding in the nation, will be Carl Taylor, famous economist who will talk on the theme "What Makes America Great." The theme is so important in these tumultuous economic and political times, that in order to permit all interested to hear this celebrated talk, the management of the Monroe Town Hall has made the occasion "family night." This means that holders of membership tickets will be enabled to bring their entire families as guests without cost.

In order to introduce Mr. Taylor to the Monroe public, it is stated that he is a young Wisconsin business man and economist.

He is a native of Oklahoma and attended the Kansas State Agriculture college, the University of Oklahoma, and the University of Wisconsin. He taught public speaking in the University of Oklahoma and later became member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin.

In 1930 he resigned and formed a league of building and loan organizations with over 200 member associations and a quarter of a billion dollars in mortgages on Wisconsin homes. He is director in the Northern Bank of Milwaukee, and a member of the mayor's housing commission.

He is described not as a professional public speaker, but one of the most brilliant orators in America. His classic, "What Made America Great," is said to be one that any hearer will never forget.

He gave this lecture before the Executive's club in Chicago and the secretary declared it was one of the greatest addresses ever delivered before this great club of leading Chicago business men, who for 20 years had each week been hearing the greatest of speakers of America and the world.

It is expected that there will be a large assemblage present Monday night and the members of the club and those who purchase tickets for a year's membership at the door, are asked to remember that they can bring all members of their families with no further cost.

Spray Painting Low-Cost Way To Protect Property

Replacement of plantation barns, sheds and cabins used to be cheaper than the cost of protection with paint. The same was true of such commercial properties as rough warehouses and storage sheds, the buildings and quarters of small sawmills. The same was true of such investments as negro quarters.

Such, however, is no longer the case. Spray painting has revolutionized the situation. It is now far cheaper to paint than to replace structures of slight original cost. It is cheaper to protect than to permit the weather to take its toll.

The paint department of Lane Wilson Seed Company, with A. B. Buck as manager, entered the field of spray painting solely for the purpose of offering paint protection on properties that otherwise would, because of the cost of other methods of painting, have to be allowed to deteriorate. The paint department is located at 400 North Sixth street and Mr. Buck may be reached there by calling telephone number 4790.

Here's how economical spray painting is: A three-room house of rough construction, if left unpainted, deteriorates, statistics show, around $10 annually. One coat of spray paint would preserve that house four to five years at a cost of slightly more than $2 a year.

Spray painting, it is said, can be done in the field to which it is particularly adapted for one-fourth the cost of the brush painting method. Spray painting is supplemental to brush painting. It is adapted to that type of work for which the cost of brush painting is prohibitive.

On buildings constructed of rough lumber, where brush painting is virtually impossible, spray painting is particularly effective. The air pressure of the spray gun drives the paint into the wood. And this same air pressure drives paint into cracks and crevices that can't be reached with a brush. This not only preserves the building more effectively, but kills insects.

Facundus Moves Furniture Works To New Quarters

A depression-born business that, because of the excellence of the craftsmanship of its owners and employes, has experienced a steady growth is now in new and larger quarters. Facundus Furniture Works, which engages in making, refinishing, repairing and upholstering furniture, is now located in a large building bounded by Grammont, Seventh and Depot streets. Until a couple of weeks ago it operated in a small place at 206 Bright avenue.

Having more storage space at its new location, Facundus Furniture Works, owned and personally operated by E. V. Facundus and his son, Bruce Facundus, is now in a position to give its patrons better and faster service. Its workmanship was already unsurpassed.

It is the intention of the owners to install machinery in the near future to enable the firm to increase its production of custom-built furniture—made-to-order sets, reproductions and odd pieces to match sets. Reproduction and reconditioning of antiques has always been a specialty with Facundus Furniture Works.

The firm was established at 206 Bright avenue and operated there for five years. It entered upon its sixth year the past February. The quality of its work is widely known. It has patrons all over Louisiana and in Mississippi and Arkansas and it did one job for a person residing as far away as Regina, Canada.

Although it engages in all phases of furniture work, Facundus Furniture Works caters to people who want fine furniture work and are willing to pay the cost of such work. The firm does not participate in competitive bidding for jobs of any kind.

E. V. Facundus has been engaged in furniture work all of his life. He learned the craft from his father and handed it down to his son, Bruce. The latter has been doing furniture work for the past 12 years. Both the father and son are expert cabinet workers.

Bernelle's Offers Additional Service

Through an associate concern, Bernelle-Nettles Radio and Electric Service, Bernelle's garage, 311 Ouachita avenue, has expanded its service to the public. It is now in a position to recondition automobile radios, home radios, electric control equipment and electric motors and to rewind armatures.

The new firm, under the management of J. C. Nettles, shares quarters with the garage. Mr. Nettles is not only an experienced practical electrician, but an electrical engineer, holding a degree from Louisiana State university. This alone is an assurance of quality service. But more than that, the firm is fully equipped for its work.

In forming the association with Bernelle-Nettles, Bernelle's garage abandoned none of former activities. Open all night, as well as during the day, the establishment offers complete automotive service. Overhauling of wrecked cars is a specialty. A convenient easy-payment plan is offered on major repair jobs.

Miller-Guerriero Tackle, Equipment Land Those Fish

This is just to remind you that you have a date with a fish, and that it's pining to be brought in on the latest fashions in tackle now on display at Miller-Guerriero Hardware Company, Inc., 337 DeSiard street.

The fishing season is now in full blast throughout this area and, as usual, Miller-Guerriero has the latest and best in fishing tackle and equipment—casting rods, fly rods, casting baits, fly lures, minnow buckets, cricket buckets, dip nets, landing nets, seines, tackle boxes, aluminum fly boxes, canoe paddles, swivel chairs for fishing boats, boat seats and boat cushions.

And remember: It is less expensive to own an outboard motor for fishing purposes than to rent one. Miller-Guerriero handles Johnson outboard motors, which may be purchased on the easy payment plan.

And remember this, too: If you are planning on spending your vacation fishing, now is the opportune time to start selecting your tackle. In this way, you can save yourself a lot of last-minute expense.

But fishing isn't the only thing that's here again. Lawn sports have returned—croquet and badminton—and so have tennis, outdoor table tennis, softball and baseball. Miller-Guerriero carries a complete line of equipment for all of these games.

If it pertains to sports, Miller-Guerriero has it.

CONTEST OPEN TOMORROW

Registration in the annual bass fishing contest conducted by Miller-Guerriero Hardware company starts tomorrow. Rules governing the competition, what the prizes to be awarded are and the closing date will be announced later. However, for your fish to count in the contest, you must first be registered. So register at once! Get into the competition at the outset and increase your chances of winning one of the valuable prizes!

Royal De Luxe Is Safer Tire

On every point—safety, mileage, comfort and appearance—the U. S. Royal De Luxe tire gives superior value at a price millions can afford to pay. It is the quicker stopping tire millions can afford for their automobiles.

U. S. Royal De Luxe tires, as well as all other U. S. Rubber company tires, are distributed and sold here by 707 Tire Service, corner of Hall and Harrison streets. Luther Howell, a man with years of tire experience, is in charge of tire sales for the firm.

The U. S. Royal De Luxe is a safer tire because its brake-action tread, a tread within a tread with 2,500 extra grippers on each tire, brings your car to a quicker stop, a quicker straight line stop. The grippers wipe the film from the surface of wet highways and thereby increase traction when it is most needed. The same features that result in a faster stop enable cars to make faster starts.

The cogwheel tread gives greater traction on soft country roads. These treads are of irregular lengths. This reduces vibration and gives the motorists a smoother, quieter ride.

U. S. Royal De Luxe gives greater mileage and smoother driving by putting a greater era of rubber on the road—six tracks of deep tread. This tread automatically ejects stones, thus eliminating tread cutting and noise.

U. S. Royal De Luxe beauty is more than skin deep. It's built into the body of the tire from the fabric out to the tread.

For appearance, for skid-free driving, for quicker starting and stopping, for greater pulling power, for riding comfort, for steadier driving, for more miles for your money, buy U. S. Royal De Luxe tires.

CARL TAYLOR IS NEXT SPEAKER

Will Talk For Town Hall On 'What Makes America Great'

The final time for enrolling in the membership of the Monroe Town Hall will be on Monday at 8 p.m. at the Ouachita Parish High school when the second of the series of lectures will be given. The speaker, one of the most outstanding in the nation, will be Carl Taylor, famous economist who will talk on the theme "What Makes America Great." The theme is so important in these tumultuous economic and political times, that in order to permit all interested to hear this celebrated talk, the management of the Monroe Town Hall has made the occasion "family night." This means that holders of membership tickets will be enabled to bring their entire families as guests without cost.

In order to introduce Mr. Taylor to the Monroe public, it is stated that he is a young Wisconsin business man and economist.

He is a native of Oklahoma and attended the Kansas State Agriculture college, the University of Oklahoma, and the University of Wisconsin. He taught public speaking in the University of Oklahoma and later became member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin.

In 1930 he resigned and formed a league of building and loan organizations with over 200 member associations and a quarter of a billion dollars in mortgages on Wisconsin homes. He is director in the Northern Bank of Milwaukee, and a member of the mayor's housing commission.

He is described not as a professional public speaker, but one of the most brilliant orators in America. His classic, "What Made America Great," is said to be one that any hearer will never forget.

He gave this lecture before the Executive's club in Chicago and the secretary declared it was one of the greatest addresses ever delivered before this great club of leading Chicago business men, who for 20 years had each week been hearing the greatest of speakers of America and the world.

It is expected that there will be a large assemblage present Monday night and the members of the club and those who purchase tickets for a year's membership at the door, are asked to remember that they can bring all members of their families with no further cost.

Spray Painting Low-Cost Way To Protect Property

Replacement of plantation barns, sheds and cabins used to be cheaper than the cost of protection with paint. The same was true of such commercial properties as rough warehouses and storage sheds, the buildings and quarters of small sawmills. The same was true of such investments as negro quarters.

Such, however, is no longer the case. Spray painting has revolutionized the situation. It is now far cheaper to paint than to replace structures of slight original cost. It is cheaper to protect than to permit the weather to take its toll.

The paint department of Lane Wilson Seed Company, with A. B. Buck as manager, entered the field of spray painting solely for the purpose of offering paint protection on properties that otherwise would, because of the cost of other methods of painting, have to be allowed to deteriorate. The paint department is located at 400 North Sixth street and Mr. Buck may be reached there by calling telephone number 4790.

Here's how economical spray painting is: A three-room house of rough construction, if left unpainted, deteriorates, statistics show, around $10 annually. One coat of spray paint would preserve that house four to five years at a cost of slightly more than $2 a year.

Spray painting, it is said, can be done in the field to which it is particularly adapted for one-fourth the cost of the brush painting method. Spray painting is supplemental to brush painting. It is adapted to that type of work for which the cost of brush painting is prohibitive.

On buildings constructed of rough lumber, where brush painting is virtually impossible, spray painting is particularly effective. The air pressure of the spray gun drives the paint into the wood. And this same air pressure drives paint into cracks and crevices that can't be reached with a brush. This not only preserves the building more effectively, but kills insects.

Facundus Moves Furniture Works To New Quarters

A depression-born business that, because of the excellence of the craftsmanship of its owners and employes, has experienced a steady growth is now in new and larger quarters. Facundus Furniture Works, which engages in making, refinishing, repairing and upholstering furniture, is now located in a large building bounded by Grammont, Seventh and Depot streets. Until a couple of weeks ago, it operated in a small place at 206 Bright avenue.

Having more storage space at its new location, Facundus Furniture Works, owned and personally operated by E. V. Facundus and his son, Bruce Facundus, is now in a position to give its patrons better and faster service. Its workmanship was already unsurpassed.

It is the intention of the owners to install machinery in the near future to enable the firm to increase its production of custom-built furniture—made-to-order sets, reproductions and odd pieces to match sets. Reproduction and reconditioning of antiques has always been a specialty with Facundus Furniture Works.

The firm was established at 206 Bright avenue and operated there for five years. It entered upon its sixth year the past February. The quality of its work is widely known. It has patrons all over Louisiana and in Mississippi and Arkansas and it did one job for a person residing as far away as Regina, Canada.

Although it engages in all phases of furniture work, Facundus Furniture Works caters to people who want fine furniture work and are willing to pay the cost of such work. The firm does not participate in competitive bidding for jobs of any kind.

E. V. Facundus has been engaged in furniture work all of his life. He learned the craft from his father and handed it down to his son, Bruce. The latter has been doing furniture work for the past 12 years. Both the father and son are expert cabinet workers.

Bernelle's Offers Additional Service

Through an associate concern, Bernelle-Nettles Radio and Electric Service, Bernelle's garage, 311 Ouachita avenue, has expanded its service to the public. It is now in a position to recondition automobile radios, home radios, electric control equipment and electric motors and to rewind armatures.

The new firm, under the management of J. C. Nettles, shares quarters with the garage. Mr. Nettles is not only an experienced practical electrician, but an electrical engineer, holding a degree from Louisiana State university. This alone is an assurance of quality service. But more than that, the firm is fully equipped for its work.

In forming the association with Bernelle-Nettles, Bernelle's garage abandoned none of former activities. Open all night, as well as during the day, the establishment offers complete automotive service. Overhauling of wrecked cars is a specialty. A convenient easy-payment plan is offered on major repair jobs.

Miller-Guerriero Tackle, Equipment Land Those Fish

This is just to remind you that you have a date with a fish, and that it's pining to be brought in on the latest fashions in tackle now on display at Miller-Guerriero Hardware Company, Inc., 337 DeSiard street.

The fishing season is now in full blast throughout this area and, as usual, Miller-Guerriero has the latest and best in fishing tackle and equipment—casting rods, fly rods, casting baits, fly lures, minnow buckets, cricket buckets, dip nets, landing nets, seines, tackle boxes, aluminum fly boxes, canoe paddles, swivel chairs for fishing boats, boat seats and boat cushions.

CONTEST OPEN TOMORROW

Registration in the annual bass fishing contest conducted by Miller-Guerriero Hardware company starts tomorrow. Rules governing the competition, what the prizes to be awarded are and the closing date will be announced later. However, for your fish to count in the contest, you must first be registered. So register at once! Get into the competition at the outset and increase your chances of winning one of the valuable prizes!

And remember: It is less expensive to own an outboard motor for fishing purposes than to rent one. Miller-Guerriero handles Johnson outboard motors, which may be purchased on the easy payment plan.

And remember this, too: If you are planning on spending your vacation fishing, now is the opportune time to start selecting your tackle. In this way, you can save yourself a lot of last-minute expense.

But fishing isn't the only thing that's here again. Lawn sports have returned—croquet and badminton—and so have tennis, outdoor table tennis, softball and baseball. Miller-Guerriero carries a complete line of equipment for all of these games.

If it pertains to sports, Miller-Guerriero has it.

Royal De Luxe Is Safer Tire

On every point—safety, mileage, comfort and appearance—the U. S. Royal De Luxe tire gives superior value at a price millions can afford to pay. It is the quicker stopping tire millions can afford for their automobiles.

U. S. Royal De Luxe tires, as well as all other U. S. Rubber company tires, are distributed and sold here by 707 Tire Service, corner of Hall and Harrison streets. Luther Howell, a man with years of tire experience, is in charge of tire sales for the firm.

The U. S. Royal De Luxe is a safer tire because its brake-action tread, a tread within a tread with 2,500 extra grippers on each tire, brings your car to a quicker stop, a quicker straight line stop. The grippers wipe the film from the surface of wet highways and thereby increase traction when it is most needed. The same features that result in a faster stop enable cars to make faster starts.

The cogwheel tread gives greater traction on soft, country roads. These treads are of irregular lengths. This reduces vibration and gives the motorists a smoother, quieter ride.

U. S. Royal De Luxe gives greater mileage and smoother driving by putting a greater era of rubber on the road—six tracks of deep tread. This tread automatically ejects stones, thus eliminating tread cutting and noise.

U. S. Royal De Luxe beauty is more than skin deep. It's built into the body of the tire from the fabric out to the tread.

For appearance, for skid-free driving, for quicker starting and stopping, for greater pulling power, for riding comfort, for steadier driving, for more miles for your money, buy U. S. Royal De Luxe tires.

Shirley Temple's New Picture Coming To Paramount

'The Little Princess' To Show 3 Days

Child Star's Hit, Opening Here Thursday, Is In Technicolor

CELEBRATING Shirley Temple's selection by motion picture audiences as the No. 1 star of the screen for the fourth consecutive year, Darryl F. Zanuck and 20th Century-Fox set out to produce Shirley's outstanding triumph. The result is to be seen in "The Little Princess," opening Thursday at the Paramount theater, in Technicolor—a production which, according to enthusiastic Hollywood preview reports, is even greater than "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "In Old Chicago," "Kentucky" and "Jesse James," all from the 20th studios.

In response to thousands of requests from all over the world, the film presents Shirley Temple in a Technicolor production for the first time.

Adapted to the screen from Frances Hodgson Burnett's beloved classic of the same name, "The Little Princess" undoubtedly will be acclaimed not only Shirley's most memorable vehicle but also as one of the great pictures of all time. Certainly Production Chief Zanuck has bent every effort toward that end, assigning outstanding creative talent to function on the picture and including in Shirley's supporting cast many of the most notable Hollywood favorites, headed by Richard Greene and Anita Louise.

The story of "The Little Princess" takes place in one of the most colorful periods of English history, when Victoria's long reign was drawing to a close and the empire was engaged in the Boer war.

With London a-whirl with excitement, flags flying from every building and marching Grenadiers thronging the streets, the opening of the film finds Shirley spending a last few hours with her father, Captain Crewe, who is about to embark for the Transvaal. Captain Crewe takes Shirley to Miss Minchin's school, where she is to stay while he is away.

At the school Shirley makes a host of new friends and her happiness is marred only by the mistrust she feels for Miss Minchin. Among Shirley's new acquaintances are her beautiful young teacher Rose, the riding master, the Hindu servant Ram Dass, Bertie, Miss Minchin's brother, and the little slavey, Becky.

Shirley discovers the romantic attachment between Rose and Geoffrey and facilitates their meetings. She also finds out that Geoffrey is the estranged grandson of Lord Wickham.

After a series of exciting and stirring events Rose and Geoffrey are married and he goes off to war. Suddenly, while Shirley is celebrating her birthday, word comes that her father has been killed and has died a bankrupt.

Miss Minchin realizes that it would be a reflection on her school to turn Shirley out, so she banishes her to the attic and makes her a kitchen slavey.

"The Little Princess" firmly believes her father is still alive, however, and she determines to search for him. How all the entangled threads of the story are tied and provide the film with a stirring climax in which Shirley meets none other than that august ruler, Queen Victoria, [illegible]

In addition to Richard Greene and Anita Louise, Ian Hunter, Cesar Romero, Arthur Treacher, Mary Nash, Sybil Jason, Miles Mander and Marcia Mae Jones are also featured in the picture.

YOUNGEST COED WEDS

BERKELEY, Cal. [illegible]—The Marriage of Miss Josephine L. Chesa recalled her celebrity of 30 years ago when she entered the University of California at the age of 9. She was the youngest student ever [illegible]. She has been teaching [illegible] school.

Honeymoon bound, Jeffrey Lynn and Priscilla Lane, screen's newest sweetheart team, wave goodbye and "happy landings" in a charming scene from "Yes, My Darling Daughter," opening today at the Paramount theater for two days.

Shirley Temple is the center of all the drama and gaiety involved in "The Little Princess," her first technicolor production, which comes to the Paramount theater for three days starting Thursday. A great supporting cast, headed by Richard Green, and Anita Louise. Others shown here are Beryl Mercer as Queen Victoria, Ian Hunter, Arthur Treacher, Sybil Jason, Mary Nash and Cesar Romero.

'Ramona' To Open Today At Capitol

Loretta Young And Don Ameche Starred In Technicolor Hit

THE exquisite "Ramona," starring Loretta Young and Don Ameche, and opening at the Capitol today, has been done in by far the most perfect technicolor to date.

Whether or not it is because of its almost incredible beauty of color, "Ramona" springs into a vivid life not possible for any "black and white" screen play. Its sheer richness of color gives it such pulse and warmth and reality that what easily could have been but an interesting revival of a well-worn story turns into a drama of such force and freshness that the witness has the feeling of having come upon "Ramona" for the first time.

Helen Hunt Jackson's immortal story of the shameful treatment given to the American Indian in the early days of America's expansion, was written in the early 1880s. Its style would perhaps seem stilted and laborious to the impatient reader of today.

Not so the technicolor version. The tragic plight of the two hapless lovers, Ramona and Alessandro, takes on poignant reality, and we find ourselves [illegible] in a suspense as sharp as though we were not fully apprised of the outcome of the novel.

Of all the revivals of our bookshelf favorites, this screen adaptation of "Ramona" seems to be the most triumphant from a visual standpoint. The eye is at all times filled with beauty. Without obtruding upon the [illegible] or splashing the retina with too vivid a sense of color, the [illegible] at its mastery of evoking beauty with an artistry and technical perfection amazing to witness.

The early flaws and limitations of technicolor are practically eliminated. The flesh tones have been mastered. The close-ups invite comparisons with our great masters of the brush. There are pastoral scenes of surpassing beauty, and even when dramatic action takes complete possession, the medium of technicolor still enhances and vitalizes it.

The "stars" of the piece are Natalie Kalmus, who was color adviser, and Henry King, director. Henry King it was who gave us "State Fair" and "The Country Doctor"; and that same human touch, that down-to-earthness, which has marked all of his pictures from "Tol'able David" down to "Ramona," is here evident.

His characters live, his dramatic action is the very breath of living. He has done a superb piece of direction in "Ramona," and has advanced the cause of technicolor by another year.

Not much over a year ago the first full-length technicolor drama, "Becky Sharp" was released. Already the new medium is reaching the upper brackets of perfection.

'Ramona' To Open Today At Capitol

Loretta Young And Don Ameche Starred In Technicolor Hit

THE exquisite "Ramona," starring Loretta Young and Don Ameche, and opening at the Capitol today, has been done in by far the most perfect technicolor to date.

Without obtruding upon the drama's import, or splashing the retina with too lush a sense of color, the technicolor medium goes about its business of evoking beauty, with an artistry and technical perfection amazing to witness!

The early flaws and limitations of technicolor are practically eliminated. The flesh tones have been mastered. The close-ups invite comparisons with our great masters of the brush. There are pastoral scenes of surpassing beauty; and even when dramatic action takes complete possession, the medium of technicolor still enhances and vitalizes it.

The "stars" of the piece are Natalie Kalmus, who was color adviser, and Henry King, director. Henry King it was who gave us "State Fair" and "The Country Doctor"; and that same human touch, that down-to-earthness, which has marked all of his pictures from "Tol'able David" down to "Ramona," is here evident.

His characters live, his dramatic action is the very breath of living. He has done a superb piece of direction n "Ramona," and has advanced the cause of technicolor by another year.

Not much over a year ago the first full-length technicolor drama, "Becky Sharp," was released. Already the new medium is reaching the upper brackets of perfection.

AUXILIARY WILL SELL POPPIES

Day Of May 6 Named To Distribute Memorial Flowers In Monroe

Bright red poppies bloomed out at the American Legion home when the group's auxiliary received its supply of the World war memorial flowers for "Poppy day," May 6. The poppies, hundreds of carefully made replicas of the famous poppies of France and Belgium, came from the United States veterans' hospital at Alexandria, where they were made by disabled war veterans.

The auxiliary's poppy committee, directed by Miss May Faulk, chairman, is putting in busy hours counting and arranging the flowers in readiness for the women who will offer them on the streets on "Poppy day" to be worn in honor of the World war dead. Preparations are being made to cover the Twin Cities with flowers with the hope that everyone will join in the observance of the day and pay tribute to those who gave their lives in the defense of democracy.

"Each poppy has been shaped with painstaking care by some disabled veteran," said Miss Faulk. "Each one is slightly different from the others because they are made entirely by hand. Some are more perfect than others, because of the varying skill of the veterans, but all respect the best efforts of their makers to reproduce in crepe paper the wild Flanders poppy which grew and bloomed along the battle front in France and Belgium.

"The idea of the poppy as the memorial flower for the war dead sprang naturally to the minds of the men in France when they saw these brave little flowers blooming on the bare battle graves. Colonel John McCrea expressed it in his immortal poem, and one of the first acts of the American Legion was the adoption of the poppy as memorial flower. The British Legion also adopted the poppy and the flower is worn in every part of the world to commemorate the sacrifice of those who fell in the ranks of the democratic powers."

DISTRICT RALLY GROUP IS NAMED

RUSTON, La., April 29.—(Special)—E. R. Hester, principal of the Arcadia High school, who was recently elected president of the North Louisiana High School Rally association, has announced the new rally executive committee as follows:

A class school representatives—H. S. Bankston, Columbia; V. L. Brumfield, Jonesboro and H. G. Robinson, Homer. B class school representatives—J. A. Garrett, Bonita and J. A. Jones, Monroe, superintendent of the Louisiana Training institute.

In selecting the committee, it was explained that an attempt was made to choose men who represent north Louisiana generally. Mr. Hester announced the committeemen while on a visit to Louisiana Tech where the rally is held each spring.

Officers who were elected recently, other than Mr. Hester, to serve during the 1940 rally are: T. L. Owen, Wisner, vice-president, and M. H. Folk, Jr., Ruston, general secretary.

The first regular meeting of the executive meeting, which will include all committeemen and officers of the association, will be held here at the general secretary's office next fall. Plans will be made then for the 1940 rally, it was announced.

DICK TRACY
THE CONDITION OF THE MAN DISCOVERED HANGING ON AN ELECTRIC SIGN GIRDER GETS STEADILY WORSE AS FRANTIC EFFORTS ARE MADE TO SOLVE THE MYSTERY
GOULD
HE WAS SHOT BY SOMEONE, FROM A WINDOW TWO ROOMS DOWN FROM THE SIGN.
THIS MAN HAD RENTED A ROOM TO THE LEFT OF THE SIGN. THE PARTY WHO SHOT HIM WAS IN THIS ROOM, TO THE RIGHT OF THE SIGN.
HOTEL
THEN HE HAD STEPPED OUT ON THE SIGN TO PEEP INTO THE KILLER'S ROOM WHEN HE WAS SHOT?
YES. STANDING ON THE SIGN AFFORDED HIM A PARTIAL VIEW INSIDE THE OTHER ROOM.
LISTEN, OLD MAN, WE KNOW YOUR NAME'S LESTER, BUT WHERE ARE YOU FROM? AND WHO SHOT YOU?
UH... ..UH.H.. ...M.U..
WHAT DID YOU FIND IN THE OTHER ROOM, TRACY?
NOTHING BUT THIS BUTTON, BEARING THE INSIGNIA OF THE TRANS-NATIONAL AIRLINES.
THEN WHOEVER WAS IN THAT ROOM WAS EITHER A PILOT OR—HAD SOMETHING TO DO WITH FLYING, EH?
IT LOOKS THAT WAY, CHIEF.
TRANS NATIONAL AIRLINES
LATER THAT DAY, AS POP GAINER SPEEDS MERRILY TOWARD THE FARM WITH HIS DAUGHTER-IN-LAW AND GRANDSON.
NEWS FLASH— THE MYSTERIOUS "ELECTRIC SIGN" SHOOTING OF A MAN KNOWN ONLY AS LESTER IS BELIEVED TO HAVE AN AERONAUTICAL BACKGROUND..
EVIDENCE FOUND IN THE ROOM INDICATES AN EX-AVIATOR OR STUDENT FLIER MAY BE INVOLVED IN THE SHOOTING POLICE SAY.
AS THE NEWS FLASH ISSUES FROM THE LOUDSPEAKER, MITZI REMOVES A GARMENT FROM HER BAG.
TRANS NATIONAL STEWARDESS AIRLINES
THE CAR DASHES ACROSS A BRIDGE OVER A SMALL STREAM ... A HAND SHOOTS OUT....
WHAT WAS THAT YOU THREW OUT OF THE CAR, MITZI?
OH THAT!....THAT WAS JUST AN OLD DRESS ...I...I DON'T.. ...WANT ANY MORE.

I HAVE REASON TO BELIEVE I'VE UNCOVERED A NEST OF SPIES!!
MY ROOMS HAVE BEEN RANSACKED - A SET OF DUMMY BLUEPRINTS HAS BEEN STOLEN FROM MY POCKET -
MR GUMP, THIS IS INDEED A SERIOUS MATTER. DO YOU SUSPECT ANYONE?
YES SIR, I DO! A CERTAIN YOUNG LADY, WHOM I MET AT THE RECEPTION HERE - OF COURSE, MY SUSPICIONS ARE PURELY CIRCUMSTANTIAL -
HER NAME IS MAGDA MALLIS - SHE CLAIMS TO BE THE COUSIN OF THE URAVIAN AMBASSADOR - THAT CAN'T BE TRUE - I KNOW HIS EXCELLENCY VERY WELL - HE HAS NO RELATIVES
IF I AM PROVEN WRONG, I SHALL APOLOGIZE MOST ABJECTLY - BUT, IN THESE TROUBLOUS TIMES I FEEL -
YES, I AGREE - WE CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL - DOES THIS PERSON KNOW YOU SUSPECT HER, MR GUMP?
NO, SIR - SHE HASN'T THE LEAST IDEA -
GOOD!! MY FRIEND, FATE HAS AGAIN PLACED IN YOUR HANDS AN OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE OUR COUNTRY -
WHO WOULD HAVE A BETTER CHANCE TO CATCH A BAND OF FOREIGN SPIES RED-HANDED THAN THEIR INTENDED VICTIM?
BY GAD, SIR - YOU'RE RIGHT!
BUT BEFORE I ALLOW YOU TO ACCEPT THIS ASSIGNMENT, I'D LIKE TO POINT OUT THE DANGERS CONNECTED WITH - SAY NO MORE - I CONSIDER IT AN HONOR SIR!
VERY WELL - I HEREBY DEPUTIZE YOU A SPECIAL AGENT OF THE INTELLIGENCE DEPARTMENT -
THANK YOU, SIR -
NO ONE IS TO KNOW ABOUT THIS - NOT EVEN MEMBERS OF YOUR IMMEDIATE FAMILY - YOU ARE TO REPORT YOUR FINDINGS DIRECTLY TO ME - BEST OF LUCK!

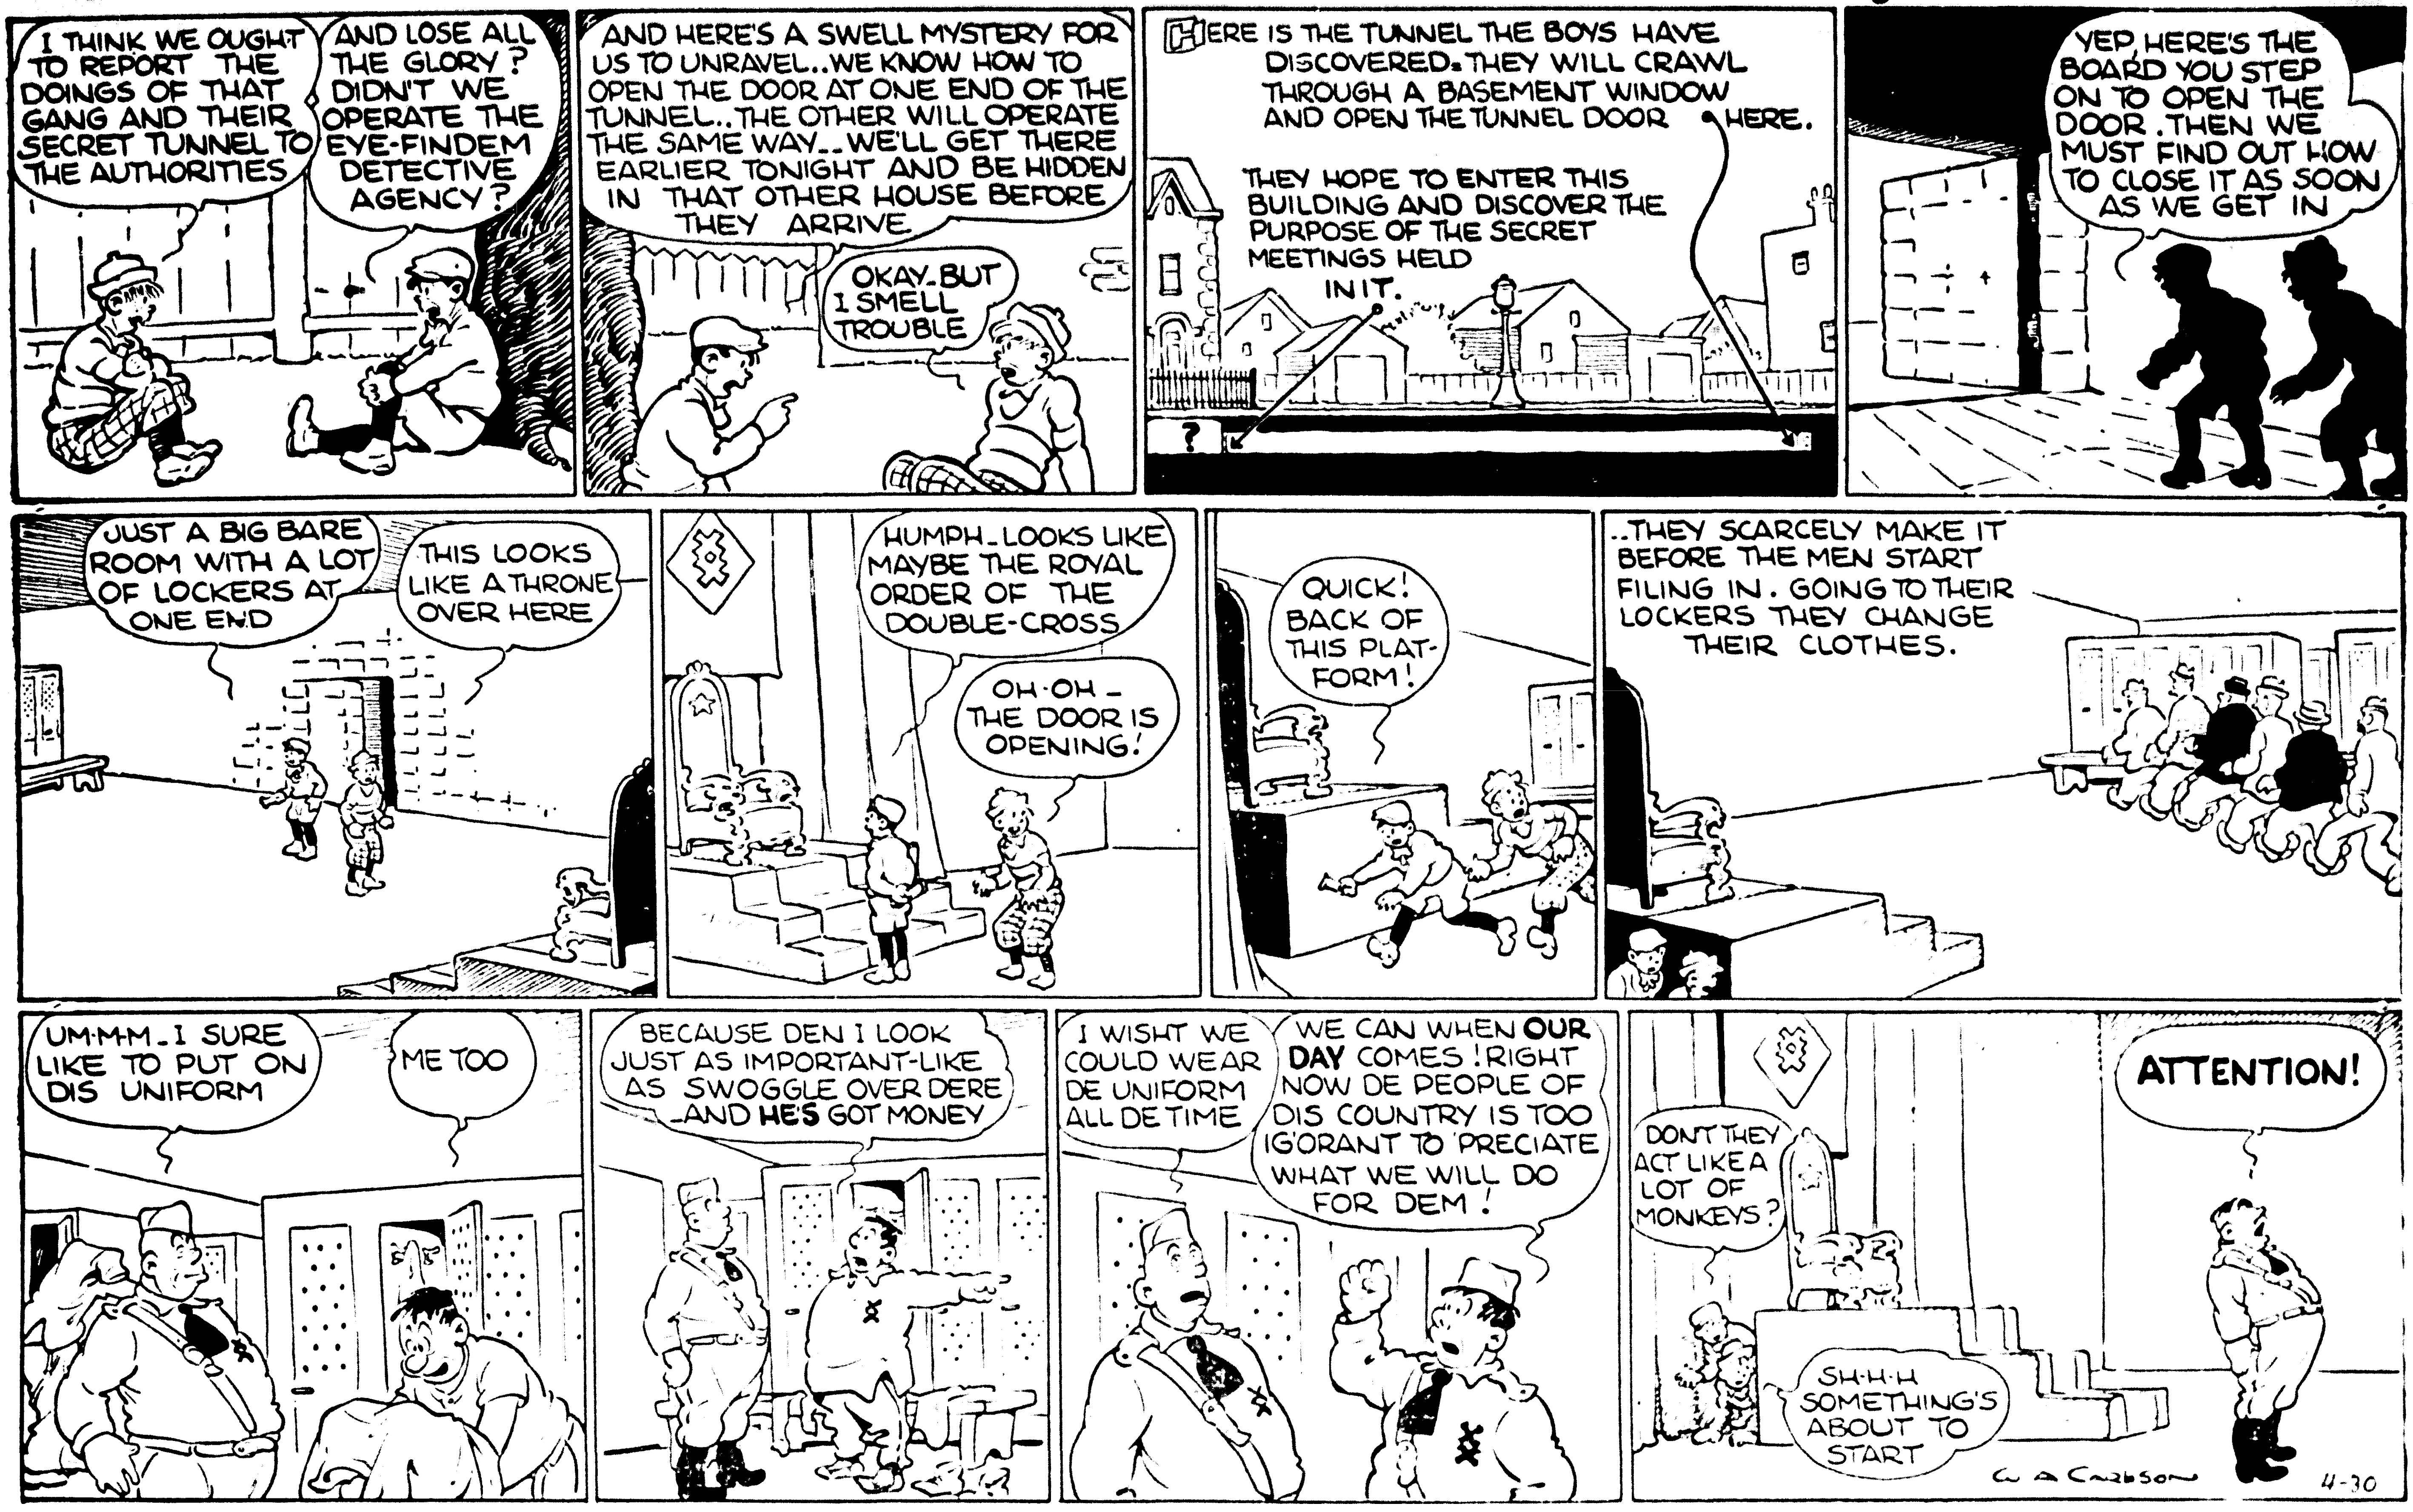
THE NEBBS ◆ The Secret Begins to Unravel ◆ By SOL HESS



I THINK WE OUGHT TO REPORT THE DOINGS OF THAT GANG AND THEIR SECRET TUNNEL TO THE AUTHORITIES
AND LOSE ALL THE GLORY? DIDN'T WE OPERATE THE EYE-FINDEM DETECTIVE AGENCY?
AND HERE'S A SWELL MYSTERY FOR US TO UNRAVEL..WE KNOW HOW TO OPEN THE DOOR AT ONE END OF THE TUNNEL..THE OTHER WILL OPERATE THE SAME WAY..WE'LL GET THERE EARLIER TONIGHT AND BE HIDDEN IN THAT OTHER HOUSE BEFORE THEY ARRIVE
OKAY..BUT I SMELL TROUBLE
HERE IS THE TUNNEL THE BOYS HAVE DISCOVERED. THEY WILL CRAWL THROUGH A BASEMENT WINDOW AND OPEN THE TUNNEL DOOR HERE.
THEY HOPE TO ENTER THIS BUILDING AND DISCOVER THE PURPOSE OF THE SECRET MEETINGS HELD IN IT.
YEP, HERE'S THE BOARD YOU STEP ON TO OPEN THE DOOR. THEN WE MUST FIND OUT HOW TO CLOSE IT AS SOON AS WE GET IN JUST A BIG BARE ROOM WITH A LOT OF LOCKERS AT ONE END
THIS LOOKS LIKE A THRONE OVER HERE
HUMPH..LOOKS LIKE MAYBE THE ROYAL ORDER OF THE DOUBLE-CROSS
OH-OH.. THE DOOR IS OPENING!
QUICK! BACK OF THIS PLATFORM!
..THEY SCARCELY MAKE IT BEFORE THE MEN START FILING IN. GOING TO THEIR LOCKERS THEY CHANGE THEIR CLOTHES.
UM-M-M..I SURE LIKE TO PUT ON DIS UNIFORM

BECAUSE DEN I LOOK JUST AS IMPORTANT-LIKE AS SWOGGLE OVER DERE..AND HE'S GOT MONEY
I WISHT WE COULD WEAR DE UNIFORM ALL DE TIME

YOU MEAN YOU CAN SHOOT A BOW AND ARROW BETTER THAN AN INDIAN, UNCLE AMOS?
HAW, LAD!—A BOW AND ARROW ARE A TOY IN MY HANDS! POSING A CHILD WITH AN APPLE ON ITS HEAD, I REPEATED THE FEAT OF WILLIAM TELL WHILE BLINDFOLDED!
T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
MY GREATEST FEAT WAS TAKING THREE ARROWS AT ONCE AND BRINGING TO EARTH A SIMILAR NUMBER OF WILD GEESE ON THE WING!
I COULD BEND A HICKORY BOW WITH EASE THAT NO OTHER MAN COULD SPRING, AND SEND AN ARROW THROUGH A THREE-INCH PLANK!
I GUESS THAT'S PINKY WHISTLING FOR ME TO COME OUT!
I DIDN'T HEAR ANYONE WHISTLING— SPUT! SPUTT! DID THAT SCAMP WALK OUT ON ME? FUFF! MP!
BAH! TO THE YOUNGER GENERATION! THEY DO NOT THRILL TO THE DARING FEATS OF THEIR ELDERS—
